CAPT. S. S. BROWN AWAITS DEATH SITTING IN HIS CHAIR

Famous Horseman and Multi-Millionaire's Hours Are Numbered.

HOPE IS ABANDONED

MAN WITH MANY INTERESTS

Capt. Samuel S. Brown, multi-millionaire and known throughout the country as an owner and breeder of thoroughbred horses, is dying at his residence on Squirrel Hill. His physician said his patient would live through the night, but his death is only a question of hours, or, at the utmost, days.

Capt. Brown has been ill for over a year, having had two paralytic strokes within that time, and he has also suffered for months from stomach trouble. His present condition is said to be due to a general breaking down of the system. It is impossible for the sick man to lie in bed. When in that position it is very difficult for him to breathe. The patient is compelled to sit in a chair, and as a result his condition has been greatly weakened.

Brothers Hastily Summoned.

Early yesterday morning his physician, Dr. W. S. Foster of 252 Shady avenue, noted the serious condition of his patient, and immediately notified W. Harry Brown, a brother, who resides at 6742 Fifth avenue. The latter went at once to Capt. Brown's residence and soon after reaching there sent a hurried call for his brother's legal representative and business manager. They remained in the Brown residence until late last night.

Capt. S. S. Brown.

Capt. Brown is one of the most prominent manufacturers and business men in Pittsburgh, and has large business interests in this locality. He is president and sole owner of the Brown Hoisting Machinery Company. In addition he is a director in a number of the city banks, including the First National and the Union Trust Company, and has large real estate interests. He is former owner of the Monongahela house, now controlled by a stock company.

Possesses a Vast Fortune.

The full scope of his financial interests, while the fact is not generally known, are enormous, and he is interested in enterprises in all parts of the United States. His fortune runs up into the millions, but the full value of his holdings is known to no one, with the possible exception of his legal representative.

Capt. Brown was one of the most noted thoroughbred breeders and racing men known to the American turf. In many respects he was much like the late Pierre Lorillard, and yet unlike him in that the latter's turf speculations reached gigantic proportions when the chances seemed particularly good, while Capt. Brown contented himself with a modest wager when the event was to him almost reduced to a certainty.

"I do not make my living that way," was his reply when his friend Lorillard asked him why he did not plunge when it looked as if he were sure to win. He bred and raced for the pure love of the sport.

Stood In High Racing Ideals.

D. D. Withers, August Belmont and William C. Whitney, now gone, and Capt. Brown had very much in common in their aims and purposes in turf matters. They discountenanced everything that did not look right, and racing would have been to them as full of interest without the pool box as with it. There is no one of the present generation of racing men whose names stand for so much in powerful influence for the best interests of thoroughbred racing.

Capt. Brown was a man of the widest experience in all matters pertaining to the turf, and his judgment the soundest. He liked nothing better than to take hold of some one connected with the turf and give him a helping hand. In 1902, his western trainer, Robert Tucker, was in a bad way and much disheartened over his lack of success with the string. Capt. Brown went to Chicago, where they were racing, and had a good talk with Tucker. He loaned him $1,000 and gave him some sound advice.

Trainer Made a Fortune.

This trainer followed it and in the fall was $150,000 on the right side. The Pittsburgh turfite then induced him to invest

ALL STATE MONEY MAY BE CALLED IN AT ONCE

Treasurer Mathues Notifies Depositories to Prepare for Withdrawal Immediately.

[By Associated Press to The Gazette.]

HARRISBURG, Nov. 23.—State Treasurer Mathues today sent a letter to every bank and trust company in Pennsylvania which holds a deposit, a portion of the $4,000,000 of the state sinking fund, notifying these institutions to prepare for the withdrawal of these deposits without further notice.

This action is unprecedented. The failure of the Enterprise National bank of Allegheny brought to light the fact that the state has been carrying a debt of $4,000,000 on which it pays 4 per cent interest while the sinking fund, which is sufficient to entirely wipe out that debt, has been deposited for years in various banks at a return of only 2 per cent to the state.

The singing fund commissioners in an effort to liquidate the state's debt have made a standing offer of 106 and interest for all the state's outstanding bonds.

Nearly a half million dollars' worth of them have been purchased within the past two weeks. The board is composed of Secretary of the Commonwealth McAfee, Auditor General Snyder and Mr. Mathues.

CHAFFEE ENDS SERVICE.

Lieutenant General Practically Terminates His Active Connection With the Army.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 23.—With his departure from Washington today for a month's visit to California, Lieut.-Gen. Chaffee practically terminated his active connection with the army. Although he will return here during the Christmas holidays to attend a reunion of his family, it is not believed that he will resume the actual duties of the office of chief of staff, as it is his purpose to go on the retired list shortly thereafter.

Maj.-Gen. Bates, now assistant chief of staff, on the retirement of Gen. Chaffee will be regularly assigned to duty as chief of staff with the rank of lieutenant general.

BURGLARS MAKE RICH HAUL.

Steal $50,000 Worth of Jewelry from Pratt Institute, Much of It Made by Students.

NEW YORK, Nov. 23.—It was reported to the Brooklyn police today that burglars had broken into the Pratt Institute and carried off $50,000 worth of jewelry and other articles, the value of which lies in their antiquity.

There was taken from the exhibition room of the institution a necklace, composed of green stones in the shape of pendants, which was worth $10,000. Another necklace taken was of silver and amethysts. Much of the loot was the handiwork of students of the Institution and has a sentimental value that cannot be computed in money.

"NOT INSANE, JUST TIRED."

Murder and Suicide End Lives of Couple Who Were Weary of This Life.

CLAREMONT, N. H., Nov. 23.—A case of murder and suicide was revealed today when the bodies of a man and a woman were found in the woods near West Claremont. Clasped in the man's hand was a revolver with two chambers empty. It is believed the bodies are those of H. W. Levitt and wife of Newport, Me. A letter found in the man's pocket was as follows:

"Anything that may be found in our pockets, money, etc., please forward to Mrs. Mary Leavitt, Lisbon Falls, Me. Myself and wife have lived together and now decide to die together—not insane, but just tired of life. Goodby to all."

WEEK-OLD FUND REACHES $3,707.80

Local Relief Committee Will Make a Settlement for $2,000 Additional Today.

DAY'S RECEIPTS ARE $326

One week ago The Gazette columns were thrown open to receive public contributions to relieve the distress and suffering in Russia. A fund was begun with $100 by The Gazette. Last night at the close of the first week the net receipts totaled $3,707.80.

Three days ago The Gazette turned $1,500 of its fund receipts over to Albert M. Hanauer, treasurer of the Pittsburgh Society for the Relief of Russian Sufferers. Today another settlement will be made with Mr. Hanauer—this time for $2,000.

The receipts for yesterday were $326, with further contributions coming in at such late hour as necessitated holding them over until today. In yesterday's list of contributions A. Adler of Beaver avenue, Allegheny, was erroneously credited with contributing 50 cents. This contribution should read $1.50.

As further information comes from the scenes of Russian massacre, outrage and pillage, the number of murdered and those made homeless and penniless grows to appalling figures. Food and a place of shelter is the most material sympathy the world can offer, and to supply these fundamental necessities of life the national relief fund in America was created, as were the funds now in accumulation in England, Germany and France. Into the national fund the moneys received by The Gazette and the Pittsburgh Society for the Relief of Russian Sufferers is being poured, and in this Thanksgiving season it is gratifying to note the public support being given this most urgent charity of the present day.

STARTLES SOCIETY BY APPLYING FOR DIVORCE

Mrs. Edward Dudley Charges Her Husband With Maintaining Two Establishments.

[By Private Wire to The Gazette.]

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 23.—Making her plea on the ground of infidelity and cruel treatment, Mrs. Marie Dudley has instituted proceedings for an absolute divorce from her husband, Edward Dudley. Mr. Dudley is a member of the New Jersey bar, with offices at 33 North Second street, Camden. Until last summer he lived at 1723 Locust street with his wife, but when she left for Europe he closed his house, and of late has made his home at the Union league, of which club, as well as the New York Yacht, University and Manhattan clubs of New York, he is a member. Mr. Dudley is reputed to be very wealthy and his Locust street house was luxuriously furnished.

The co-respondent named in the papers is Elizabeth Battelle Vanderpoole, who is described as a tall and handsome blonde, and is said to be a member of one of the oldest families in New York. According to the petition, she has been living at a fashionable apartment house at Twenty-sixth street and Madison avenue, New York, near the Manhattan club, of which Mr. Dudley is a member. The charge is made that her apartment has been maintained by Mr. Dudley.

Mrs. Dudley states in the petition that he is addicted to gambling for high stakes the habit having been the source of large revenue to him for years.

POLICE FIND WOMAN'S BODY WEDGED IN TRUNK

[By Associated Press to The Gazette.]

ALBANY, Nov. 23.—The badly decomposed body of Mrs. John Hammond was found wedged in a trunk in a second story room of her home this afternoon. The trunk stood in the fire place and the body within was heavily sprinkled with chloride of lime. The cover of the trunk was propped open, with the evident idea of having the odors of decomposition escape up the chimney.

John Hammond, the woman's husband, has not been seen for nearly two weeks. He is 25 years old, a cabinet maker. The dead woman was 57.

Whether the woman died a natural death or was strangled or poisoned, remains for an autopsy to disclose; there were no marks of violence on the body, which when found was fully clothed excepting shoes and was doubled up in a sitting posture with the face down upon the knees. The body was bound in this position with a clothes line.

SUICIDE FOLLOWS DUEL.

Cause of Fatal "Affair of Honor" Mourns the Loss of Her Lover and Kills Herself.

MADISONVILLE, KY., Nov. 23.—Miss Mary Ross, a prominent young society woman of this county, took her life today by shooting herself with a revolver.

It is said she killed herself because her sweetheart, Robert Wyatt, was killed in a duel with "Jack" Jones, about a month ago. The young men were both suitors for the hand of Miss Ross and the duel came about through Wyatt's jealousy.

ABSENT WITHOUT LEAVE; SOLDIER IS A SUICIDE

WEST POINT, N. Y., Nov. 23.—Private William R. McClosky of the detachment of cavalry stationed at the United States Military academy, today committed suicide by drinking carbolic acid. McClosky enlisted in Chicago and was sent here about a month ago. He had been absent from the post without leave for several days.

LORD STANLEY IS HOWLED DOWN IN STREET

English Postmaster General Not Permitted to Make a Speech.

GOVERNMENT CRISIS

CABINET LOSES USEFULNESS

[By Associated Press to The Gazette.]

WEST HOUGHTON, ENG., Nov. 23.—Lord Sanley, the postmaster general, was booked for a speech to his constituents here tonight. On entering the hall he found it packed with members of the Labor party and was unable to find a place on the platform. The meeting unanimously passed a resolution of want of confidence in the government. Lord Stanley later endeavored to deliver an address from the balcony of the Conservative club, but was howled down.

LONDON, Nov. 23.—Tremendous activity developed in political circles today consequent on the circulation of a well-founded report that Premier Balfour had decided to bring his ministry to a close and to directly or indirectly appeal to the country. Rumors regarding the resignation of the cabinet and the dissolution of parliament have been thick for three months past, but when two of the leading government organs today, almost in the same terms "suggested" the immediate resignation of the premier on account of the unmendable breach in the Unionist party over the financial question, the "suggestion" was looked upon as having been inspired by Mr. Balfour himself.

Put Two and Two Together.

This was strengthened by the knowledge that prior to the publication of the editorials Mr. Balfour met certain influential persons at his official residence. These two facts, when coupled, led to the belief that the premier had intimated at the conference his intention to resign, and as he had just returned from a visit to King Edward at Windsor castle, it was believed his majesty had been informed of Mr. Balfour's intentions. Beyond this, however, there is not the slightest official confirmation of the report.

All political interest now centers in the cabinet meeting to be held tomorrow at which it is understood the situation will be discussed. Some well-informed persons go so far as to say that Mr. Balfour will go from the meeting to King Edward with the resignations of himself and the other members of the cabinet. Conservative and Unionist papers are in favor of the resignation of the cabinet which will place the Liberals on the defensive in case Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman consents to form a cabinet, but the Radicals say that the resignation will only mean dissolution, as Sir Henry, if requested to form a ministry, would certainly decline to do so until the verdict of the people became known.

Trouble Has Been Brewing.

The Liberal papers point out that while Mr. Balfour may attempt this "tactical move," they are confident it will fail on every side and that therefore the dissolution of parliament is believed to be imminent. There is no thought, however, that a political campaign will be forced prior to the beginning of the year, with the elections somewhere about the end of January.

Forces have been at work inside the party for some time to bring about the present situation. One prominent Unionist recently wrote to the premier asking whether it would be considered disloyal if he introduced early in the next session a resolution bringing the whole fiscal question squarely before the house. He told the premier that the Unionists were tired of being twitted concerning their attitude on the financial question in the last term of parliament, when they repeatedly declined to take part in debates or divisions in deference to the wishes of Mr. Balfour.

Balfour Has Lost His Cunning.

The premier's reply was not given out, but it is understood that in any event the Unionists intended to push such a resolution, which, they believed, would mean the defeat of the government.

The political situation was so radically altered during the past week that even the government supporters no longer argue that Mr. Balfour has a sufficiently united party at his back to again meet parliament with the object of initiating any legislation to the public advantage. The premier's appeal to the Unionists at New Castle a week ago to unite on his fiscal policy has not met with much success. On the contrary, Joseph Chamberlain, the most powerful private member of the Unionist coalition, directly joined issue with his chief by a speech at Bristol, Tuesday, calling on Unionism to rally to the support of his own more drastic fiscal proposals, which include a 50-cent tax on grain.

The cleavage of the party was thus more markedly accentuated, and many Unionist politicians hold that no good purpose could be served by a longer retention of office and that the weakness of the party will only be further accentuated by a perpetuation of the existing rivalries between the two sections.

The Liberals are inclined to resent Mr. Balfour's resignation at the present moment. They contend that the premier should remain in office a few weeks longer and himself dissolve parliament and appeal to the country. The Liberals see no reason why the present opposition should put themselves to the inconvenience of forming a government in the

ORDERS FLEET TO SAIL FOR WATERS OF TURKEY

DEMANDS REJECTED

SERIOUS TURN OF AFFAIRS

[By Associated Press to The Gazette.]

VIENNA, Nov. 23.—Baron von Calice, the Austro-Hungarian ambassador at Constantinople, has telegraphed Admiral Ritter von Jedina for a portion of the international fleet to sail immediately, proceeding either to Mytilene, an island of the Grecian archipelago belonging to Turkey in Asia, or for Besika bay, near the entrance of the Dardanelles.

ATHENS, Nov. 23.—It is understood that the international fleet will sail tomorrow. The foreign ministers today paid visits to the commanders of the warships of their respective countries. The commanders later held a conference on board the Austrian flagship.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Nov. 23.—The sultan today issued an irade approving the decision of the council of ministers to reject the demands of the powers for international control of the finances of Macedonia. Whether the rejection is absolute or conditional has not been definitely ascertained.

Vice Admiral Husni Pasha has started on a special steamer for the Dardanelles presumably with instructions for the commander of the forts regarding the commander's conduct in the event of the appearance of an international fleet.

Similar instructions have been sent to the governors of Turkish islands in the archipelago.

Expects Aid from Kaiser.

LONDON, Nov. 23.—The persistent refusal of the Turkish government to accept European control of the revenues of Macedonia, notwithstanding the ultimatum presented by the allied powers, is about to lead to the putting into operation of the threat of a naval demonstration with the view of compelling the acquiescence of Turkey in the European control of the administration of the proposed reforms in Macedonia.

The obduracy of the sultan apparently is based on the belief that he has the passive support of the emperor of Germany and upon the jealousies supposed to exist among the powers interested. In diplomatic quarters it had been supposed to the very last that the sultan would yield, and even now it is expected that he will do so before the international fleet takes active measures.

It is understood that the sultan appealed vainly to Emperor William, emperor Nicholas and Emperor Francis Joseph against the projected demonstration. The combined fleet of the powers now assembling at Piraeus consists of six large and four small vessels, commanded by Admiral Ritter von Jedina of the Austrian navy. Great Britain is represented by the armored cruiser Lancaster and the scoutship Sentinal, Austria by the armored cruiser St. George and the torpedo cruiser Szigetvar, Italy by the armored cruiser Giuseppe Garibaldi and the torpedo-boat destroyer Ostro, and France by a cruiser and a gunboat.

Sultan Makes Idle Threat.

PARIS, Nov. 23.—Turkey's note in reply to the ultimatum of the powers contains a warning that the action of the powers in resorting to a naval demonstration may precipitate an internal uprising of Mussulmans against the Christian population of Turkey. This is considered to be a threat, as it is known that no demonstration of Mussulmans against Christians can occur unless it has the silent acquiescence of the Turkish authorities.

The answer of the porte as a whole is entirely unsatisfactory since it does not respond to the demand for the extension of the authority of the financial agents of the powers for two years, and is evasive upon the question of the general control by the powers of the financial affairs of Macedonia. All the ministers except the minister of war favored yielding to the ultimatum, but palace influences led the sultan to overrule the favorable attitude of the porte. These influences are regarded as the outgrowth of Germany's abstaining from taking an active part in the naval demonstration. The Turkish reply gives a serious turn to the negotiations.

The powers are said to have agreed as the first part of their procedure, on the seizure of the harbors and custom houses of the Island of Mytilene, the Island of Limnos in the northern part of the Aegean sea and the Island of Tenedos, on the west coast of Asia Minor.

SEEMS ONE TOO MANY.

Twenty-Three Children Object to Will Leaving Whole Fortune to the Twenty-Fourth.

TRENTON, Nov. 23.—(Special.)—Twenty-three children and a number of grandchildren are contesting in the court of errors and appeals the will of the late Charles G. Myers of Cape May county, because it bequeathed his entire fortune of $100,000 to his 24th child, the baby of his old age and the offspring of his fourth marriage.

Myers was a Philadelphia politician who removed to New Jersey late in life. The twenty-three children, et al, claim his will was probated by misrepresentation.

GOVERNOR GETS AID OF LAWYERS

Mr. Pennypacker Is Impressed by Demand for Uniform Primary Election Law.

MAY GIVE SUPPLEMENTAL CALL

THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE BUREAU,
HARRISBURG, Nov. 23.

Gov. Pennypacker is seriously considering the advisability of adding to his schedule of work for the coming extra session of the legislature. The governor is profoundly impressed with the appeals that have come to him, particularly with regard to the enactment of a law for uniform primary elections. It can be stated on good authority that the governor will issue a supplemental call on this subject, provided he finds that he can do so legally. A careful inquiry into the law on this subject is being made by Gov. Pennypacker himself and by eminent lawyers whose counsel he has solicited.

On the results of this research will depend the question of a supplemental call. The governor is convinced by the letters and personal communications that have come to his office that the people of Pennsylvania are largely in favor of a new system of primary elections. He desires above everything else to give the people what they want, and he will include primary elections in his schedule for the extra session of the legislature if it is legally possible to do. There is a marked difference of opinion among good lawyers as to the governor's right to issue a supplemental call, and this point will have to be settled before he will act.

Will Decide Before Going South.

There will be a definite decision on this matter before the governor leaves for Andersonville and Chattanooga on Friday of next week to participate in the dedication of the Pennsylvania soldiers' monuments. Gov. Pennypacker is still receiving personal assurances from senators and representatives of their cooperation in working out the reform program. One of his callers today was Senator John M. Scott of Philadelphia, who assured the governor of his active support in the senate. Senator Scott, who last winter lived with Senator Penrose and other leaders at the Boas mansion, today engaged quarters at the Harrisburg club for the extra session. Senator John W. Crawford of Pittsburgh also called on the governor today and declared his hearty allegiance to the reform program as outlined in the call for the extra session.

Rushing Work on Capitol.

The new capitol is being rushed to completion by George F. Payne & Co. of Philadelphia, the contractors, and there is not the least doubt but that it will be in fine condition for the extra session. The main work on the grand stairway is finished, the elevator shafts are being tiled in white and practically all of the ornamental marble is set. Only the finishing touches remain to be put to the decorations in the senate and house chambers and the rooms are being fitted up for committees during the coming session.

Within the next 10 days 1,200 incandescent electric lights will be installed in the dome of the building. They will be so located as to shed their rays upon the magnificent mural decorations. The lights will be in six tiers. Two will be in the lantern, the technical name for the extreme upper part of the dome. The remaining quartet will be placed at intervals lower down on the different floor levels. The beauty of the dome exceeds anything of the kind in Pennsylvania, and will be a revelation to the public when the building is open for inspection.

PATENTEES OF PARTIES ARE SHOWING ACTIVITY

Four affidavits asserting exclusive right to use a name for a political party in the February election were filed yesterday. They were: Nineteenth ward, Pittsburgh, Lincoln party, J. W. MANNING OWNS MOST COSTLY BOOK

Insurance Companies Pay Him Yearly Salary Just Because He Has It.

LETTER MAKES QUEER CLAIMS

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS TO THE GAZETTE.]

NEW YORK, Nov. 23.—It was late in the afternoon today, when Mr. Hughes, counsel of the legislative insurance investigating committee, called to the witness chair William S. Manning of Albany, referred to in letters addressed to John A. Nichols to Senator C. M. Depew, at a previous session as "the rantankerous friend up the river."

Mr. Manning was the most interesting witness of the day, and was questioned closely by Mr. Hughes as to his connection with life insurance. He detailed his work for various companies for many years, and came gradually to the time when he took up insurance work in Albany and, as he testified, was paid $450 a year by John A. Nichols "to protect life insurance interests, always in the interests of the business, but not in the interests of the officers."

George B. Eldridge, vice president and actuary of the Mutual Reserve, had been on the stand most of the day. Mr. Eldridge admitted that his company had got started wrong and was now paying for its errors. One of the most remarkable points in his examination was when Mr. Hughes read the contents of a letter which had been sent to the governor of a state, then to an insurance commissioner and finally to the committee.

Beats the Endless Chain.

It was written by the holder of a $5,000 policy in the Mutual Reserve Life Insurance Company, which he had taken out in 1885.

At the end of the first five years' period he said he was informed by the company that he had paid in an amount in excess of the mortuary demands and that a bond, the amount of which was not stated, was credited to his account, payable at the end of 10 years. At the expiration of the ten years he said he was informed that such unusual and extraordinary assessments had been made against him that the whole amount of the bond was wiped out. At the end of the second five-year period he was given another bond which he said he still had in his possession. At the end of the third five-year period he declared that he was informed by the company that he owed it $1,309 and that he would have "to pay P. D. Q. or interest would be charged against him."

Mr. Eldridge said he did not see how such a condition could arise. Mr. Hughes gave him the number of the policy and he said he would have it looked up.

It was then that William S. Manning, named earlier in the week as the man termed the "Rantankerous friend up the river," in a letter written Senator Depew, took the stand.

Do you remember the state investigation of 1877?

I certainly do. I acted as an expert there. I found at that time that the reports of the proceedings were garbled and untrue and I saw that something was wrong.

Mr. Manning said that he sent to the official stenographer and demanded a certified copy of the true minutes. He then had the work copyrighted and published. These reports are now scarce, he said. Some of the companies had paid him $50 a copy for them.

Was a Valuable Book.

Mr. Manning said that he had got the corrected report in May, 1877, from Harry Edwards, the official stenographer, and that the corrections of the garbled report were printed in his work in italics. He was asked why he had had it copyrighted and he said that part of the Mutual Life's testimony at the Miller investigation had been copyrighted by Mr. McCurdy. In answer to a question as to why the testimony had been copyrighted, Mr. Manning declined to say if it was to prevent its publication.

He said that the only time he had seen Senator Depew was when he made arrangements to appear as an expert in opposition to the Graham bill before the senate committee on insurance in 1877.

"I might say," said the witness, "that the bill would have ruined the insurance companies."

"When the bill came out of committee," the witness continued, "there remained but a few hours of the senate, and two of the senators took that time up in talk."

Mr. Manning denied that he had ever made arrangements with insurance companies to stop the publication of his book. "I just gave it up," he said, when Mr. Hughes inquired. The committee adjourned while Mr. Manning was on the stand, until tomorrow morning.

CANVASS OF OHIO'S VOTE IS AT LAST COMPLETED

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS TO THE GAZETTE.]

COLUMBUS, Nov. 23.—The canvass of the official vote at the late election in Ohio was furnished by the secretary of state this evening. It shows the official plurality of John Pattison, Democratic nominee for governor, to be 42,647. The total vote cast in the state was 961,505, against 1,028,229 last year. The vote on the state officers follows:

IVORY WAS THE VICTIM, BUT HE PAYS KING'S FINE

Leslie King, who played a practical joke on W. D. Ivory at their home in Glenwood Wednesday night, was fined $10 and costs by Magistrate Negley yesterday morning. When King fired a blank cartridge at Ivory the latter's wife, who was helping King carry out the joke, clutched at her breast, shouted "I am shot," and fell to the floor. The distracted husband summoned a doctor, policeman and most of the neighbors, and was in such glee over the fact that his wife was uninjured that he paid King's fine.

ALL AGITATORS ORDERED SHOT

DISORDERS ARE INCREASING

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS TO THE GAZETTE.]

WARSAW, Nov. 23.—Gov. Gen. Skallon has sent a confidential circular to the temporary military governors recently appointed in the 10 Polish provinces, ordering them to consider agitators and rioters as insurgents and to shoot them down until they are all exterminated and also to disperse public meetings by the use of firearms. In conclusion the circular says:

"You should remember that energetic action regardless of consequences is not only your duty, but also the only means of stifling revolt."

The Russian teachers in the surrounding towns telegraph that they are being expelled from the schools by police armed with revolvers. Agrarian disorders are increasing in Poland. Regular revolutionary bands are marching from place to place burning the spirit shops, schools and administrative buildings belonging to the Russian government. At Radom the peasants are cutting the state forests.

BATUM, Nov. 23.—The assistant chief of police was severely wounded by a pistol shot today. The would-be assassin escaped.

KIELCE, Nov. 23.—Troops are pouring in to reinforce the garrisons in Poland. One additional regiment arrived here today, and two regiments passed Kielce marching in the direction of Dombrova.

ST. PETERSBURG, Nov. 23.—The trial and punishment of police guilty of participation in the massacres will meet with the premier's approval. Today he summarily dismissed the governors of Yaroslav, Estland, Perm, Tomsk, Kazan and Neidyart and the prefect of Odessa.

MOSCOW, Nov. 23.—By a scanty majority of 20, the zemstvo congress today accepted the first sections of the resolution drafted by the executive committee declaring the solidarity of the congress with the principles of the imperial manifesto of October 30, and assuring the government of the support of the great majority of zemstvos and municipalities in carrying into effect the liberties promised by the manifesto, but laying down as the sole means of guarantee the authority of the douma and restoring order in the country the election of representatives by a general, direct, equal and secret ballot and the formal grant to the first douma of the power to elaborate a constitution for the empire.

The friends of Count Witte on the floor made a stout fight against the provision for a direct ballot, the one concession which the premier considers it impossible to grant, but this provision was carried over their heads by a two-thirds majority.

LAW'S TECHNICALITY CAUSE OF CONFUSION

State Board of Health Must Know Full Name of Y. Uta.

The bureau of health, the West Penn hospital, and especially Undertaker James M. Fullerton are up against a technicality in the state law which makes it compulsory for the full name of a dead person to be returned. Fullerton has buried a Japanese under the name of Y. Uta, but this is not sufficient and he must find out, under the law, what "Y" stands for. For instance, if J. Smith should die, the undertaker must know that it is John Smith who is dead, and comply with the law accordingly.

In the present case Dr. A. M. Stevenson of 2033 Wylie avenue reported to the bureau of health that James Brown, a Japanese, was ill of typhoid fever at 103 Washington street. The case was investigated and it was learned that the patient boarded with Mrs. Brown and that his name was Y. Uta. Under this name he was taken to the hospital, and died without regaining consciousness. It was learned that he was employed at the Frick building as a janitor for $9 a week, had been in this country nine months, coming from New York six months ago, and that he was a Protestant; but it was not learned what "Y" stood for.

When Fullerton asked for a burial permit he was met with that section of the law regarding the full name. Finally Superintendent Moore permitted the burial, but held Fullerton responsible for getting the full name in order to make a lawful report to the state bureau of health.

dark without knowing what forces will command in the new parliament and they object to what they designate as Mr. Balfour's "political maneuver" whereby the Liberal attack would be turned into a defense before election and Mr. Balfour would be given a free hand to arrange with Mr. Chamberlain for concerted action against the Liberal party.

Declares for Irish Home Rule.

STIRLING, SCOTLAND, Nov. 23.—Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman, leader of the Liberal party, speaking here tonight, said that the air had been cleared to some extent by Premier Balfour, when addressing the National Union of Conservative associations at Newcastle-on-Tyne, November 14, he said: "I am not afraid of the opposition, but of my own friends," and by Joseph Chamberlain at Bristol, when he said, "Away with all lame ducks and blunt swords."

The Liberals, said Sir Henry, might have had sympathy for Mr. Balfour if they knew his policy, but no one knew it that policy was to deliver the Conservative party from or to Joseph Chamberlain.

Sir Henry plainly outlined his attitude toward home rule for Ireland. He said that the only way to heal the difficulties of the Irish government and to make Ireland strong instead of weak was to give the Irish people the management of their own domestic affairs. Opinions regarding Ireland in this respect were becoming stronger.

HOSE WAGON IS DITCHED GOING TO LABRATORY FIRE

The laboratory building of the Firth Sterling Steel Company near McKeesport was destroyed by fire yesterday morning with a loss of about $1,000. An alarm was sent to the McKeesport fire department and one company was sent. Owing to fog and the lack of lamps along the road leading to the works the hose wagon was thrown over into a ditch.

Trains Collide in Fog.

CHICAGO, Nov. 23.—During a dense fog today a gravel train and a work train on the Baltimore & Ohio railroad came together in a head-on collision one mile from Albion, Ind. According to the statements of the Baltimore & Ohio officials in this city two men were killed, the fate of two others is in doubt and four were injured. The dead are Engineer Odenkirk of the work train and an unknown Italian laborer. J. M. Cross, brakeman, and Fireman J. C. Deitch of the gravel train are missing.

Revival Causes Bible Famine.

The central committee in charge of the simultaneous revival being conducted by the 43 Christian churches of Western Pennsylvania, telegraphed to New York yesterday for more Bibles. Pittsburgh dealers have sold their full supply of the standard revised Bible as used by the denomination. Each convert since the revival opened has been presented with a Bible, and 1,442 books have been given out.

MISS SCHENLEY ARRIVES TO SEE MOTHER'S OLD HOME

To View Homestead Saturday and Wants to Try the Pittsburgh Golf Links She Has Heard So Much About.

Miss Hermione Schenley of England arrived in Pittsburgh last evening. Miss Schenley came from New York on the Pennsylvania limited, reaching East Liberty station at 9:26 o'clock, where she was met by John W. Herron, agent for the Schenley estate. She was driven directly to her apartments in the Hotel Schenley. Her rooms compose the corner suite overlooking Schenley park, which was given to Pittsburgh by her mother, Mrs. Mary Schenley.

In an interview last evening Miss Schenley said she had come to Pittsburgh to see her mother's old home, and that she had no business in view. Miss Schenley is accompanied by her nephew, Capt. Edward R. Harbord of the Cheshire regiment of the English army. He will return with his aunt on the new Cunard steamer, leaving New York on December 16. During their stay in New York Miss Schenley and Capt. Harbord had apartments at the Holland house and were not the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Carnegie, as has been stated. However, they were entertained by Mr. and Mrs. Carnegie at their home in Fifth avenue. Miss Schenley is enthusiastic over this, her first visit to her mother's old home.

Miss Schenley expects to rest today and will receive her relatives in her apartments. Numerous social affairs have been spoken of for the visitor, but only one date has as yet been set. That is for Mrs. John W. Herron's reception at the Golf club on Monday afternoon, when Miss Kate Cassatt MacKnight, a cousin of Miss Schenley, who will later entertain for the guest, will receive with the hostess and her guest of honor. The hours are from 3 o'clock until 5. Mr. Herron has planned to take Miss Schenley out the Morningside road to see the old Schenley mansion on Saturday morning. Further than this no schedule has been made out. Miss Schenley has a delightful personality, with all the English woman's charm of manner and bearing. She is a golf enthusiast and said last night that she hoped soon to try Pittsburgh golf links, of which she had always heard great praise. She is also fond of photography, and numbers among her most recent photographs snapshots of the waves as they came up over the edge of the Coronia. In concluding her interview Miss Schenley said: "Please say that I have had sunshine ever since I arrived."

CAPT. BROWN AWAITS END

George Odom, the jockey, could not get a mount after his accident, for trainers and owners thought he was afraid to get into the field when there was a number of starters. The result was that the field would gain such an advantage in getting away from the post that his mount had to be pounds the best for him to make up this loss and win. Capt. Brown took hold of him and gave him his chance and the boy got his courage back. Odom seemed grateful and refused offers of owners who tried to get him away from Capt. Brown. It was not till Odom lost the Saratoga special on Broomstick, the race being won by John E. Madden's Aristocracy, that they parted company. Capt. Brown was very angry and said:

Premonition of Death.

As if by premonition, Capt. Brown said, after the death of William C. Whitney, a part interest in his race horses to his brother, W. Harry Brown. This was done so that in case of his death the stake engagements of his horses would not be invalidated, as was the case with the Whitney horses. A stake nomination becomes void on the death of the nominator.

Capt. Brown was the owner of the Kentucky Racing association track at Lexington, on which a very successful race meet was held last spring. The main purpose of the purchase of the track was, however, to provide a safe track for training, and where weeding-out sales could be held in the spring. The Pittsburgh millionaire turfite is a large stockholder in the Saratoga Racing association and took much interest in the rejuvenation of the sport there. He was also interested in the Memphis track. Capt. Brown was a powerful member of the American Turf association, and in connection with E. Corrigan was fighting the Western Turf association.

Proud of His Lexington Farm.

It was perhaps in his great breeding farm at Lexington in which he took the most interest. He named it after his famous race mare Senorita, and called it the Senorita stud. The mare was a peerless queen of her day and now a noted matron at the farm. The Senorita stud has as neighbors such brood farms as those of J. B. Haggin, James R. Keene, Clarence Mackey and of John E. Madden.

It was Troubadour who first brought Capt. Brown into prominence on the turf. He was the king in his time and defeated such good ones as the Dwyers' Miss Woodford. The historic battle between these two in a match race is one of the annals of the turf. Garrison rode Troubadour and McLaughlin the mare. When the latter was beaten her jockey gave way to tears after dismounting.

Among his turf stars were: Troubadour, which won the Suburban handicap in 1886; Blue Wing, second in the Brooklyn handicap, being nosed out by Dry Monopole; Broomstick, winner of the Brighton handicap, in which he established a new world's record for 1¼ miles, 2:02¾, also a winner of the Great American Juvenile and Travers' stakes; Audience, winner of the Kentucky Oaks and the Tennessee Oaks, and Proceeds, winner of the Competition stake and the Tennessee derby.

Bred Other Famous Horses.

He bred Daily America, which won the Realization stakes. He owned Hyphen, the best 3-year-old of his year until he went wrong; Garry Herrmann, Martie Lewis, River Pirate and Broadcloth. His best 2-year-old in 1905 was Accountant.

Capt. Brown has a great string of royally-bred 2-year-olds coming on. Among the number is the black filly by Sir Dixon and Reckon. For the latter brood mare he paid $17,500. It is likely the racing properties and horses will be disposed of, as W. Harry Brown, his brother, does not care for racing.

Capt. Brown is about 64 years of age. His wife died a number of years ago and his only relatives are his brother, W. Harry Brown of Pittsburgh, and a daughter-in-law, Mrs. Grace Brown, the widow of his son William. She resides at Princeton, Ky. Recently Capt. Brown erected a beautiful home in the Squirrel Hill district, and he has occupied this only a few months.

BARON ROSEN IS SURE OF FUTURE OF RUSSIA

[BY PRIVATE WIRE TO THE GAZETTE.]

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 23.—Before one of the largest and finest audiences which has ever graced a meeting of the American Academy of Political and Social Sciences, Baron de Rozen, Russian ambassador at Washington, delivered his first public expression since the czar granted a constitution to Russia and thus revolutionized the affairs of the mighty empire.

Baron Rosen was presented by Prof. L. S. Rowe of the University of Pennsylvania. The baron said in part:

Our gracious sovereign's manifesto opening to the Russian people the gates of freedom never to be closed again, is an event deeply affecting the future of a country equal in size to one-sixth part of the inhabitable globe and the destinies of one-tenth part of the human race. By the side of the liberation of the serfs this is the greatest, noblest, the most magnanimous act ever accomplished by a Russian sovereign. It has assured to the Emperor Nicholas II. an immortal name in the annals of history and will have earned him when the passions of the hour shall have calmed down, the undying gratitude of the Russian people.

The task committed by his majesty to his government is one of appalling difficulty. It could not have been confided to better hands. But its successful accomplishment is possible only with the unwavering, energetic and unreserved support of all those elements in the nation, who stand for liberty as well as for law and order. And this support, I feel assured, will not be lacking to the great statesman who has so courageously undertaken the herculean task committed to him by his sovereign's confidence. Nor will be lacking to him that moral support which lies in the sympathy of right thinking people in all civilized lands.

ice L. Avner, secretary, sent the following letter of appreciation to The Gazette yesterday, which shows that Pittsburghers have contributed $25,000 to the Russian cause to date.

The Pittsburgh Gazette, Pittsburgh, Pa.:

Gentlemen—I wish to thank The Gazette for the broad humanitarian spirit it has shown in volunteering its invaluable services in behalf of the Russian sufferers, and for the splendid moral and material assistance it has rendered the cause of humanity. In other cities, especially in New York and Philadelphia, the papers generally, with one accord, took up this work, and have devoted page after page to the Russian catastrophe, which is far greater than the Johnstown flood or the Galveston tidal waves, and gave vivid descriptions of the scenes of horror, of murder, rapine and loot, which make some of the accounts of the so-called barbaric ages pale by contrast.

The board of alderman in New York and the city councils in Philadelphia both asked President Roosevelt to waive diplomatic usage and intercede with the Russian government, not knowing, of course, that the Russian government itself was impotent at that time; that Count Witte was doing everything in his power to stop mob rule and bring about an era of law and order for the protection of all citizens of Russia, irrespective of religion, by establishing a stable government.

It looks as though the star of liberty had intoxicated the Russian people. A dying bureaucracy, suddenly seeing itself cut off from its sources of income, mislead the poor moujiks and used the police and Cossacks to lead the mob to kill—in riot and internecine warfare, with the ultimate object of obtaining the loot for itself.

In New York and Philadelphia citizens of all religions and all creeds have contributed largely, and in Philadelphia Archbishop Ryan gave $500 and appealed to the people to give as liberally as possible. The committee of permanent relief in Philadelphia took matters up, and good sized sums have been raised in these cities.

The efforts of The Gazette and the chamber of commerce are highly appreciated, and it is to be hoped that response already shown will be a stimulus in reaching the final figures who will show Pittsburgh's contribution to this urgent cause. So far as we know, Pittsburgh has contributed $1,000 through the Rev. Dr. Levy's contribution, which was sent before the extent of the calamity was known, and $8,000 has been forwarded by the local committee, collected by it and through The Gazette. This makes $9,000, to which we presume we might properly add the donation of Andrew Carnegie of $10,000; of H. C. Frick of $5,000, and Henry Phipps of $1,000, which sums were given direct to the national fund headquarters. Considering all this money as coming from Pittsburgh, this city has contributed $25,000 to date.

The money collected is sent through the Rothschilds to the British consuls in various parts of the Russian empire, and disbursed by them under the direction of that great Russian philanthropist, Baron Horace Guinzburg of St. Petersburg. This money is distributed according to the needs of the people, irrespective of religious belief.

The Gazette, with its wide grasp of public efforts, readily saw that these Russian massacres, riots and disorders were a great calamity, and with a generous spirit and commendable enterprise volunteered its services to help raise funds to shelter those suddenly deprived of homes, to clothe the naked and feed those who no longer had means of sustenance. Upon behalf of the national committee, as well as the local committee having this collection in charge, and of which I am a humble instrument, I sincerely thank you. Yours respectfully,

ALBERT M. HANAUER, Treasurer.

REWARD HEROIC DOCTOR.

MEMPHIS, Nov. 23.—Dr. Heber Jones, president of the Memphis board of health, was today presented with a purse of $10,000 subscribed by a large number of citizens in appreciation of his successful efforts in maintaining a prohibitive quarantine during the recent yellow fever epidemic.

It was generally understood that Dr. Jones was compelled to forego a large private practice by the exacting duties of his office.

LIFE'S SAVINGS ARE GONE.

Robbers Secure $875 Cash from Trunk in Bodine's Home.

The savings of a lifetime, amounting to $875, were stolen from John Bodine, 1820 Manhattan street, Allegheny, yesterday afternoon. County Detectives Kohen and O'Brien are looking for two Italians who were seen about the house shortly after the robbery. Two gold watches, a chain and three rings worth $125, were also stolen.

The Bodines keep a small store and their living rooms are on the floor above it. The money stolen was in a trunk in a room upstairs. The robbers broke a padlock off a door to effect an entrance. Mrs. Bodine saw them hurrying away, but before she discovered the robbery they disappeared.

ATTACKS THIEF WITH ARMY SABER

FIVE HOMES ARE ENTERED

While two policemen imbibed buttermilk and swapped yarns at Duncan's milk depot and swapped yarns at Duncan's milk depot morning, a bold negro burglar entered four houses, ransacked three, attempted the entry of a fifth and made his escape from one of his proposed victims, narrowly escaping being impaled upon an army saber.

About 1:30 o'clock Dr. H. O. Beattie of 6920 Station street was awakened by the flash of a match in his bed room. He started up and saw a man standing near the dresser. Leaping from his bed the doctor grasped an army saber which hung on the wall and made for the intruder, who tore down stairs and out of the house, escaping in the darkness.

About 4:30 o'clock Mrs. R. C. Leslie, who rooms with Mrs. John Ward of 229 Sheridan avenue, was awakened by the striking of a match in her room, and while attempting to get to a window to alarm the neighborhood, was seized by the intruder, whom she described as a negro, stockily built. She was forced to remain in the room while the man made his escape. In her efforts to get the window open Mrs. Leslie broke the glass and her cries and those of Mrs. Ward, who had awakened and run out on the porch roof, aroused a neighbor who blew a police whistle. Two policemen, one a negro and the other white, emerged from Duncan's milk depot and coming to the pavement asked a passerby where the sound came from, but concluding that there was nothing doing, returned to their refreshments.

When John Elder awoke Wednesday morning he discovered that his trousers had been rifled of $18, the burglar gaining an entrance by a window and departing through the front door without alarming the household.

About 5:30 o'clock Mrs. John McNally of 5912 Rural avenue was awakened by the noise of someone moving about the room and she saw a negro approach the foot of the bed and grasp Mr. McNally's trousers. Fearing that if she should awaken her husband he might be injured, Mrs. McNally remained quiet until he left the room, when she awakened her husband and told him what she had seen. Mr. McNally jumped from his bed and ran to the stairs down which the negro was hurrying and called to him to halt. In the meantime Mrs. McNally had hoisted a window and was calling for help. The negro had prepared for a hasty exit by opening both front and back doors, and ran out the front door, pursued by Mr. McNally. The negro darted over the side of the porch and ran through the rear of the lot, rifling the trousers as he ran.

Mr. McNally, seeing the futility of pursuing the man, returned to the house and telephoned for the police. Officers Corbett and Lynch arrived, but failed to find any trace of the thief. The trousers, rifled of $34, were found in the back yard.

The same morning A. McCracken, who lives next to McNally, discovered marks of a jimmy on his dining room window, and found the window had been raised four inches, though an entrance had not been effected.

All the burglaries occurred within a radius of four squares and were evidently the work of a very bold thief, as in two cases he was detected and chased, yet continued his efforts until approaching daylight called a halt.

HOLDS TO HIS BARGAIN.

Two Industrial Concerns Want the Same Piece of Real Estate in McKeesport.

McKeesport is to get another industrial plant, but will also lose one. The new plant is to be built on ground recently purchased by N. L. Curry of Pittsburgh, who is heavily interested in the Port Vue plant of the McKeesport Tin Plate Company. Mr. Curry has been made an offer for the 50 acres purchased in the Eleventh ward by Gilbert F. Myer, acting for the officials of another corporation, but the offer was refused, as a result of which Mr. Myer stated the company will leave the district. It is believed that the company represented by Mr. Myer is the Demmler Tin Plate Company.

Mr. Curry was offered a bonus for the property but he would not consider it, stating that $5,000 an acre would be no inducement. Mr. Curry paid from $2,300 to $3,000 an acre for the property. He refuses to state the nature of the proposed plant.

Returns from European Tour.

The Rev. E. M. Wood, former pastor of the Asbury Methodist Episcopal church, Forbes and Murray avenues, Squirrel Hill, has returned home after an extended tour of Europe as the guest of H. J. Heinz. They left here in July and visited points of interest in England, Scotland, Ireland, and various countries and cities on the continent. During the Rev. Mr. Wood's absence conference met and appointed a new pastor to the Asbury church, the Rev. Mr. Wood being assigned to the Lemington avenue congregation.

BATTERY B GETS FOUR NEW GUNS

Famous Local Command Will Be Equipped With the Latest Modern Field Pieces.

CHANCE OPEN TO RECRUITS

Hampton Battery B, National Guard of Pennsylvania, has been furnished with a complete new equipment by the United States war department. Four new field pieces of the latest design, with gun limbers and caissons, have been shipped from the government arsenal at Rock Island, Ill., and will arrive at the battery's armory in Everett street, East End, next week.

The Pittsburgh organization is one of the first militia batteries in the country to be thus honored. The present 10.2-inch guns which were used in the Porto Rican campaign in the Spanish-American war will be returned to the government. The celebrated piece which was aimed on the Spanish fortifications in the mountains above Ponce and which was charged ready for the gunners to pull the lanyard, when the news of the protocol was received, will be lost to Pittsburgh. It was cherished by the cannoneers as a sacred memento of the stirring scenes in their tropical experiences.

The new pieces are of the Eckhardt pattern, design of 1902. Each has a bore of three inches and greatly exceeds the older type in velocity, accuracy and penetration. Its range is equal to that of any field artillery in use in any modern army.

The officers of Battery B were taken by surprise when they received word from Adj.-Gen. Thomas J. Stewart yesterday that the new guns were coming, and all the members of the organization are jubilant that they were given the preference over other batteries in the state. The arrival of the guns will be signalized by a new drill code and new field maneuvers.

"It's really a very nice compliment to us," said Capt. William T. Rees yesterday. "We are pleased that we have been awarded such an early opportunity to use the new gun, and I shall at once take steps to introduce the new drill regulations. This will add zest to our drills and leaves the way open for us to recruit the battery up to its maximum peace strength. We want a few more good men—we will have no others. The men in the battery take a pride in their organization, and we have room for some good, sturdy patriots of this sort."

HOLD COMMUNION.

Ministers and Elders Partake of Sacrament at Second Presbyterian Church.

The sacramental address by the Rev. Thomas M. Thompson, D. D., pastor of the Sharpsburg Presbyterian church, who took as his theme, "Complete in Him," and the administering of the sacrament of the Lord's supper last evening, closed the day's services of the conference of the ministers and elders of the Presbyteries of Pittsburgh and Allegheny held in the Second Presbyterian church on Eighth street. The week's session will close with the services today under the general subject of "Our Comforter."

At the service yesterday at 11:30 a. m., the Rev. Allan D. Carlisle, D. D., pastor of the Tabernacle Presbyterian church, preached on "The Necessity of Atonement." The Rev. T. Ross Paden of Westminster church, Allegheny, preached at 2:30 p. m., on "The Cross and Contrition," impressing upon his audience the great ned in the Christian life of a deep, abiding sorrow for sin. The prayer service and conference at 3:30 p. m., on "Redeeming Love and Motive of Personal Work," was lead by the Rev. Herbert Hezlep, pastor of Hazelwood church, and by the Rev. J. P. Calhoun, D. D., chairman of the committee, who until yesterday was unable on account of illness to attend the sessions.

OAKMONT CHURCH DISPUTE.

Installation of Gymnasium Apparatus Causes Dissertion Among Members.

There is dissension among the members of the First United Presbyterian church at Oakmont over the installation of gymnastic apparatus in the dining room of the church building, for the use of the boys and young men of the congregation. The plan, it is stated, was proposed by the Men's club of the church and adopted, by a close vote, by the trustees.

The Rev. Mr. Butler, pastor of the church, favors the plan, but two of the trustees, the majority of the session and a portion of the congregation, it is stated, are opposed to it. Some weeks ago, about $200 worth of apparatus was ordered and is now being installed in the dining room, in the basement of the church building.

RUNAWAY TEAM SMASHES MUCH GLASS AND CHINA

A team owned by W. C. Bradley of Bellevue ran away early yesterday morning, and one of the horses, valued at $700, was so badly injured it had to be shot. The team broke a $200 plate glass window in the Harley Drug store and smashed $100 worth of china in their flight. G. F. Frotzman, who was with Mr. Bradley, was slightly bruised. Mr. Bradley was not injured. The horse that was shot had a record of 2:18.

Jewish Thanksgiving Services.

In commemoration of the 250th anniversary of the settlement in the United States of the Jews, special Thanksgiving services will be held by the United Hebrew congregation on Saturday next. The first service will be held at 8 a. m., at Beth Jacob synagogue, Franklin and Townsend streets, and in the afternoon at 3 another service will be held at the Washington Street synagogue. Rabbi Aaron M. Ashinsky will speak at both services, taking for his subject, "Jews in America."

The Garden of Canada.

The waters of "St. Catharines Well" are of the mineral saline order and a great specific for rheumatism, gout, neuralgia, or a splendid tonic for those affected with nervous prostration. The use of the waters is accompanied by massage, electricity, etc., given by skilled attendants. Situated on the southern slope of Lake Ontario, the climatic conditions and environment are excellent for recuperating. This region is known as the "Garden of Canada," and a happy hunting ground for health or pleasure-seekers. Guard against the ills of modern life by visiting these famous springs. A Group of Belongings for Men.

The Things in Each Group Being Quoted at a Special Price.

Two of the groups indicate comfort in cold weather, the other is along lines that make one look trim. Take them as an index of our Haberdashery, which is never a moment behind Fashion in introducing new things, and best to very finest things.

Underwear.

Three specials from this store that will appeal to men who have a penchant for saving money. In these specials it will be noticed the names of the makers of the goods are given. Get both eyes on those names, please.

$1.15 a garment—never retails less than $1.50—Norfolk and New Brunsbrick full-fashioned brown merino Shirts and Drawers. Is 35c worth saving on each garment?

90c a garment—never retail under $1.25 to $1.75—American Hosiery Co.'s gray ribbed cotton Shirts and Drawers. You stand to save 85c on a garment.

Silk Lined Gloves, $1.

Silk underclothes are said to be as comfortable as anything that can be worn in Winter, and, on the same principle, silk-lined gloves. They slip on lightly, and the slight but constant friction of the silk keeps the hands warmer than unlined gloves.

A special lot of gray mocha gloves, with excellent silk lining, is introduced today, and the prices are lower by 25c to 50c, according to where you would buy similar gloves outside this store.

Worth investigating, anyhow, and if you don't like them we'll show line upon line of nicest winter gloves made from the least expensive to the very finest.

New Neckwear.

Fifty cents for Four-in-Hands.

If you like that material you'll have to buy of us, for no other store in town has Four-in-Hands of poplin made like these.

Notwithstanding this tie-up on ties, we'll only charge you 50c. They have a dollar look.

They tie perfectly into the swagger long knot.

Ribbons for Fancywork.

Ribbons are always in demand as the holidays approach, as a deft pair of fingers and an inventive mind can turn out some wonderfully pretty things with only a few yards of ribbon and a needle and thread to work with.

The very heavy ribbon selling has left us with several thousand short lengths on our hands. They include all styles, from the domestic taffeta to the highest grade of imported ribbons, such as Satin Taffeta, French Taffeta, Mousselines, Faille, Warp Prints, Plaids, Roman Stripes and Fancy Ribbons. The widths are from 2 to 12 inches. These we will sell out.

Muffs and Stoles of Feathers.

For dress occasions the muff and stole of ostrich or marabout feathers is the proper accompaniment of a handsome gown and wrap.

Coque Stoles, white, pink and light blue, $9.00.

Coque Boas of white, pink and blue, $6.50.

Coque Muffs in the same colors, $6.50 and $8.00.

Marabout Stoles, evening shades, $12.50, $18.00 to $45.00.

Marabout Muffs, evening shades, $25.00 and $36.00.

Ostrich Stoles, evening shades, $15.00, $18.00, $25.00.

Ostrich Muffs, evening shades, $35.00 and $45.00.

Special Values in Natural Color Marabout—

1st—Marabout Stoles, black or natural, $10.00 value for $5.00.

2nd—Marabout Muffs, black or natural, $10.00 value for $5.00.

3rd—Marabout Sets, natural only, $20.00 value for $10.00.

Liberty Silk Neckpieces—

Liberty Silk Stoles, $3.00, $4.00, $5.00.

Liberty Silk Boas, $9.25 to $15.00.

DuBarry Scarfs, plain, Persian or floral designs, $1.00 to $14.00.

Basket and Basket Making.

There are several reasons why we should sell you baskets, all the baskets you use. The principal one is, we buy direct from the makers in Germany, England and Japan, and sell on a small margin of profit. Therefore can save you from 20 to 33⅓ per cent on a purchase.

Another reason is that we carry the largest stock to be found anywhere in the United States, in a retail way, therefore you have unequaled selection.

Another, we keep a number of basket makers at work the year 'round on special orders and designs, something you will not find in any other retail store in the country.

Traveling Suit Cases, $1.25, $1.50, $2.00 each.

Lunch Baskets, 25c, 35c, 50c.

Unlined Work Baskets, 50c, 75c, $1.00.

Scrap Baskets, 50c and 75c.

Automobile Baskets, fitted with all the essentials for carrying and eating lunch or afternoon tea, $12.50, $18.00, $25.00, $35.00 and $50.00.

Stationery and Engraving.

Engraved Stationery is a most acceptable gift, especially when skilled workmanship and fine qualities are combined in the unusual degree of excellence attained in this department.

Extra Fine Values in $3.00 Umbrellas.

Or, reversing the condition, if the cover is of finest silk, in a $3.00 umbrella, the handle is very plain indeed.

Now, $3.00 is a very popular price for umbrellas, especially around the holidays, when people are selecting umbrellas for gifts. We made an unusual effort to get an extra good umbrella to sell for $3.00 this season, and as a result of our success show you a fine new lot today. Never sold their equal under $4.00. There is quality in the cover and a fine handle to boot. Styles for men and styles for women.

NOTE—There is still good choosing in our special line of $5.00 umbrellas.

Friday, November 24, 1905.

Gov. Pennypacker is said to be considering a supplement to his proclamation convening the legislature in extra session if he finds such a course legal. He desires to include legislation for primary elections to make them uniform and to surround them by all the safeguards provided for general elections. This is a subject of great importance and a very desirable reform. As to the legality of a supplement to the call for an extra session, or the power to revoke one call and issue another, The Gazette will leave the question to better legal authority. It is convinced the governor will do what is right.

It is no great surprise to learn the committee appointed last summer to investigate the acquisition by the city of the South Side water plant has never had a meeting. The appointment of the committee was a fub thrown to the South Side whale in the hope of promoting the hump removal bond issue. Sometime the South Side water question will be taken up in earnest—by another administration.

The illness of Count Witte is naturally the occasion of great anxiety at St. Petersburg. The incapacitating of the man at the helm just at this critical time might send the careening ship of state full tilt upon rocks. The Russian premier has been undergoing severe strain for some time, and he is no longer a young man. It is to be hoped he will have an opportunity to put into execution the entire program of contemplated and announced reforms.

Abdul Hamid has practically taken the position that, if pressed by the powers of Europe, he will fight. It is said orders have been issued to the Turkish commanders to prepare for resistance if any attack is made. This creates a very serious situation. Turkey is well-nigh bankrupt and to wage war against the united powers will be folly on its part, but no one can deny the fighting quality of the Turks, or the hazard of pushing the sultan to the limit.

At the end of its first week The Gazette fund for the Russian Jews has gone over $3,700. This is encouraging. The second week ought to more than duplicate this sum. As fast as the money is received it is turned over to the committee, for the need for relief in Russia is of the most urgent description. Children are starving; they face the horrors of severe winter without sufficient clothing or proper shelter. It is truly a case for quick giving.

While now and then we read of postoffices being robbed, figures show this crime is on the decrease, which may be attributed to the department's relentless policy of running down criminals, no matter what the expense incurred. Assaults on any branch of Uncle Sam's service are generally followed by the arrest and conviction of the offenders. Robbing the mails, either by breaking into offices or holding up stagecoaches, is among the "extra hazardous" occupations, and the postoffice department is to be congratulated on bringing about a popular realization of this fact.

Advices from London declare the early resignation of Premier Balfour is expected. In that event the Liberals may be called to form a cabinet. Balfour has long had good reason to appeal to the electorate, but has been strangely backward about doing it. Some have supposed he hoped to delay the crisis until Chamberlain could complete his campaign of education on the fiscal issue. Be that as it may, the demonstrations of the unemployed are a more urgent issue. In a sense they are a symptom of conditions nearly related to the fiscal policy, but there is no certainty that any English party will read the symptom rightly.

Lieut.-Gen. Adna Romanza Chaffee, who practically terminated his active connection with the United States army yesterday on his departure from Washington for California, and will soon formally retire, has had a long and distinguished military career, extending over nearly half a century. Starting as a private in 1861, he climbed steadily the ladder of promotion and did valiant work in the war with Spain and subsequent service in China and the Philippines. During his recent visit to Europe, Gen. Chaffee was signally honored by the president of France, who declared him to be "the ideal figure of a soldier." He has served his country well and earned his rest.

Public Control Best.

Controller Larkin furnishes some suggestive figures pertaining to public lighting. These are in line with the declarations of light companies which are seeking franchises in this city with a view to bidding on the street lighting. Pittsburgh is paying more for light than neighboring boroughs, or similar cities at a distance—some in regions where fuel costs more. It ought not to be so; for Pittsburgh has been liberal in its treatment of the light company.

In some quarters a municipal light plant has been suggested. The municipal ownership idea is becoming increasingly familiar. It is one of the possible remedies. Allegheny has tried it. Municipal ownership, however, is exposed to the risk of dishonest, or incompetent administration. With an eye to the recent administration of the ordinary affairs of this city, it does not look like an attractive proposition. It might be cheaper than paying bills on the present scale and yet be far from the best results in the lighting field.

Under our political system public control is to be preferred to public ownership. Public control provides for the payment of rentals or other compensation for franchises to use or occupy public property, while retaining the incentive to efficiency inseparable from the purpose of private gain. Private ownership is synonymous with progressive methods, effort, economy. Public ownership, even where honestly administered, is usually indifferent and inefficient. In this Pittsburgh case the way looks clear and lies along the line of admitting competition under requirement to pay for the franchises—a requirement that will bind heirs and assigns—together with refusal to extend the franchise of any existing company except on condition that it make the same compensation for old and new franchises.

Fighting at Annapolis.

The trial of an Annapolis midshipman for causing the death of a companion in a fight is likely to throw interesting light on the "code" under which disputes are settled at the naval academy. The old-fashioned and erroneous conception of "honor" which was the basis of the dueling system dies hard. It still survives in certain sections of the south, and, of course, flourishes yet in all its glory among French and Italians and German students though the fatal duel is somewhat of a rarity. In 1900 the International league was organized by Prince Alfonso of Bourbon for the purpose of "setting right in the acceptation of society the sense of the words 'cowardice' and 'courage,' when used in connection with dueling." The French branch of the league has had the support of Paul de Cassagnac, formerly a well known duelist, and was considerably aided in 1901 by the refusal of the Marquis d'Elbee to accept the challenge of the Marquis de Chauvelin. In Germany the prince of Lowenstein has been particularly active in opposing the ancient idea of "honor" which inspired dueling, and has done much personal work among the students of the universities. At West Point as well as at Annapolis this same code of "honor" prevails. Any fancied insult or slight to one's dignity must be avenged with the fists. At other schools and colleges in this country there seems to be no necessity for such a code. There are fights, sometimes, to be sure, but they are rarely prearranged nor are they conducted like encounters of professional pugilists.

The fact that regular instruction in boxing is given at Annapolis has been made the text for some exceedingly ridiculous discussions in the public prints. A knowledge of the "manly art" is not conducive to quarrelsomeness. It is rather a preventive. It is important that our army and navy officers should know how to box. There are emergencies when the art might become exceedingly useful. The "code" at the academies is a survival of the days when dueling was approved in army and navy. We have passed that period. Sometimes as much courage is required to refrain from fighting as to engage in it. "Honor" and "chivalry" are terms capable of more than one definition.

More Food for the Cynic.

A reformed guide from the Adirondacks, who is now trying to lead a respectable life, imparts some information which will be a sad shock to the popular faith in human nature, at least to what has been left of that faith after recent disclosures affecting our fellow men. Who has not numbered among his list of friends some amateur Nimrod who, returning from an expedition in the Adirondacks or the woods of northern Maine, has proudly displayed to the admiring gaze of acquaintances photographs depicting the trophies of his prowess? At least one of the photographs generally portrays the sportsman sitting upon the remains of a huge moose or standing, rifle in hand, beside a "fallen monarch of the forest." Sometimes it is a big bear which has fallen victim to the unerring aim of the hero, some savage brute which has terrorized the region for years until the brave hunter, who had been granted a two weeks' vacation from the office, happened along and sent a bullet through its heart. With what thrills of admiring envy have we gazed upon these pictures, wishing we might have won this glory for ourselves!

Now, if we had only known, this fame might have been ours for $10 a dozen, the photographer's regular charge for such work, he supplying the necessary "properties" for the pictures. The "fallen monarch," according to our reformed guide, is worn almost bald by being dragged so often from the Adirondack studio to a little glen in the rear where the necessary scenery for the woodland picture is in readiness. The "savage bear" is often in need of repairs to keep the hay stuffing in place. In fact, everything needful is provided, down to the hunting togs and the rifle, if desired. The sitter has only to "look fierce, please," for a moment, and the snapshot makes indelible record of his sportsmanship. What wonder if, as G. Bernard Shaw so bitterly asserts, we are becoming a nation of cynics? Whom can we trust when even men rated A1 by the commercial agencies will thus fool their best friends?

Postal Revenues.

Postmaster General Cortelyou's report shows a deficiency of about $15,000,000 in the postal revenues for the year. This is not alarmingly large by comparison with some previous years. There would be no deficiency, apparently, but for the expense of rural free delivery, which, for the year under consideration, cost over $20,000,000. This sum exceeds the deficiency by $5,000,000, but it cannot be said the department would be wholly self-sustaining without it, because it is reasonable to assume rural free delivery has edded something to total revenues as well as to total expenses.

A postal deficiency is not a terrible thing, anyway. The service is valuable to the people. If they do not pay for it by purchases of stamps, money orders and the like, they pay it through the appropriations in precisely the same manner as they pay the cost of maintaining the army and navy. A good many departments of government are not self-sustaining; justice, agriculture, commerce and labor, state—but the treasury department brings in a surplus to meet all demands. Rural free delivery will not be abandoned to make the postoffice department self-sustaining. It will be extended as fast as circumstances warrant. With 148 carriers and a cost of $50,000 in 1898 it has expanded to 32,055 carriers and a cost of $20,000,000 a year—growing like the country.

The Casey Oil Field.

Pittsburghers are largely interested in the new Illinois oil development, known as the "Casey field." John Galey, a producer of widest experience, finds the oil similar to that of the Indian Territory, being without the sulphur of Indiana oil, and the formation nearly the same. The geographical location tends to confirm Mr. Galey's deductions. It is adjacent to the egg-shaped Ozark "uplift" and more likely to be on its northern slope than on the western slope of the Cincinnati arch, which is the key to the Western Ohio and Indiana fields.

If this suggestion proves true it will make some difference in geological calculations concerning the probable location of oil fields. They have ordinarily been found on western slopes. The Ozark lift, however, is different from others. Its axis is almost at right angles with the great mountain chains and it is oval in form, presenting the larger end toward the west. The Casey field developments may encourage exploration around the southern margin also, as the territory fields reach "around the horn." The geology of petroleum and natural gas is a growing science, to which the "wildcatter" is constantly making additions.

For 24 years the Oil City Blizzard has blown on whom it pleases and is as sprightly as ever. The Gazette extends congratulations on the birthday anniversary and the visible signs of prosperity that indicate Oil City recognizes a good thing when seen.

One story has it the Panama commission has spent $60,000,000 on an authorization of $10,000,000. In this count, what becomes of the $40,000,000 paid to the French Company?

The Desirable Happy Medium.

There is not much disposition to deny that insurance is an excellent institution, but, like most things of human devising, it is still imperfect. Two kinds of insurance have lately become prominent—that which did not bring in enough money to pay for itself and that of which the profits were out of all due proportion. A happy medium may soon be reasonably looked for.—Washington Star.

QUIET OBSERVATIONS ON WAYS OF WORLD

By ERASMUS WILSON.

Without something to care for we would feel awfully worthless, and life would becomes a tiresome burden.

You may not feel disposed to agree with this upon first thought, but upon second thought it may occur to you that if you had nothing to do, nor anything to care for in particular, Satan might find something to fill up the void.

Wholesome cares and responsibilities tend to keep us out of mischief, to ward off vanity, and to make our lives more practical.

It is among those who are free from care, and are not sensible of responsibilities, who become worthless, and are a menace to society.

* * *

You know some whose burdens of care are great, yet do not appear to be heavy. Haven't you noticed that these are contented, pure minded, and most humane?

The mother who has an invalid child to care for is usually a practical Christian, and is regarded by her neighbors as a really good woman. Having home cares enough to occupy her mind she doesn't go wool-gathering, nor has she time for gadding and gossipping.

You may think her's a lonesome, wearisome life, but it isn't. Her heart is ever attuned to the human key and her feelings chord admirably with those of humanity in general. That which is dreary to you is cheerful to her. Long watches which would be tiresome to you are restful to her, because love lights and cheers the hours.

* * *

Mr. Quiet Observer:—It is generally believed that people whose wealth enables them to live without doing any actual labor look upon those compelled to work for daily bread as somewhat inferior beings.

Why this should be we cannot understand. We Americans are an independent people having inherited that spirit from the fathers who declared these states free and independent.

While money is a wonderful aid in securing comfort it cannot make anyone independent. Those whose riches have placed them in a set where work is considered a disgrace are to be pitied.

Often dependent upon ignorant servants whom they themselves are incapable of instructing, their wealth cannot procure for them wholesome and palatable food in their own homes, though it is served upon china and solid silver.

Is it any wonder when thus hampered concerning the very necessaries of life that the rich are discontented? To be master of any situation that confronts us and not be dependent upon the aid of any other is the keynote of contentment, which means happiness.

The woman skilled in the duties of actual housekeeping, capable of appreciating what is best in literature and art, possessing that patience and love necessary to make those about her happy, and with sufficient money to live comfortably, ought hardly wish to exchange places with a woman of wealth who lives in society and stops at home.

Greensburg, Pa. MAG.

* * *

You can't always tell by the tone of a letter nor by the tone of voice or manner whether one is bearing a burden of care.

Indeed, those who make a poor mouth, bewail their fate, as they call it, are downcast in countenance, and look weary, are weaklings and can never amount to much.

A practical physician of long and varied experience once said that widows who cling to their weeds, keep the piano locked, use mourning stationery, and carry black-edged handkerchiefs are invalids, and likely to be such all their lives. He always advised them to get rid of such things promptly, for they only fed their morbidness.

So it is with those who take a morbid, impractical view of cares and responsibilities. You may know women who have been left with children to care for, and to assume the responsibility of maintaining a home for herself and them.

And you may know those who cling to the dark and dismal weeds have rarely succeeded, while those who assumed the responsibility cheerfully and resolutely, sung no songs of sorrow, nor made poor mouths, won out.

* * *

Tales of woe are usually told by weaklings, by those who cannot accept a condition, and who look upon cares and responsibilities as visitations of providence, or the cruelties of fate.

Such as these will ever be miserable, they will see all things through a mourning veil, and heaven will be to them a place of tears.

If you could but see behind the cheery veil worn by heartsome, practical women, you would often find conditions that would touch your heart. Nor are these veils of hypocrisy, but of good, practical, common sense, shutting out worry and despair.

Tucked away in cosy corners of cheerful homes may be found suffering invalids that require constant care, and are ever burdens that nought but death can lighten, yet they are borne without complaint, and with a resignation that betokens, heart, soul, and pure human affection.

Dear Quiet Observer:—It behooves me to reply to "Maud Muller" since I do not wish to be misunderstood in my assertion that "A city girl cannot find a country-bred man companionable." Far be it from me to speak disparagingly of the country folk. All honor to the man who earns an honest living, whether it be in factory of field.

Were we to refer to such men as Grover Cleveland we would call them college bred rather than country bred, and as we well know those men are exceptions, and after all they spent but a small percentage of their years on the farm.

Is Grover Cleveland's domestic life happy? We trust so, my dear, since he married a woman of whom our country may well be proud. Was Garfield uncompanionable? Having never entertained him I know as much about that as does "Maud Muller," which is to say, nothing.

We are well aware that Ford City is a town, and strange though it may seem, we did not find it necessary to send our burgess to Washington to ascertain the fact. Fortunately the circulation of The Gazette is not confined to Ford City and Washington. No, dear reader, every morning finds the paper in the homes of many city girls who could not find pleasure in a life with the average country man. Only because their lives have been so different.

Must they pass examinations in Hebrew and Latin? That all depends on the girl? If she has mastered many of the languages and sciences, could she enjoy the company of a man who could only speak the English language, and that incorrectly? If she is entertaining a young man up to whom she cannot look for information on any subject, save one perhaps, his trade or occupation, and on the contrary finds that she is scarcely understood when she quotes a few lines from some favorite author, or is looked upon in wonder if she fittingly makes use of a philosophical rule. Need she then call in the neighbors to decide whether or not he is her intellectual inferior? Or do you think she could, possibly, decide for herself?

Are we free from conceit, are we never uncharitable? I need only say "we should strive to exemplify in ourselves that which we most admire in others."

EAST SIDE MOURNS FOR SLAIN BRETHREN

By FRANK A. PARKER.

[By Private Wire to The Gazette.]

NEW YORK, Nov. 23.—Thousands of Jews, headed by a band, playing dirges, marched through the East Side this afternoon, thus expressing their mourning for the men, women and children of their race killed in the recent anti-semitic outbreaks in Russia. The procession was a prelude to a performance for the benefit of the relief fund, which took place in the Thalia theater at 2 o'clock. All of the Jewish benevolent societies and labor organizations of the East Side took part in the parade. The procession was witnessed by thousands more along the streets through which it passed, and many of the spectators joined with the marchers in the Hebrew chants in lamentation for the dead. All of the banners of the various organizations participating were draped in black. The demonstration was orderly and impressive.

The procession required about two hours to cover the route laid out, and it ended at the Thalia theater shortly before the beginning of the benefit performance. At the theater a new play, written for the occasion, was acted, entitled "The Rioters of Kishenev." Memorial meetings, with the same purpose in view, were held tonight in various East Side theaters and synagogues.

Mr. Hyde Sells More Chattels.

The Fifth Avenue art galleries, 336 Fifth avenue, were crowded this afternoon with a fashionable throng of men and women gathered to see the household effects of James Hazen Hyde pass under the hammer of James P. Silo, auctioneer. The things had been brought to the galleries from Mr. Hyde's home at Bayshore, which he recently sold to Louis Bossert, a Brooklyn lumber merchant. In the varied collection there are 843 pieces, according to the auctioneer's list, but Mr. Hyde's secretary aserts they do not represent one-twentieth of the household stuff; that there is not an article to which is attached any sentimental, art or historical value, and that everything of real worth has been put in storage to fit out the owner's new country home.

Baths Open, but No One Bathes.

The new free bath at Delancey and Allen streets swung open its doors promptly at 12 o'clock today, but there were no takers. The East Side was on parade a block away. The five attendants of the bath gathered on the stoop and tried to impress patrons. But it was no use. The new bath was polished up fit for a king. There are 97 showers and 12 tubs. The women get most of the tubs. Judging from the respective sizes of the men's and women's sections there are about six men to every woman in that section of the city. The men's section on the first floor is equal to the size of the women's and in addition they have the whole of the second floor.

Policeman Has Genuine Romance.

A courtship which had its inception in a daring rescue of the bride from death or serious injury in a runaway on the Coney Island boulevard, in Brooklyn, culminated last night in the marriage of the rescuer and the rescued young woman. Previous to the rescue neither the young woman nor the policeman who rescued her had ever met. The bridegroom is heir to the estate of his father, who died recently in La Grange, Ind., leaving property worth more than $100,000. The couple will go to Indiana on their honeymoon. After a stay of about two weeks they will return to Brooklyn. The bride was Miss Katherine Barrett, 23 years old. Her father is Peter Barrett, a wealthy carriage manufacturer. The bridegroom is August Solgert, a mounted policeman of Jamaica.

Old Relic Changes Hands.

One of the largest real estate transactions of this year was reported today in the sale by Tiffany & Co. of their holdings in Union square. For a price quoted at $2,000,000 they have transferred to the Moss Realty Company the building and lease to the ground on which it stands. The old Tiffany building is one of the well-known structures in this city. It stands at Nos. 11 to 15 Union square. Tiffany & Co. erected the building in 1868, when "Union square marked the northern limit of extensive business activity. Their business then was such that the company used only the first floor and the basement.

Two Wives at Carley Inquest.

The coroner's jury investigating the death of Edward H. Carley, the letter carrier, who fell in front of a northbound elevated train at One Hundred and Seventy-seventh street station last Friday night, brought in a verdict of "accidental death" today. Carley had been married twice, and both wives were in court. Both testified that their common husband was in the habit of falling asleep during the day at inconvenient moments. Mrs. Margaret V. Carley, the first wife, said that Carley told her he would often drop off while delivering mail, and he would wake up to find that he had been walking along in his sleep.

No Certificate for Mr. McClellan.

Developments came fast today in the fight over the mayoralty. In the first place, William R. Hearst's attorneys, it is learned, have obtained from Justice Amend of the supreme court, an order forbidding the issuance of the certificate of election to Mayor McClellan, which would enable him to be sworn in as the new mayor on January 1. It was pointed out by some politicians that unless the contest for the mayoralty ends by January 1 the city may be without a mayor. If the Hearst forces succeed in upholding the order keeping the election certificate from Mr. McClellan, it was asserted, Patrick F. McGowan, president of the board of aldermen, will become mayor under the charter.

Indiana Borough's Great Growth.

The population of Indiana borough at the present time is 6,217. This is a gain of 2,075 since the census was taken in 1900 when the official figures were 4,142. This shows the remarkable growth of 50.1 per cent in Indiana's population in five years.—Indiana County Gazette.

AS CHEESE EXPORTER CANADA OUTSTRIPS US

That Does Not Mean, However, That Our Production Has Decreased.

Consul General Halloway of Halifax gives some interesting facts relative to the cheese trade of Canada, going to show that Canada has outstripped the United States as an exporter of that product. "About 25 years ago," writes the consul general, "the United States was the principal foreign contributor to the cheese supply of Great Britain, but today Canada has taken the lead and outstripped the United States as an exporter of cheese. The following table compiled by the Trade Bulletin shows the imports of cheese into the United Kingdom from the principal exporting countries for the first six months of 1904 and 1905:

Country	1904 Pounds.	1905. Pounds.
Canada	54,882,912	48,790,560
United States	16,669,295	12,514,541
Australasia	8,787,408	8,356,482
Miscellaneous	18,802,569	16,898,883
Total	99,142,176	86,569,462

"The above shows a falling off from all foreign sources of 12,481,744 pounds, or about 20 per cent. This no doubt has been one of the reasons for the recent sharp advance in the price of cheese on this side of the Atlantic. There is no sequential reason why a falling off in the imports of cheese into the United Kingdom in 1905 should cause a sharp advance in the price of cheese on this side of the Atlantic. On the contrary, it should cause a decrease in price, unless the falling off was due to a decrease in the Canadian output. As the Maritime Merchant claims, Canadian and American cheese have literaly changed places in the British market during the last 20 years.

Causes for the Decrease.

"Before entering into the causes for the decrease in the exports of American cheese to the United Kingdom, and the counter increase in the imports from Canada, it is worth while to draw attention to the fact that the British consumers were able to purchase foreign cheese at 2½ cents a pound less in 1904 than in 1890, a fact, in this instance, which contradicts the opinion that the cost of living had greatly increased in the 20 years under consideration.

"The imports of cheese into the United Kingdom in 1904 show that the price of the American cheese is a shade higher than the price of Canadian. This is a pointer going to show that the decreased exports of American cheese to the United Kingdom was not caused by Canadian competition, but was solely due to the fact that the consumption here has so outgrown production, great as the latter is, that the United States has no plethora of the product for export, while Canadian production has so outgrown home consumption that it is forced to seek the British markets for its plethora, and to fill up the place left vacant in that market by the withdrawal of the United States therefrom.

Production and Export.

"In 1900, the latest year for which official returns are available, the production of cheese in the United States—in cheese factories, not including farm production—amounted to 281,972,324 pounds. The population of the United States in that year was 75,303,387. This gives a per capita factory production of 3.7 pounds. In 1901, the exports of cheese—no returns at hand as to the production—from Canada amounted to 224,352,128 pounds. The population of Canada in 1901 was 5,371,315. This gives a per capita, for exports alone, of nearly 41.8 pounds.

"When, therefore, our Canadian friends point with pride to their very large cheese trade in the United Kingdom, as well they may, they should not attempt to create the impression that it has been gained at the expense of the United States. They must export their cheese, or get 'snowed under;' we cannot keep up in production with our increasing home consumption. The increase along in our population since 1900, the date of the last census, is nearly, if not altogether, double the population of Canada, and it seems almost impossible to expect that our cheese production can keep up with our home consumption. Not only must our cheese exports continue to decrease, for the reason given, but our cheese imports are annually increasing to meet new demands, the imports of 1901 amounting to 22,707,000 pounds, being double our imports in 1899, and nearly equalling our total exports to the United Kingdom in 1904."

Wants Supplementary Definition.

The court at Reading, Pa., has given a judicial definition of the term "rake-off." Judge Endlich says a search of the dictionaries fails to disclose the existence of the phrase as a recognized part of the English language, but the court finds it is a slang expression which has gained currency in popular speech, and in the opinion of the court it means "the going over an object with a rake and gathering up the material which adheres to the rake." And the learned judge adds: "Courts take judicial notice of current phrases which are understood by everybody." True, but, with submission to the court, we do not think the learned judge's definition sufficiently defines. What is a "rake" in the sense here used? There are rakes and rakes. Judge Endlich should issue a supplementary definition.—Uniontown News Standard.

One-Minute Sermon.

There is nothing so beautiful as being alone with nature; one sees how God's will is fulfilled in each bud and leaf that blooms and withers and one learns to recognize how deeply rooted in one is this thirst for nature. In living with men one is only too easily torn from this real home; then one's own plans and wishes and fears spring up; then we fancy we can perfect something for ourselves alone and think that everything must serve for our own ends and enjoyments; until the influence of nature in life or the hand of God arouses us and warns us that we live and flourish not for enjoyment, nor for undisturbed quiet, but to bear fruit in another life.—Max Mueller.

NEVER TOO BUSY.

I've never been quite too busy
To go for a romp with you
Through the forest of Transformation;
In the Island of Hullabaloo;
Once there I'm a horse to ride on,
I'm the whole menagerie, all in one,
Contrived for a babe's delight.

I'm an "ellunt" and a "hipposum,"
And a camel and a zebra, too;
I'm a "waxe" that twists and wriggles,
And giggles and hollers "Boo;"
I'm a horse and my loose suspenders
Are lines you can drive me by;
I'm a tossing ship on the ocean,
Where the waves dash mountain high.

I'm a ship on the tossing ocean,
And you are my Captain bold;
And I toss and I roll beneath you,
But my ears they are strong to hold;
And you laugh at the breakers grumble,
And you fear no dire mishap
As your laugh drowns out the tempest,
And your glad voice calls "Ditdap."

I'm glad I am not too busy
At any old time of day
To get on the floor and tumble,
And grumble and growl and play;
To just put aside my paper
And romp when you want me to,
To the Island of Hullabaloo.

I'm glad I am not too busy,
Nor tired, nor slum, you wis,
To stoop when you steal beside me
With you lips held up to kiss;
I'm glad I am not too busy
To romp till your heart is glad;
I am glad that the Lord picked me out,
Dear baby, to be your dad.

STORIES FOUND IN THE LOBBIES

Interesting Happenings Concerning the People Who Are Traveling.

Frank Adams, one of the porters at the Union station, had a lively time last night. Adams is one of the good hustling porters at the station who does not always await some one whom he thinks will throw the coin his way, but he assists any person who may need assistance. Now and then he falls into good hands, as happened last night. At the city end of the station he saw a woman alone with a grip and a suit case, and he made haste to aid her in getting to the train. He proceeded with the luggage well enough until he reached the east end of the waiting room. Then trouble began. There was a sudden yelp from the confines of the grip and Adams made a leap into the air, dropping suit case and grip and landing six or eight feet from the point that he left the floor. Was the grip haunted? Was he carrying a person, probably? or would he be implicated in a suit case mystery? Adams thought of these and a dozen other things in that brief moment. Just then one of the station attendants picked up the grip which the woman was lamenting having been dropped to the floor so suddenly. "Poor little tootsie-wootsie" had such a hard fall!

Then Adams saw that he had not been carefully observant when he had kindly taken the grip from the woman. He saw the ends of the grip were composed of wire screens and inside jostled about the dog that had barked when he saw a couple of dogs a hunter had chained at the east end of the waiting room. The little caged dog was wagging his tail, but was not inclined to be friendly with Adams. The porter proceeded with the suit case, keeping his eye on the dog in the grip.

Wabash Officers Here for Meeting.

Vice President Worthington of the Wabash lines east of Toledo arrived in the city last night from a trip of three days over the lines as far west as Bellevue, O. He was accompanied on the return trip by General Superintendent McMaster, Chief Engineer Douglas, Superintendent Wood and Master Mechanic O'Hearne. The latter two officers came from Canton and Norwalk, respectively, to be present at the staff meeting of the Wabash officers today, the meeting having been postponed from Tuesday because of the inspection trip. Superintendent Van Dusen of the Toledo division will arrive for the meeting this morning. Mr. Worthington and the other officers have been paying particular attention to Columbia, Navarre and other points where there are to be yard extensions.

Information Bureau a Busy Place.

That the bureau of information which was opened in the east lobby of the Union station waiting room is meeting with the approval of the people is shown in the large number of inquiries being made. From 6 o'clock yesterday morning until 2:30 o'clock in the afternoon George Grayburn answered 68 inquiries, and from 2:30 until 10 o'clock last evening Samuel Gray had given information to 116 persons. The men are keeping tab on the inquiries to see to what extent the bureau is patronized. These figures show the cost of maintaining the bureau is well worth while. There is one objection found to it by patrons, and that is it is not well enough situated to be of the service it should be. It is now at the right hand side of the east lobby and is so hidden that people have to inquire where to find it. The station attendants and ticket sellers have to direct the people to the booth just outside the east doors. The booth itself is marked "Bureau of Information," but this cannot be seen except in the lobby. Either a sign inside the waiting room should be of sufficient size to lead people to the booth, or the booth should be in the waiting room. The Pennsylvania officers are again brought to the realization that the Union station is far too small. In the waiting room are now the Pullman ticket office, the news stand, telegraph office and telephone booths, in addition to the railroad ticket offices, while the luggage checking room is entirely outside the waiting room in the east lobby of the station.

Silver Service for Battleship.

Final arrangements for the presentation by the state of Pennsylvania of the silver service to the United States ship Pennsylvania next Tuesday have been completed. The steamer Governor Pennypacker will leave the Chestnut street wharf, Philadelphia, at noon of that day with the governor, legislative committee and invited guests on board, for the anchorage off League Island. The Hon. Henry Godfrey of this city is a member of the legislative committee which will represent the state, and he will leave Pittsburgh on Sunday to take part in the ceremonies.

TO NAME MAN NEXT TUESDAY

Director Harry Moore Says the Police Superintendent Will Then Be Appointed.

HOT AFTER ILLEGAL VOTERS

"It is expected that the new superintendent of police will be named next Tuesday or Wednesday," said Director Harry Moore of the Pittsburgh department of public safety last night, after a conference with Mayor Hays.

"Things are going along well under Acting Superintendent Kennelly, and we discussed the matter exhaustively. Several men are being considered for the position, but a decision will hardly be reached before next week. I can say, however, that a thoroughly experienced man in police affairs will be appointed. No others are being considered.

"The name of Special Officer Robert S. Gray has never been considered and it will not be. A great many men who at one time or another have held positions on this department have been discussed as possible appointees, but they're only guesses. Gray's was a wild guess."

It was reported yesterday that the director and the mayor had a bitter dispute over the superintendency appointment, and that the mayor had doomed Moore's head for the chopping block.

"I was in the mayor's office for some time today and talked things over," said the director, "but we separated without difficulty, and no harm was done either of us."

Yesterday morning the director instructed Inspector R. H. Robinson to make another information against "Honey" O'Neil on the charge of illegal voting. O'Neil was dismissed on Wednesday morning by Police Magistrate Kirby after a continuation of the hearing from last week.

"These cases will be pressed," said the director, "and I did not hesitate to have the inspector make another information against O'Neil. I have determined that these matters are for the court to deal with, and I am going to exert every means in my power to have thorough investigations made. Evidence is being obtained against two other men, and it is probable in sifting the case more men will be implicated."

ANOTHER TELEPHONE ARREST.

Collector for P. & A. Company Is Held on Charge of Conspiracy to Defraud.

Another man charged with being one of the alleged conspirators in the scheme to rob telephone pay stations has been caught. W. D. Dunbar of McKeesport was arrested last night on an information for conspiracy made before Alderman King.

Dunbar is a collector for the Pittsburgh & Allegheny Telephone Company. It is probable that more arrests will be made this week, and it is likely that interesting evidence will be brought out at the hearing next Monday afternoon.

Hawks Have Apparently Flown.

The McKeesport police yesterday received the following telegram from Harpers Ferry, W. Va.: "Please find out if Mamie Hawk arrived there and if she and Curlie Hawk married." The message is signed by James Hawk. The police have not yet made an investigation.

TINY SAILOR LAD WITHOUT NAME STILL CLINGS TO HIS RATIONS

Two 6-year-old boys walked down Sixth avenue yesterday leading a pigmy sailor between them. The sailor was 28 inches tall. He wore a skating cap and his red eyes emitted gushes of tears. His two small guardians directed him to the police station.

"What have you got here?" asked the sergeant.

"What's his name?"

"He's got no name—nothin' but a rotten banana, an' he won't give it up."

"He's a sailor and that banana is his rations," said the sergeant, looking over the child.

"He's a hobo sailor, then," said the boy, "'cause he can't say nuthin', but bawl. We found him standing up in front of the Hancock school wavin' the banana and bawlin' like as if he'd never had no friends. 'Come along, kid,' says I, an' he jes' kicked an' scratched. Then I give him a cent an' told him to go home. He didn't do nuthin' but stand there an' wouldn't give the cent back. Honest, Mister Policeman, I don't think he's old enough to talk."

This was about the truth. The lost youngster certainly was not more than 2 years old and his sailor trousers were scarcely six inches in length. He was taken to the matron's room and given a bowl of milk. This cheered him up and late in the evening an Italian woman from Webster avenue called at the station and took the lost lad home. He still carried the banana.

DISCUSS MISSIONS FOR FOREIGNERS LIVING HERE

The three days' conference on synodical home missions, at which were representatives from 11 synods of the Presbyterian church in the east and west which support their own missions, closed yesterday afternoon at the First Presbyterian church. The opening session was held Tuesday evening at the Fort Pitt hotel, and the subsequent meetings took place in the chapel of the First church.

The question discussed yesterday afternoon were under the general head of "Missions for People of Foreign Speech." The Rev Samuel McLanahan of New Jersey led the discussion of "What Nationalities Are Now Being Evangelized? What Others Ought to Be?" and "The Value of Co-Operation and Uniformity for the Same Nationalities in Different Synods and How to Bring It About, Including the Question of Conferences of the Workers in the Respective Tongues." The Rev. George P. Williams, D. D., of Illinois spoke on "The Best Methods of Organizing and Controlling Missions Among Foreigners, Including Title to Property and Development of Self-Help." On the "Value of Colporteurs and the Best Methods of Utilizing Them, Including Relation to the Board of Publication and Sabbath School Work," the Rev. Dr. W. L. McEwan, pastor of the Third Presbyterian church, and the Rev. H. A. Talbot of Wisconsin delivered addresses. Papers were read by the Rev. W. O. Ruston, D. D., of Dubuque, Ia., and by the Rev. J. B. Donaldson, D. D., of Iowa.

Eighteen delegates and an equal number of corresponding members were at the conference, at which the Rev. Samuel McLanahan presided and the Rev. T. D. Logan, D. D., of Springfield, Ill., acted as secretary. It was decided before adjournment to hold a similar conference at Columbus, O., in November of next year.

Four New Cases of Typhoid Fever.

BURKE-JONES COLLOQUY HAS BRILLIANT RESULT

"You shall have it."

This was the brief colloquy between Superintendent of Parks George W. Burke and Foreman John Jones of the conservatory in Schenley park. The result will surprise lovers of flowers, who, because the chrysanthemum show is over, have feared there would be nothing to reward the visitor next Sunday, but the usual display of greenery, palms, ferns and the regular plant inhabitants of a conservatory in the winter season.

In compliance with the orders of Superintendent Burke, Foreman Jones and his men have prepared a beautiful display of the lovely begonia. The entire wing connecting the palm and the victoria houses is given over to the flower, and while the visitor will not find wing after wing filled with blooms, as during the chrysanthemum show, he will find the conservatory well worth a visit on Sunday.

The main variety of begonia on exhibit is the Gloire de Lorraine, a pink flower. It forms the prevailing color scheme of the masses, and a sport of the Gloire, the Turnford Hall, a pure white flower, is interspersed and massed in large quantities. Groups of the begonia semperflorens or ever-blooming, and of Chinese primroses, combine with the Gloire and Turnford Hall to present a fairy-like scene. The display is even now almost ready for exhibition.

Have Too Many Overcoats.

Walter Moore of Philadelphia, and William Mullery, of 804 Arch street, Allegheny, were arrested yesterday afternoon at Wylie and Sixth avenues. Each had several overcoats in his possession.

COSTELLO SAYS IT'S ALL A BLANK

Chairman of Committee to Deal With Monongahela Water Co. Gives Scheme Away.

OFFICIALS IN QUANDARY

South Siders are going restive. They read that the filtration plant construction is going on so rapidly that the work will be completed before the period stipulated in the contract expires; they know the city promised the South Side filtered water at the same time it would be furnished to the rest of the city and they are well aware that until the claims of the Monongahela Water Company are disposed of the city, under the law, cannot supply filtered or any other kind of water to the residents of the South Side.

When the Fifth avenue hump bond issue election was being agitated, the administration had resolution adopted by councils, appointing a committee to dicker with the Monongahela Water Company for the purchase of its plant. It was shown at the time in The Gazette that the resolutions was not bona fide; that the committee would do nothing and that when filtered water was supplied to the rest of Pittsburgh the South Side would still be dependent upon the Monongahela Company. The chairman of the committee is Select Councilman John Costello. The committee was appointed in June. Mr. Costello was asked yesterday what the situation was.

"It's all a blank," said Costello.

"Has the committee held a single meeting?"

"No," replied Costello.

And thus it stands. The committee, appointed with such a flourish of trumpets, has not met, has not conferred as a committee with the officials of the Monongahela Company to learn the price at which its will sell the plant, but no one knows what meeting may have been held by committeemen individually with the officers of the company. Although it was stated on the floor of councils that the company had violated its charter, nothing has been done.

South Siders are determined to compel the city administration to show its hand, and meetings soon will be held to demand that the price demanded by the Monongahela Company be learned, and, if that price be satisfactory, an election for an issue of bonds be held to pay for the property, or if the price is too high, that some legal proceedings be taken to compel the company to fix a fair price. The mayoralty election will be held in February, when it is expected the administration will have prepared some scheme to cajole the South Siders into the belief that their deliverance from the water monopoly is at hand. It is believed, therefore, the committee will be allowed to meet and, under instructions, prepare a manifesto useful for the election. Just how the administration will dispose of the problem is considered an interesting thing to speculate upon. If it agrees to too high a valuation of the Monongahela Water Company's plant, the voters outside of the South Side will be dissatisfied, while if it does not present some definite program of purchase, the South Side will finally see it is being bunkoed.

NEW COMMISSION IN A QUANDARY

Not Clear Now That It Had Right to Take Over Court House Transcribing Clerks.

AN OLD ACT BARS THE WAY

The new commissioners of tax assessment and revision, under their interpretation of the law by which they were appointed by the judges, have taken over the county commissioners' transcribing room with its many employes, and have put the latter on the commission's pay-roll. Now the commissioners have become dubious as to the propriety of their action. Maybe they will have to give up the transcribing room and its employes.

Even now the commission is not convinced that the county commissioners are not right in their doubts as to the legality of paying the transcribing clerks as employes of the tax commission. Had the commission not already taken over the clerks and had left them with the county commissioners, there would be no difficulty in approving the payroll, for the clerks have done the work they were hired to do and the laws existing seem plainly to make them employes of the commissioners' office.

The act creating the new commission authorizes it to employ men as assessors, who are to assess property in the county. These assessments are to be revised and made equitable by the three commissioners, who are to hear complaints of property owners alleging unfair valuations. There is nothing in the law giving the tax commission authority to prepare duplicates of the assessments. The law says that all other acts or parts of acts in conflict with the provisions of the new act are repealed.

The tax commission is just now studying the following extract from the act of 1861, section 2, which, it appears, the new act does not declare repealed and under which the county commissioners may, if they wish, decide on keeping the transcribing room and its employes themselves, as the extract is not in conflict with the law creating the new commission:

That the commissioners of said Allegheny county in the month of February of each year shall make fair duplicates of the assessments of taxes for state, county and military purposes for each ward, borrough and township, and the director of the poor shall make fair duplicates of the poor taxes for each borough and township, according to the form prescribed by the controller, with a certificate that the taxes charged therein have been duly assessed.

Vaccinate Over 3,000 Pupils.

The three physicians employed by the bureau of health to vaccinate the pupils of all the public and parochial schools and the city completed their work yesterday, having vaccinated over 1,000 pupils each. They report little trouble in performing their tasks, comparatively no interference of parents having been met with.

You Are Paid for What You Do.

The Boss Is Paid for What He Knows.

He draws probably twice as much money as you do—and does less real work.

The worker who has to ask the boss how to do everything remains a worker.

The man who knows how to do it without asking usually becomes boss himself.

The man who learns all the boss knows—who takes other men's ideas and applies them or improves on them—is sure to rise.

The only way men learn anything is from each other. That is why The Workers' Magazine of The Sunday Gazette is the best educational medium for workers. It is crowded full of what other men know and bristles with lessons in business and trade.

It is THE magazine for the workers, by the workers and of the workers.

MR. INNES MAKES APPORTIONMENT

HE GIVES PHILADELPHIA TEN

John C. Innes, whose office is in the Bakewill building, has proposed a state senatorial apportionment which, in his opinion, is in strict accordance with the constitution of the state. Mr. Innes' apportionment in some respects differs materially from others, for he gives Philadelphia county 10 senators and one to Lebanon, a county with a population below the ratio entitling it separately to a senator.

Mr. Innes' apportionment gives Philadelphia 10 senators, because it has the population ratios entitling it to that number; each of the counties of Montgomery, Berks, Lancaster, York, Dauphin, Schuylkill, Lackawanna, Cambria, Westmoreland and Fayette is entitled to be a separate senatorial district because, he says, they have the population ratio. Lebanon's population is below the senatorial ratio, but it is surrounded by Schuylkill, Berks and Lancaster, all of which meet the requirements and are entitled to one senator, wherefore Lebanon is of necessity, entitled to one senator, as no part of the counties surrounding it can be taken to form a district of which Lebanon could be a part.

Mr. Innes said:

"I note in the communication of an anonymous senator that he calls attention to the provision in the law whereby counties may be divided, but I see no strength, nor do I see the necessity at this time for dividing any county, as the borders of counties, when grouped, form very good boundaries for sub-division in senatorial districts, or others as the case may be. In addition to this I can see no good that can be subserved from the combination he mentions, in adding Columbia county to Luzerne, which latter county is entitled to two senators, and subdividing these two counties into three districts, could serve no good purpose and probably only would lend complication, which latter is to be avoided."

No.		Dist. Pop.
1-10	Philadelphia	1,293,697
11	Delaware-Chester	120,457
12	Montgomery	128,986
13	Bucks-Lehigh	165,583
14	Berks	159,615
15	Lancaster	159,241
16	York	116,412
17	Dauphin	114,443
18	Lebanon	53,827
19	Schuylkill	172,927
20	Carbon-Northampton	114,197
21	Monroe-Pike-Wayne-Susquehanna	100,141

LAWYER'S SENTENCE IS CONSIDERABLY CUT DOWN

Promise to Turn State's Evidence Gets Him Off, But His Fellow Conspirator Kills Himself.

[By Associated Press to The Gazette.]

NEW YORK, Nov. 23.—The sentence of John W. Wooten, a lawyer convicted of grand larceny, in the looting of the Weisel estate, was reduced today from nine years and five months to not less than three years nor more than six years and 10 months.

Wooten's conviction preceded the recent suicide of Armitage Mathews, secretary of the Republican county committee who killed himself a few hours before he was to have been tried on a charge of conspiracy in the same case in which Wooten was convicted.

Sentence on Wooten was reduced at the request of Assistant District Attorney Rand who told Justice Davy of the supreme court, that after Wooten's conviction the lawyer had voluntarily offered to make a clean breast of the whole conspiracy and that it was upon his testimony chiefly that the district attorney's office relied to convict Armitage Mathews when the latter stopped all proceedings in that direction by committing suicide.

LAUGHREY'S BUSY NIGHT.

Not paying for a drink of whisky cost John Laughrey of 6242 Frankstown avenue a section of skin off his left leg, the police a bad half hour, Special Officer Woods a head full and J. P. Kleman 15 cents. It was this way:

Shortly after 11 o'clock last night Laughrey, whom the attaches of Kleman's place and the police claim was slightly intoxicated, entered the bar, ordered and drank a whiskey, and attempted to depart without the usual formality.

Objections on the part of the bartender caused Officer Woods to appear. He started to eject Laughrey, but the latter treated him to a jiu-jitsu movement and Woods sprawled his length on the floor. Laughrey then started toward Highland park, by way of Penn and Highland. In his travels he attracted the attention of Policeman Grant Stover, who called a halt, and upon finding this method fruitless, and being rather outclassed by Laughrey resorted to his police whistle.

Policeman John Vandell coming along Kirkwood street, heard the whistle and ran to Highland avenue in time to see the vanishing form of Laughrey. Bystanders say that Laughrey jumped 18 feet at the first report of the policeman's revolver, but at the second shot, dropped in his tracks. Taken to the Frankstown avenue station he was found to be uninjured, although at first claimed that he was shot.

This morning he will explain the matter to Magistrate E. C. Negley as a charge of disorderly conduct is lodged against him.

The Death Roll

Joseph R. Laughrey.

CONNELLSVILLE, PA., Nov. 23.—(Special.)—Joseph R. Laughrey, one of the wealthiest and best-known retired coal and coke operators in Western Pennsylvania, died at 10 o'clock tonight from consumption at his home in Dawson. He spent two years in Pasadena, Cal., but came home six weeks ago. Mr. Laughrey was born 60 years ago in Lower Tyrone township, this county, and was a son of Robert and Mrs. Sarah Walker Laughrey. After receiving a training in the township schools he began working in the mines of Brown & Cochran. Later he attended the Iron City Business college in Pittsburgh, and was afterward made shipping clerk of the Jimtown and Sterling works of the Brown & Cochran firm. For 10 years following 1875 he was superintendent of the two works. In 1885 he was made general manager of the Brown & Cochran properties. He held that position until three years ago, when he was succeeded by his son, James S. Laughrey. He was one of the promoters of the First National bank of Dawson, a director and its vice president from the time of its organization. He was a charter member of the Washington Coal and Coke Company, serving as a director and treasurer of the company and was its vice president. He was a director and stockholder of the Dawson Supply Company. He served many years as a councilman in the borough of Dawson, and for nine years was president of council. He also served several years as a school director. He belonged to Bloomington lodge of Odd Fellows, the Royal Arcanum, the Order of Iroquois, and the Order of America. He was twice married. His first wife, who was Miss Annie E. Overholt, died in 1888. Later he married Miss Margaret Porter of Perrypolis, who survives him with three children: James S. Laughrey, Mrs. Emma B. Miller and Miss Cora Laughrey.

Charles Levi.

Charles Levi, aged 57, died Wednesday at his residence, 1724 Fremont street, Allegheny. He was born in Germany and came to this country in 1866, settling in Beaver Falls, where he engaged in the confectionery business, establishing the first bakery in that place. Fifteen years ago he came to Allegheny and engaged in the flour and feed business, later being interested in the restaurant supply trade. Mr. Leir was married to Miss Mindle Stern, of New Brighton, who, with five children, Rudolph, Harry, Pauline and Florence Levi of Allegheny, and George C. of Washington, D. C., survives. One brother, Jacob Levi of New York, also survives. Mr. Levi was a member of Robert Blub lodge, No. 414, I. O. O. F.; B'nai B'rith and Rodeph Shalom. Funeral services will be held at his late residence this morning at 10 o'clock, and will be in charge of the Rev. Dr. J. Leonard Levy and Dr. Fried. The interment will be in West View cemetery.

Mrs. William B. Frayer.

Mrs. Anna M. B. Frayer, aged 71, wife of William B. Frayer of Butler street, Etna, died yesterday. She was born in Jersey City, and had lived in Etna 30 years. She was a former member of the Methodist Episcopal church of Shaler township, but joined the Emmanuel Lutheran church, Etna, upon its organization, six years ago. Mrs. Frayer had been married three times. She is survived by her husband, four sisters, two brothers and these children—Chief of Police Benjamin McMann, Albert Frayer, Mrs. Margaret Gift, Mrs. Mary Hagmaier and Mrs. Anna Lee, all of Etna. She also leaves 19 grandchildren and five great-grandchildren.

Charles Pressler.

Charles Pressler died yesterday at his home, 762 Reneca street, Allegheny, after an illness of two months, from tuberculosis. Mr. Pressler was born in Allegheny 36 years ago and had lived there all his life. For some years prior to his death he was engaged in the hotel business with John R. Artz. He is survived by his mother, Mrs. Anna Pressler, six brothers and five sisters. His brothers are: John, Michael, Conrad, Frank, George and Henry Pressler, and his sisters are Mrs. Charles Porterfield, Mrs. Anna Russell, Mrs. Eva Shieritz, Miss Barbara Pressler and Miss Jennette Pressler, all of whom live in Allegheny.

George Kraus.

George Kraus, aged 47, proprietor of the Evergreen Avenue hotel, Millvale, died last night from tuberculosis. He was born in Shaler township and had spent his entire life in Pittsburgh suburbs. He had lived 21 years in Millvale, serving two terms as borough councilman. He was a member of the German Lutheran Evangelical church. He leaves his widow and the following children—George, Howard, Lawrence, David, Robert and Bertha Kraus.

William Printy.

William Printy, aged 73, died yesterday at the family residence, 420 Arch street, Allegheny, of heart failure. He was a resident of Pittsburgh and vicinity for 40 years, having conducted the Hotel Printy, at Fourth street and Liberty avenues. He retired some years ago and removed to Allegheny. He is survived by his wife and three daughters, Mrs. J. J. Somers, Mrs. David C. Hick and Mrs. George Farrara. He was a member of St. Peter's Roman Catholic church, Allegheny.

Thomas Donaldson.

Thomas Donaldson, aged 65, died yesterday at Cleveland. He was formerly a farmer near Oakdale. He retired from active work six years ago and went to Cleveland. He belonged to the Presbyterian church. Besides his wife and mother, he leaves the following children: Mrs. Charles Short, Noblestown; James and Richard Donaldson, Ingram; John, Henry, Holland, Will, Jennie and Margaret Donaldson, Cleveland. The interment will be in Cleveland.

Christian H. Denlinger.

Christian H. Denlinger, aged 21, is dead at his home in South avenue, Wilkinsburg. He had been a lifelong invalid. His father, J. S. Denlinger, belongs to the firm of Denlinger Brothers' oil operators. He belonged to the Methodist Episcopal church, and, besides his father, he leaves one brother and two sisters.

Mrs. Barbara Elizabeth Eberle.

Mrs. Barbara Elizabeth Eberle, aged 83, died Wednesday at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Annie E. Otte, Hastings avenue, Allegheny. She was born in Wurtemberg, Germany, and came to Allegheny about 40 years ago. She is survived by three sons, William, Harry and Albert Eberle, and one daughter, Mrs. Otte, with whom she lived.

Obituary Notes.

J. Monroe Saul, a well known resident of Greenville, died in a Cleveland hospital yesterday morning. For 25 years he had been a passenger conductor on the Bessemer & Lake Erie railroad. He was a Mason. His widow and three daughters, Mrs. H. H. Harmon and Nettie and Laura, at home, survive.

CLAIMS WAR DAMAGES.

Philippine Railroad, Owned by Englishmen, Presents a Bill of $1,500,000 to Uncle Sam.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 23.—The British ambassador to this country, Sir Mortimer Durand, called on Secretary Root today regarding the question which has come up through a claim of the Manila & Dagupan railroad for $1,500,000 damages.

This railroad is in the hands of English capitalists who claim that during the war between Spain and the United States and during the revolution following the American occupation of the Philippines, the use of the railroad for military purposes made them suffer damages to the extent of $1,500,000.

MUST WAIT FOR INCREASE.

Jail Warden's New Salary Not Effective During His Present Term.

Jail Warden Lewis cannot yet collect a salary of $5,000 a year, and will have to be content with his present salary until his term expires. Judge Kennedy of common pleas court No. 3, yesterday decided that the real salary is not effective during the present term of office.

In a stated case, an amicable suit arranged between Controller Cunningham and Lewis, Lewis being the plaintiff and the county the defendant, the warden sought to have the court declare binding a resolution of the prison board adopted in July, giving him the $5,000 salary under the new act passed by the last legislature. In brief, the court decides that the warden's salary cannot be reduced or increased during the term for which he was elected, he being a public officer within the meaning of the statutes.

Elks Entertain Friends.

Pittsburgh Lodge No. 11, B. P. O. Elks, last night gave an unique entertainment. It was called a "chop suey social." Chinese cooks from the leading Chinese restaurants of the city were engaged to prepare the different celestial refreshments. Six Chinese waiters served the guests. An orchestra of 10 pieces furnished the music, and a number of theatrical celebrities helped entertain the guests. A large number of members and their friends were present.

Honors for the Rev. Mr. Easton.

The Rev. Dr. M. F. A. Easton, editor of the American Race Problem, returned from Europe Wednesday. Dr. Easton, while abroad, was made an honorary member of the London Institute of Journalists, incorporated by royal charter, and is the first and only Afro-American thus honored. He received a personal letter of encouragement from the Hon. Whitelaw Reid, American ambassador to England.

Appetite Gone?

And perhaps what little you do eat distresses you. Strength is failing—are bilious. You have headache, backache, feel blue and melancholy—and can not rest or sleep. The fact is your nerves are unstrung, and you are on the verge of nervous prostration. They must be strengthened, renewed. If neglected, stomach and kidney troubles follow. They will not cure themselves, but must have a nerve remedy. This you will find in

Dr. Miles' Nervine

It is prepared for just such ailments, and it is a never-failing remedy, because it soothes, feeds and builds the nerves back to health.

"For 30 years I had nervous diseases of the stomach. I had no appetite, could not sleep; run down to 95 pounds. I now weigh 126, am in good health, and Dr. Miles' Nervine is the cause of it."

EVERYBODY SEEMED TO WANT A SUIT OR AN OVERCOAT

Announcement of the Purchase of the Ames Bros. & Co.'s Stock by Liberty Clothing Co. Results in Stampede.

$15 FOR A SWELL OVERCOAT OR SUIT OF CLOTHES

What amounted almost to a stampede of customers followed the announcement by the Liberty Clothing Company that it had purchased the entire surplus stock of the celebrated Ames Bros. & Co. of New York, and was selling these Suits, Overcoats and Raincoats at $15.

It was one of the biggest clothing deals of the kind ever consummated. Men who like to dress in perfect taste and who keep posted on clothing affairs know that the firm of Ames Bros. & Co. is famous for its high-class clothing. It sets the standard for the makers of clothing everywhere in this country.

When it was announced that you can buy an Ames suit of clothes, overcoat or raincoat for $15, Pittsburghers crowded into the Liberty Clothing Company's store, and the sale has been one great rush ever since that time. Opportunity to buy the highest-class clothing at such tremendously sensationally low prices is rare indeed.

To those who knew of the high standard of the Ames clothing and who wonder how we can sell an Ames suit, overcoat or raincoat for $15, we would make this explanation. It was the surplus stock of the Ames Bros. & Co. which we purchased. It was the stock these big clothing manufacturers had on hand after supplying the various leading retail clothing dealers throughout the country. It is the very same kind of goods that was sold to these retailers, but because the season is virtually over for the manufacturers, although just beginning with the retailers, we were enabled to purchase this surplus stock at a marvelously low figure. It was a most remarkable price advantage we were able to secure, because we purchased the ENTIRE SURPLUS STOCK of the Ames Company. That is why we can sell you one of these elegant suits, overcoats or raincoats for the remarkably low price of $15.

The Ames overcoats are all hand-tailored, made of the finest imported materials and come in the fashionable 45 and 52-inch lengths. There are also some swell paddock overcoats in the lot. The line of overcoats includes all sizes, and it makes no difference what your physique may be—stout, slim or regular, we have the coat to fit you perfectly. We have extra sizes running as high as 50-inch breast measure. One of these overcoats at $15 is certainly the biggest value you ever have seen.

The men's suits are elegant, correctly tailored suits, as perfect fitting as any custom suit you ever bought. In fact, you don't get the elegant style in the suit you ordinarily have made to order for you that you do in these suits.

They are business and dress suits made for the exclusive, exacting trade. They come in fancy Scotch mixtures, plain black thibets, fancy gray worsteds, black unfinished worsteds, silk mixed worsteds, fancy Scotch mixtures and gray diagonal worsteds. The styles are varied to suit a multiplicity of tastes, and every suit is of latest vogue. You have your choice of medium length or long coats with the broad lapels, concave shoulders and middle or side vents. And think of getting one of these swagger suits for only $15.

The raincoats we are selling for $15 are the renowned Priestley cravenettes. They come in the new fancy effects and plain black. The styles are the swellest.

Yes, we have other clothing in stock at lower prices made by other manufacturers. They are good, dependable goods and the prices range from $7.50 to $10. We guarantee a perfect fit in every case.

If you don't live in Pittsburgh and wish to take advantage of this great sale without coming to the city you can order by mail. On receipt of $5 we will ship goods by express C. O. D. anywhere. But we would advise you not to delay.

AN OLD FRIEND BOBS UP AGAIN

LARKIN PRODUCES MORE DATA

The City Electric Company has come to life again. The discussion of the proposed new contract for lighting the city, the offer of a South Side company to supply arc lights much cheaper than the present monopoly supplies them to the city, the interview in which Charles Geyer of the Pennsylvania Light, Heat & Power Company said his company would not try to obtain a franchise while councils are dominated by the present city administration, has started up the City Electric of famous memory. W. S. Miller, an attorney, and vice president of the company, called at City hall yesterday to get a list of the members of the corporations committee of councils. He did not know whether the company intended to apply for a franchise, Mr. Miller said, but he wanted to know how the land lay.

The City Electric Company was the first corporation to apply for a franchise after the Citizens party was in control of councils. Officers of the company had been prominent in the fight for reform, which included compensation to the city for franchises, but after the election the company wanted a franchise for nothing. The administration was willing enough to give it, too, but a great cry went up and at last, seeing there was public opposition to the granting of a free franchise, the company withdrew its ordinance. Later on, when the administration came out in the open and granted franchises in defiance of ante-election pledges the City Electric Company was not among the applicants, recognizing that the administration was content to leave the present lighting company in control of the situation.

The city administration is in a quandary. No other company than the Allegheny County Light Company has a plant sufficient to supply the city with light, so that no other can bid on the next light contract. It will be necessary for the administration to make some show of allowing competition, and it may therefore permit a franchise to be granted including compensation for the city. It is predicted that after the election the compensation clause will be "amended out." It is even suggested that the Duquesne Light Company, to forestall new applicants for franchises, may consent to have its present franchise amended before the election, with a compensation clause, to be taken out again after the election. However, officers of the company declared on the floor of councils that the company could not compete with the Allegheny County Light Company if compensation for the city were exacted, so that it is considered hardly likely that they will stultify themselves by now admitting that compensation is no hindrance to fair profits.

Controller Larkin is jumping into the light controversy. He said yesterday that it might be better to grant a contract of four years if light could be obtained much cheaper than at the present price of $36 for each lamp per year. The controller said he had data showing that the Allegheny County Light Company is furnishing arc lights to other consumers at a lower price than it is charging the city. In Knoxville the charge for electric lights of the same power as those used in Pittsburgh is $75 a year, in Mt. Oliver, $75; in Wilkinsburg, $70, and before Brushton became a part of the city it paid the light company $72 a year for each arc light for which the city now pays $96 a year.

COMES TO PITTSBURGH FOR CELEBRATION

Centennial Anniversary of Christian Church to Be Observed Here in 1909.

The centennial celebration of the Christian church will be celebrated in Pittsburgh in October, 1909. This was agreed upon yesterday at the joint conference at the Seventh Avenue hotel, between the centennial committee, representing the church at large, and the Pittsburgh committee, which must provide suitable accommodations for the 50,000 visitors who will come to Pittsburgh on that occasion. It was also decided to ask the various societies of the church to contribute money towards creating enthusiasm throughout the United States. It is proposed to spend $10,000 a year promoting interest in the campaign.

The Rev. Dr. J. H. Garrison of St. Louis was elected chairman of the joint committees, and the Rev. W. R. Warner of Pittsburgh, secretary, most of the work devolving on Dr. Warren. He will frequently tour the country to present the question of celebration to the different churches. Dr. Garrison has been invited to write a history of the church, which will be delivered at the celebration, and the Rev. Dr. J. A. Lord, editor of the Christian Standard, Cincinnati, will make a historical address. The Rev. Dr. George L. Snively of St. Louis has been chosen corresponding secretary of the centennial committee.

Dr. Garrison will address today's noon meeting at the old Third Presbyterian church, and will dwell on the meeting of the inter-church conference held in New York which he attended. The Rev. Archibald McLean of Cincinnati spoke yesterday. He took for his subject, "Christ, the Alpha and Omega."

Milk Dealers Must Settle.

The bureau of health is sending out final notices to over 400 milk dealers to pay up their licenses within 24 hours or suits will be entered for violation of the law. The fees, of $1 each, have been due for over 60 days, the time for the licenses to be taken out having been September 1. The penalty for peddling milk without a license is $10 for the first offense; $25 for the second and $50 each for each subsequent offense.

NEEDS MILLIONS TO LIGHT GOTHAM

Mayor McClellan's Experts Say Municipal Plant Will Cost Vast Sum.

THE PRICE SEEMS PROHIBITIVE

THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE BUREAU,
Herald Building, Herald Square,
NEW YORK, Nov. 23.

Instead of an actual saving to the city in furnishing Brooklyn and Queens with electric light from a municipal plant, the report of the special commission appointed by Mayor McClellan to investigate the subject of a city lighting plant for all the boroughs, to be submitted to the board of estimate tomorrow will show an increase of $68,000 annually over the sum the city is paying at present to private companies under rates fixed in the lighting bills passed by the last legislature as a result of the Stevens investigation.

This increase, however, is due to the fact that all these lights would be supplied with electricity from wires laid in ducts in the ground, while the lights at present provided by the private companies are supplied entirely by overhead wires. The cost of these ducts will be $1,141,000 in case the city merely replaces the lights now in use with its own lights and continues the use of gas in many sections of both boroughs, or $2,226,000 in case it should determine to do away at once with the use of gas in all sections of the two boroughs and substitute its own electric service.

The total cost of this plant for Queens and Brooklyn to replace the present electric lights only, will be $5,138,000. The cost of the plant for the same service in Manhattan and the Bronx, according to an earlier report of the commission would be $4,000,000. The estimated cost of a plant of sufficient size to replace gas as well as the present electric service is estimated at $9,500,000. In Manhattan and the Bronx the cost of the plant for this service was estimated at $7,587,000.

In Manhattan and the Bronx, however, the estimate contained no provisions for the construction of ducts and subways in which to string the cables and wires of the city, as the corporation counsel advised the commission that the city had full power to use the ducts now in use by the private corporations.

More Trouble for Harris.

The United States postoffice department is likely to take official cognizance of C. Ogden Harris' scheme for a dollar Thanksgiving dinner. Inspector Frank A. O'Brien intimated yesterday that evidence against persons using the mails to further such schemes was being collected, and it is probable that Harris' will be included.

LONGWORTH WILL HAVE TO FIGHT HIS WAY BACK

Miss Roosevelt's Admirer Is Said to Be Opposed for Congressional Nomination.

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

CINCINNATI, Nov. 23.—Because of a split in the Republican ranks, Congressman Nicholas Longworth, whose devotion to Miss Alice Roosevelt has been so marked, is to be bitterly opposed for renomination.

Mayor Fleischmann, who retires from politics on the expiration of his term on January 1, has refused to stand for a scheme of members of the old Cox machine to hold on to a large number of city jobs by shifting the appointive power from the Democratic incoming board of public service to the council, in which the Republicans retain control.

Longworth was introduced to Cox as a likely candidate by Fleischmann, who prevailed on the late boss to nominate his friend. Unable to get back at Fleischmann, the machine men are saying that they will revenge themselves by defeating Longworth for renomination. The congressman's friends announce their intention of putting up a stiff fight for him.

THE PHANTOM TORPEDO BOAT

By "A. V."

Copyright, 1905, by the Pearson Publishing Co.

"LOOK!"

A fair, delicately-molded hand, on which glittered gems worth a raja's loyalty, was extended in the direction of the sea.

Half a mile out, where he light ripples melted away into a blue and white haze upon the water, a small black smudge, like the back of a porpoise, seemed to be sliding along the surface.

But it was not a porpoise, for out of it there rose a thin, black shaft, scarcely higher than a flag-staff, and from the top of this thin shaft there trickled a faint wreathing line of smoke, just visible against the background of sky and sea.

"It is a submarine! What is it doing there?"

The exclamation, followed by the question, came from the second, perhaps the fairer, of two women of gracious and beautiful presence, who were pacing, arm linked in arm, along a marble terrace overlooking a famous northern strait.

The terrace on which they stood formed part of a stately palace, built by a king of the north who loved to retire in the summer time from his bustling capital, and gather his family around him in this romantic home.

From here, as from a watch-tower, could be seen the fleets of empires, the crowded shipping of many a rich port and the humbler craft of the fishermen, passing and repassing all day long between the great inland sea of the north and the broad western ocean.

Along this narrow channel had once swept the long ships of the Vikings, setting forth on those terrible raids which devastated half Europe and planted colonies in England and France and far-off Italy. But today the scene was a scene of peace. The martial glory of the Dane had departed. The royal castle that stood there as if to guard the strait had become a rendezvous of emperors and queens and princes, who took advantage of its quaint precincts to lay aside the pomp of rule, and perhaps to bind closer those alliances of sovereigns which serve to temper the fierce rivalries of their people.

The pair who stood gazing, one with curiosity and wonder, the other with an interest of a more painful character, at the sinister object on the horizon, were imperial sisters. Born in the tiny sea kingdom, they had lived to wear the crowns of the greatest two realms the world has ever seen, two empires which between them covered half the surface of our planet, and included one-third of its inhabitants.

But though sundered in interests they were not divided in affection. As they stood side by side, still linked together, it was evident that no common sympathy united them.

The one who had been first to draw attention to the mysterious craft, and whose dress showed somber touches which spoke of widowhood, answered her sister's question:

"I never see one of those vessels without a shudder. I have an instinct which warns me that they are destined to play a dangerous, perhaps a fatal, part in the future. What is that boat doing here, in Danish waters?—I do not know. But it can be here for no good. If a war ever broke out in which we were concerned, the sound would be our first line of defense on the west. It would be mined, by us, perhaps; if not, by our enemy. Who can tell whether that submarine has not been sent out by some power which is already plotting against peace, to explore the bed of the strait, with a view to laying down mines hereafter?"

The other empress listened with a grave countenance.

"I hope your fears are not well founded. I can think of no power that is ever likely to attack you. It is my nephew, or rather those who surround him, from whom the signal for war is likely to come, if it ever does come."

The widowed empress bowed her head.

"You know what my hopes and wishes are," she answered. "If my son listened to me there would be no fear of his departing from the peaceful ways of my dear husband. But there are secret influences always at work, as stealthy in their nature as that very craft—"

The speaker paused as she glanced 'round in search of the black streak and gray smoke wreath which had attracted her notice a minute before. But she looked in vain.

Like a phantom the submarine had disappeared, leaving no trace of its presence.

"Where is it now? Where did it go? Has it sunk, or has it gone back to where it came from?"

To these questions there could be no answer. The smooth waters glistened in the sunlight as merrily as if no threatening craft was gliding beneath the surface on some errand fraught with danger to the world.

"Perhaps they saw they were observed, and dived under for concealment," suggested the second empress.

Her sister sighed gently.

"I was telling you that that submarine was a type of the secret dangers which beset us. I know, beyond all doubt, that there are men in the innermost circle of the court, men who have my son's ear, and can do almost what they like with him, who are at heart longing for a great war, and are always working underground to bring it about. And if they succeed, and we are taken unprepared by a stronger foe, there will be a revolution which may cost my son his throne, if not his life."

There was a brief silence. Then the empress who had listened to this declaration murmured in a low voice:

"Heaven grant that the war is not one between you and us!"

"Heaven grant it!" was the fervent reply. And then, after a moment's reflection, the widowed empress added in an eager voice:

"But we—cannot we do something to avert such a fearful calamity?"

Her sister pressed her arm as though to assure her of sympathy.

"Yes, yes," the other continued. "We can do much if we will. Though my son does not always take my advice, he has never yet refused to listen to me. And in moments of grave stress he sometimes consults me of his own accord. And I know that you, too, have influence. Your people worship you. Your husband—"

The western empress interrupted gently:

"I cannot play the part that you play. I do not claim the right to be consulted, or to give direct advice. Do not ask me to step outside my sphere. I can give information; I can be a channel sometimes between your court and ours, a channel which you can trust as I fear you cannot always trust your ministers and diplomatic agents. More than that I should not like to promise."

"But that is very much," was the grateful response. "That may be quite enough. Provided we can arrange a code by which I can always communicate with you safely and secretly, it may be possible to avert war at any time."

"What do you propose?"

"It is very simple. If any crisis comes about through no fault of my son's—if the party who are conspiring to make a war arrange some unexpected coup which we could not foresee or prevent—and if I am sure that my son sincerely desires peace, I can send you a message—one word will be enough—which you can take as an assurance that we mean to put ourselves right with you, and to thwart the plotters."

The western empress bowed her head.

"I accept the mission. And the word—what shall it be?"

The other glanced 'round the horizon once more, and then, bending her lips to her imperial sister's ear, whispered a single word.

The two great women who had just exchanged a pledge for the peace of the world were moving slowly along the terrace again, when the western sister said, thoughtfully:

"I think I know another way to aid you."

The eastern empress halted, and gazed at her with eagerness.

"I know the difficulties that surround you," her sister pursued, "and that the greatest of them all is having no one in your service whom you can entirely and absolutely trust."

"That is so," was the mournful admission.

"Now I have heard of a man—I have never actually employed him myself, but I have heard of him from those who have, and they tell me he is incorruptible. In addition, he is a man who has never experienced the sensation of fear, and his abilities are so great that he has been called in to solve almost every problem of international politics that has arisen in recent years."

"But this man—how can he be obtained?"

"At present he is retained in our secret service. I must not conceal from you that he is partly a Pole by descent, and as such he has no love for your empire. But if it were made clear to him that in serving you he was serving us, and defeating the designs of the anti-popular and despotic clique at your court, I feel sure his would consent to place himself at your disposal."

The eastern empress listened intently to her sister's words. At the close she said, "Thank you. I will try this man if you can prevail on him to come to me. What is his name?"

"I expect you must have heard of him already. It is—"

"Monsieur V——?"

The second empress nodded.

No more was said.

The two principal figures passed away along the terrace, silhouetted against the red and stormy sunset sky, like two ministering spirits of peace brooding over a battleground of blood.

CHAPTER I.

The Instructions of Monsieur V—.

The great monarch by whose gracious command I write this narrative has given me his permission to preface it with the following remarkable document:

Minute: It is considered that it cannot but promote the cause of peace and good understanding between the British and Russian governments if Monsieur V—— be authorized to relate in the columns of some publication enjoying a wide circulation, the steps by which he was enabled to throw light on the occurrences in the North sea.

By the Cabinet.

In addition, I desire to state for the benefit of those who profess to see some impropriety in the introduction of real names into a narrative of this kind, that objections precisely similar to theirs were long ago raised, and long ago disposed of, in the case of parliamentary reports, newspaper articles, society papers, and comic publications of all kinds and, further, that I have never received the slightest intimation that my literary methods are displeasing to the illustrious personages whom my narratives are intended to honor.

With this apology I may be permitted to proceed.

On a certain day in the winter which preceded the outbreak of a war between Russia and Japan, I received a summons to Buckingham palace, London, to interview the marquis of Bedale.

I was unable to fix the precise date, as I have forsworn the dangerous practice of keeping a diary ever since the head of the French police convinced me that he had deciphered a code telegram of mine to the emperor of Morocco.

The marquis and I were old friends, and, anticipating that I should find myself required to start immediately on some mission which might involve a long absence from my headquarters in Paris, I took my confidential secretary with me as far as the British capital, utilizing the time taken by the journey in instructing him how to deal with the various affairs I had in hand.

I had just finished explaining to him the delicate character of the negotiation then pending between the king of Servia and Prince Ferdinand of Bulgaria, when the train rolled into Charing Cross.

Not wishing anyone, however high in my confidence, to know too much of my movements, I ordered him to remain seated in the railway carriage, while I slipped out of the station and into the closed broughman for which I had telegraphed from Dover.

I had said in the wire that I wished to be driven to a hotel in Piccadilly. It was not till I found myself in Cockspur street that I pulled the check-string, and ordered the coachman to take me to Buckingham palace.

I mention these details in order to show that my precautions to insure secrecy are always of the most thorough character, so that, in fact, it would be quite impossible for any one to unveil my proceedings unless I voluntarily opened my lips.

The instructions which I received from Lord Bedale were brief and to the point:

"You are aware, of course, Monsieur V——, that there is a possibility of war breaking out before long between Russia and Japan."

"It is more than a possibility, I am afraid, my lord. Things have gone so far that I do not believe it is any longer possible to avert war."

His lordship appeared gravely concerned.

"Do you tell me that it is too late for you to interfere with effect?" he demanded anxiously.

"Even for me," I replied with firmness.

"If you were to receive the most ample powers, the most liberal funds; if you were to be placed in direct communication with one of the most exalted personages in the court of St. Petersburg—would it still be impossible?"

I shook my head.

"Your lordship should have sent for me a fortnight ago. We have lost 12 days, that is to say, 12 battles."

The marquis of Bedale looked more and more distressed.

"At least you can try?" he suggested.

"I can try. But I am not omnipotent, my lord," I reminded him.

He breathed a sigh of relief before going on to say:

"But that is only the preliminary. Great Britain is bound to come to the assistance of Japan in certain contingencies."

"Precisely. I rely on you to prevent that contingency arising."

"That is a much easier matter, I confess."

"Then you undertake to keep the war from extending to us?"

"I undertake to keep a second power from attacking Japan," I answered cautiously.

"But in that case we cannot be involved, surely?" he objected.

"I cannot undertake to keep you from attacking Russia," I explained grimly.

"But we should not dream of attacking her—without provocation," he returned, bewildered.

"I fancy you will have a good deal of provocation," I retorted.

"Why? What makes you think that?" he demanded.

OLD INSPECTOR IS STAR WITNESS

CHARGES OF FRAUD DENIED

Thomas A. Adams, the oldest mine inspector in the state, having held that office for 24 years, was a witness yesterday on behalf of Mine Inspector F. W. Cunningham, on trial for involuntary manslaughter in connection with the Harwick mine disaster. Attorney R. B. Petty, in opening for the defense, stated it would be shown that Inspector Cunningham had visited and inspected the Harwick mine within the three months prescribed by law, and that at the last inspection the devices for safety throughout the mine were in good condition.

Mr. Adams said he, with other experts, investigated the mine, and the decision was that the explosion was caused by a "blow out" shot which had probably exploded the gas or dust. Gas would not have accumulated in the mine prior to the explosion if the ventilation was good. The investigation had shown no neglect on the part of the mine inspector.

On cross-examination Mr. Adams said the mine was considered a gaseous mine, and if the ventilation was good at the point of the initial explosion it would probably have removed the cause.

Other experts testified to the same effect.

Judge Brown ruled out the report of the mine inspectors who investigated the disaster, which the commonwealth endeavored to have admitted, on the ground that it was a copy and not the original.

Frank Howland and A. H. Keith, directors of the Carbon Steel company of West Virginia, yesterday filed answers to the equity suit of John D. Slayback. It is denied that the plaintiff owned 4,000 shares of second preferred stock and 5,000 of common of the Carbon Steel company of New Jersey, and it is denied he transferred this to Charles M. Raymond, who surrendered it for the same number of shares of the defendant company. Charges of fraud and that the company moved the offices from New York to Pittsburgh to hinder the plaintiff in taking legal steps are denied, and it is asserted the plaintiff has a remedy at law.

Manager Took No Chances.

The equity suit of the Allegheny County Light company against S. F. Nixon, owner of the Nixon theater, is being heard. The action is to enforce a five-year contract with Nixon for lighting the theater. The light company avers Nixon broke the contract in installing his own lighting plant, but Nixon alleges the supply of light failed several times, and he was compelled to install a plant of his own, for just about the time, he says, the supply was irregular was immediately following the Iroquois disaster in Chicago, the theater-going public was timid, and it was to prevent any feeling of fear. Nixon says, that was sure to follow the lights going out that he installed a plant of his own.

The Pennsylvania Railroad company filed a bill in equity against Homestead borough for a preliminary injunction to restrain the defendant's officers from interfering with the laying of additional tracks across Hays street, in increasing the yard room of the Pittsburgh, Virginia & Charleston railroad at Homestead.

David P. Black, surviving partner of Black & Gloninger, took an appeal to the supreme court from common pleas court No. 2 in the suit of Walker, Stratman & Co. against the firm. The action arises over insurance on the plaintiff's plant on Herrs Island, burned in 1900. A verdict of $5,915 was awarded the plaintiff in the lower court.

New trials were refused in the cases of Josephine Brubach, Alexander Ferguson and Ellen Nelson against the Pittsburgh Railways company.

William Allen sued Marion Nolder for $5,000 damages for alleged malicious prosecution. A verdict for $13,873, with $9,250 of an allowance for the defendant, was awarded the plaintiff in the suit of Somerset borough against Ott Brothers, an action over a borough improvement.

The Pennsylvania Water Company sued North Braddock borough for $722, a balance alleged to be due on an agreement to furnish water to the borough.

James W. Houston & Co. and Superintendent of Building Inspection S. A. Dies filed a demurrer to the equity suit of John B. Heron, Jr., an action over a party wall. The defendants say they have a right to build the wall under the facts alleged and ask that the bill be dismissed.

Witnesses May Ride on Passes.

Judge Archbald in the United States circuit court will charge the jury this morning in the case against the Baltimore & Ohio railroad arising from the death of Addison S. Goldsmith of Connellsville on the Duquesne limited December 28, 1903. While on the witness stand Philip H. Pendleton, an insurance man, was asked by counsel for the plaintiff if he came down from Connellsville on a pass.

"What of it if he did come down on a pass?" inquired the court. "The railroad company has a right to bring its witnesses to court by that method if it choses."

Edward Cliff was awarded $2,000 damages against the Pittsburgh Railways Company for injuries received by being struck by a car.

The suit of the Monongahela and Western Dredging Company of New Jersey against the Jones & Laughlin Steel Company is on trial. The plaintiffs ask $21,578.75, with interest from July 22, 1904, for dredging.

Notice has been given that a new trial will be asked for in the case of William A. Scheu against the Pennsylvania Railroad Company. Scheu received a verdict for $15,000 for losing a hand.

Suit for $25,000 damages was entered against the Carnegie Steel Company by Mrs. Sue A. Guy for the death of her husband, John Guy. He was killed by an explosion of a furnace at the Edgar Thomson works at Braddock on December 27, 1904.

An involuntary petition in bankruptcy was filed against Max Phillips of Glen Campbell, Indiana county. The creditors make claims of $2,940.40. A like petition was filed against Frank Catapan of Donora, Washington county, the claims aggregating $540.28. W. H. Shepard, a liveryman of Sewickley, filed a voluntary petition. His assets are $4,426.95 and his liabilities $10,201.40.

In the criminal court, for pure food violations, J. J. Cavanaugh was fined $100 and costs; Joseph Fried, $50 and costs; Goodman & Wesoky, $50 and costs.

Executions issued: Francis Loury vs. Titus De Bobula, $40; M. Streng Sons Company vs. Thomas Browne, Jr., $275; Andy Calko vs. Jacob Koch, $50.

Strong Dose for Sick Man.

Tamer Herbert and Robert Wellington were ordered to forfeit $25 or serve 60 days in the workhouse, at No. 7 police station yesterday morning. When the police went to their home, 23 South Thirteenth street, they found John Wellington dying of pneumonia, lying on a bed with little covering and in a room without fire. It was testified that he had not been fed for a week, but was kept alive with doses of whisky and a raw egg. The sick man was taken to South Side hospital.

Sues Husband for Non-Support.

On complaint of his wife, Daniel Hardy of Homestead was held for court yesterday on a charge of non-support, preferred before Justice J. Clyde Miller. Mrs. Hardy owns considerable property in the borough, but alleges that her husband would not work enough to collect the rents from the houses.

POSTAL REVENUES ARE STEADILY INCREASING

Rural Free Delivery Carriers Increase from 147 to 32,055 in Seven Years.

[By Associated Press to The Gazette.]

WASHINGTON, Nov. 23.—The annual report of the auditor for the postoffice department for the year ended June 30, 1905, shows the fiscal operations of the department to have been as follows: Revenues of the postal service, $152,826,685. Expenditures of the postal service, $167,-389,169. Total amount of money orders issued: Domestic, $401,916,214; foreign, $42,-503,246. Total amount of money orders paid: Domestic $404,334,974; foreign, $7,150,-689. Total, $1,176,130,579.

The money order offices during the year issued $53,722,463 domestic and 2,163,098 foreign money orders. The domestic averaged $7.48 and the foreign $19.64. The receipts from the postal service proper are shown to be seven times greater than they were 33 years ago, and nearly 18 times greater than they were in 1860.

The rural free delivery has increased from 148 carriers in 1898 to 32,055 carriers in 1905, and the cost of this service has increased from about $50,000 in 1898 to $20,519,944 in 1905.

New Japanese Loan to Be $125,000,000.

LONDON, Nov. 23.—A new Japanese loan of $125,000,000 will, it is officially announced, be issued November 28. The Rothschilds of Paris will take $62,500,000 and London $31,250,000. The balance will be divided between New York and Germany. The issue price will be 90 and the interest four per cent.

ITALY'S SOVEREIGNS CONSOLING THE POOR

[By Associated Press to The Gazette.]

ROME, Nov. 23.—King Victor Emmanuel and Queen Helena arrived unexpectedly today at the village of Briatico, Calabria, in the center of the desolation caused by the earthquake of September 8. Their majesties were received with enthusiasm by the villagers and many touching incidents occurred, the women sending kisses to the queen and exclaiming "thou are our Madonna."

From Briatico the sovereigns drove to Monte Leone, where they were also unexpected by the authorities. The queen insisted on visiting the poorest quarters, consoling and helping everybody. She inspected the hospital, caressed the children and encouraged everybody, saying: "I am your friend and have children myself. I know what you suffer."

Meanwhile the people who were wildly enthusiastic, organized an imposing demonstration in honor of their majesties.

County Commissioners Award Contracts.

The county commissioners awarded the following contracts yesterday: Addition to the lavatories to cost $385 and a partition in the sheriff's salesroom, to accommodate the newly-created board of tax revision, to cost $215. Both of the above were awarded to William Kerr & Sons. The contract for three revolving doors, two front and one rear, in the court house, was awarded to the Van Kannel Revolving Door Company for $2,135.

MOXEY SAYS BONDS ARE MISSING FROM THE BANK

W. H. Andrews Is Trying to Sell His Property to Meet His Enterprise Obligations.

Speaking of the disappearance of $75,000 worth of bonds of the National Cable and Wire Company, of which the late T. Lee Clark, cashier of the Enterprise bank, was an officer, Special Examiner E. P. Moxey said yesterday that many other bonds of companies affected by the collapse of the bank were missing, and that so far there had been found no clue to their whereabouts. Mr. Moxey will not say what bonds have been lost, but intimates that from appearances the task of ultimately unraveling the affairs of the bank are well-nigh hopeless. He says he will be engaged on the accounts of the Enterprise for two or three months yet, but can give no definite idea when he will finish.

United States District Attorney Dunkle said yesterday he had no instructions to prepare suits, either criminal or civil, and was not expecting any at present.

William H. Andrews, who has been sued by Receiver Cunningham for more than $100,000 borrowed by Andrews on notes, is said to be up in Crawford and Venango counties trying to dispose of properties there that will enable him to meet his obligations.

Attorney Thomas P. Trimble, counsel for the Clark estate and one of the appraisers, said yesterday the board of appraisers is working every day in trying to clear up the business affairs of the late cashier. It will be months, he says, before everything is adjusted and all transfers made to reimburse the bank depositors, so far as the Clark estate is concerned.

LOSES MONEY GAMBLING AND BETTING ON HORSES

Former Braddock Bank Clerk Is Held on Charge of Embezzling $6,000.

Losing money by betting on horses, and gambling, is given by Stephen Bernalok as the reason for embezzling $6,000 from the First National bank of Braddock. He was given a hearing by United States Commissioner W. T. Lindsey yesterday and held for United States court.

Gustav C. Watt, cashier of the bank, said that Bernalok had confessed to him that gambling caused his downfall. He was employed in the foreign department of the bank and it was his custom, it is alleged, to falsify his entries. Money would be received for transmission to Europe and a draft made out to the foreign bank. The depositor would get a receipt. The stub-book, which was the only record, it is alleged, would be filled in with a different amount from that sent to Europe. The discrepancies were first discovered October 2 and Cashier Watt said that the next week Bernalok confessed to him. E. M. Brackenridge, manager of the foreign department of the bank, and Constable Barry, testified that Bernalok confessed that his shortage would be $6,000.

Charles A. Painter in Wreck.

Charles A. Painter, president of the Pittsburgh stock exchange, was painfully injured yesterday morning in Federal street, Allegheny, when a street car crashed into the rear of his carriage and demolished it. Mr. Painter and his coachman were thrown into the street, and Mr. Painter suffered several bruises. After receiving medical attention he was able to go to his office.

REDSKINS HERE TO PLAY W. & J.

FORMER STARS WITH OUTFIT

The Carlisle Indian football team, numbering 32 players, a corps of coaches and managers, arrived in Pittsburgh yesterday morning. The scrubs practiced in the afternoon at Exposition park while the varsity players rested for the game with Washington and Jefferson tomorrow. The varsity team is in fair shape. Some of the players were banged up in the game with the Canton professionals Wednesday and those who escaped unhurt also decided to rest.

Frank Hudson, the former famous quarterback, and Bemus Pierce, the guard, who assist Coaches Woodruff and Kinney in the coaching, are with the team.

The Indians, however, will have their strongest line-up on the field against W. and J.

"We have indeed had a strenuous trip," said Superintendent Thompson, "and the boys or at least some of them, are pretty stiff and sore. Since leaving home we have played Cincinnati university, the Masellon Tigers and the strong Canton team. Of course few of the boys have been called upon to take part in all these games as we have players sufficient to put three full teams on the field. We have had as high as 27 players in one game, so you see that we have not permitted any of them to become seriously used up. However, I think this will be the last time we will book so many games with teams representing athletic clubs for this thing of playing football according to a baseball schedule is not what it is cracked up to be.

"In the future I shall advocate confining our games to contests with a bona fide college eleven, with perhaps one or two exhibition games with athletic clubs on the side.

"We will go upon the field here Saturday prepared to show Washington and Jefferson a few things about the game. I see that Coach Piekarski says that because he has played against the Indians that his team will be able to break up our trick plays. I guess he will find that our boys have a few tricks up their sleeves that they have adopted since he played against them. We realize that we are going to be up against a hard bunch to beat when we face W. and J., but we will have our best team in line, including Mount Pleasant, who is considered one of the greatest players the game has ever known and who is really a wonder."

PIEKARSKI HAS POINTERS.

Watches Indians Play at Canton and Instructs His Pupils.

WASHINGTON, PA., Nov. 23.—(Special.)—Coach Piekarski of the W. and J. team returned today from Canton, where he witnessed the Indian-Canton contest yesterday. He secured pointers on the style of play of the Carlisle eleven which are expected to prove of value. It had been expected to give the local eleven easy work, but Piekarski desired to instruct the men in breaking up the Indian style of attack and kept the players hard at it for more than an hour. Tomorrow there will be no scrimmage work, and the team, after a light signal practice, will be able to take a good rest before tackling the Carlisle players at Pittsburgh Saturday.

Followers of Washington and Jefferson deprecate the action of Coach Mosso of W. U. P. in refusing to allow W. and J. to use the club house at Exposition park.

A person connected with W. U. P. said last night that Mosso overstepped his authority in trying to keep the W. and J. players out of the club house at Exposition park, which is the property of the Pittsburgh ball club.

WUP STILL MINUS A MAN TO SNAP THE BALL

The W. U. P. squad watched while the Indians were practicing yesterday, and as their practice began to lag the local collegians took to the field, too, and thus the two elevens were on the gridiron at the same time. With the exception of the center position, the W. U. P. varsity is practicing with its regular lineup now. McKean and Liedenroth have not yet reported for duty. Waddill will probably play in this position in the Geneva game tomorrow. The reappearance of Frye, who has been out for the last few days on account of illness, insures a capable substitute at right end. The team leaves for Beaver Falls at 10 o'clock tomorrow morning. A special car for the W. U. P. rooters will leave the Lake Erie depot at 1:55.

TROUBLE AT YALE.

Class President Accused of Speculating in Football Tickets.

NEW HAVEN, CONN., Nov. 23.—(Special.)—A scandal of considerable breadth is expected next Wednesday at Yale when the university football association intends to make public the ills of students whose names are now coupled with the charge that they speculated in football game tickets. Pinkerton detectives are still at work adding to the list. Punishment will take the form of a "blacklist" that will deprive those named thereon from future subscription rights. The number of students who speculated in tickets for the coming Harvard game is said to be larger than for the Princeton game of last week.

The freshman class of the medical school has precipitated matters by making a demand upon H. B. Garnsey, president of that class, to resign his office, inasmuch as he is alleged to have speculated. Garnsey declined to resign the presidency of the class and his accusers threaten to call a meeting of all students in the medical school to consider the case. Garnsey could not be found tonight.

WESTMINSTER PREPARING FOR GROVE CITY COLLEGE

NEW WILMINGTON, PA., Nov. 23.—The Westminster team today commenced work for the Thanksgiving game with Grove City. The players have been resting since the Geneva game last Saturday, as the coaches thought that almost to a man they showed signs of overtraining. The whole team was out today and worked hard. Quarterback Scott is still on the hospital list with a poisoned hand. Some new plays will be tried against Grove City that look good and are being kept secret. In scrimmage work today the varsity showed more energy than it has in weeks, and the scrubs could do nothing with the quick formations and heavily bunched mass plays.

Turkey Shoot at Braddock.

The Braddock Rifle club will hold its annual turkey shoot on Thanksgiving day on the Tassey hollow range. It will begin at 9 o'clock in the morning and continue all day. The distance will be 50 yards off hand.

Steelton to Play Latrobe.

LATROBE, PA., Nov. 23.—(Special.)—The Sutton A. C. will play here Saturday. Sutton was on the point of disbanding, but the local management persuaded it to come Saturday.

May Play at Steubenville.

An effort is being made to have the Pittsburgh Lyceum and Monaca teams play at Steubenville Saturday, December 2. Lyceum is willing.

AMONG THE BOXERS.

Joe Keally, the fighting conductor, is in fine condition and would like to meet John Dugan at Johnstown or at any other place. Answer through The Gazette.

Jimmy Gardner and Mike (Twin) Sullivan are booked to meet in a 25-round bout tonight before the Hayes Valley club of San Francisco. They are to meet at catchweight.

At Spokane tonight Jack O'Keefe of Chicago and Heney Mellody of New England will box 20 rounds at 142 pounds. The battle is announced to be for the welterweight championship, left vacant by the retirement of Joe Walcott.

Frank Morgan is certainly training hard for his match with Curley Soppies at Charleroi on December 4. His friends are confident that he will win. Jack Bruce, who will appear against Young Mahoney in the preliminary, is also doing some hard training.

HARVARD MEETS YALE WITHOUT ITS CAPTAIN

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

CAMBRIDGE, MASS., Nov. 23.—(Special.)—Captain Daniel J. Hurley of the Harvard football eleven, is at the city hospital under treatment for a serious injury to the surface of the brain. He was taken to that institution last evening on advice of Dr. E. H. Nichols of the Harvard athletic committee.

Capt. Hurley sustained his injury in the game against Dartmouth last Saturday, receiving a blow on the head which has since developed seriously. Since that contest the Harvard captain has not been himself, but symptoms of an injury to the brain did not develop until last night. It is said that Capt. Hurley has been a little queer in his actions this week, and last night Coach Reid induced him to visit Dr. Nichols, who is the surgeon in charge of the Harvard football squad. This afternoon Dr. Nichols gave out the following statement concerning Capt. Hurley's injury:

"Capt. Hurley is suffering from a serious injury to the surface of the brain, which will prevent his entering the game Saturday. The injury is the result of a blow on the head, received in the Dartmouth game last Saturday, which at the time caused no symptoms. Later symptoms developed which showed brain injury. This late development of symptoms is common in head injuries. Mr. Hurley's condition, although serious, is not at present critical. He has been seen by Dr. W. N. Bullard in consultation at the City hospital, and is at present very comfortable."

Yale.

NEW HAVEN, CONN., Nov. 23.—(Special.)—Yale plans to erect a stadium of steel and brick to replace the old broken grand stands on Yale field and the preliminary discussion looking toward plans will be had shortly. The surplus in the hands of the financial union will be probably about $50,000 at the end of the year, a very fair start on the project. The stadium, when planned will be for both football and baseball games, and will accommodate at least 25,000 people. The cost of repairs to the present wooden stands represents the annual interest on at least $100,000.

The Yale football squad of 26 men reached Auburndale, Mass., this evening. The remainder of the team will go tomorrow. On authority that has been reliable heretofore, it is learned that Yale's coaches have almost decided to place either Levine or Quill at fullback instead of Flinn, as they are heavier, and to put Roome at left halfback for Veeder. This is the only way they can see added strength in defense against Harvard's tandem. Not until Saturday is the final determination to be made as to Jones or Hutchinson at quarterback. Alvan T. Fuller of Boston has invited Yale's football squad to be his guests tomorrow in an automobile tour of the suburbs.

Cornell.

ITHACA, N. Y., Nov. 23.—(Special.)—The work of the Cornell varsity was a bit more satisfactory and encouraging tonight, but still the coaches were obliged to use their lashes continuously in order to keep the men moving rapidly enough to have the plays count for anything. For more than one hour the varsity and sub-varsity were sent through hard signal practice. The regulars were kept on the offensive throughout partly to see what they could do and also to try out new formations. The only scoring was done by Pollak with a 40-yard quarterback run.

UNITY ON THE NEW ALLEYS

OTHER MATCHES IN FULL

Schedule for Tonight

Unity won all three games last night from the Carricks on the Carrick alleys. The exciting game was the second, when the Carricks had their only chance to win. But they sadly fell by the wayside in the last frame and were beaten by the low score of 755. The Unity players as a rule were up against a great many railroads, but in the last game got the pins to falling right and put up the fine score of 931. Austin Smith made the best average, the last score helping him out greatly to place him in the best average column. Sam Heimbeucher chalked up the highest score of the evening, 215. McGrather was a little off his oats, but he was there with 210 in the first game and was short only one pin of tieing the best average player. For the Carrick team, P. Pastourious was the best bowler. Scores:

Unity—				Carrick—

In the South Pittsburgh league last night on the Southern alleys the St. Vincent team won two out of three games from the Ormsbys. As a rule good scores were made, the St. Vincents coming within nine pins of reaching 900. The best bowler was Ruffenach, who averaged 191. He started off with 217 and wound up with 190. Paulus made high score of 224. Wagner bowled consistently, his lowest score being 184 and his highest 188. Scores:

On the Federal alleys last night the Glausers of McKees Rocks met the Coraopolis team and took two out of three games. Old Man Glauser was proud of the work of his lads, and they are still celebrating the victory. He did well himself, but Harris made high school of 196. Morgan rolled only one game for Coraopolis and hung up the best score of the match, 196. The scores:

In the Amateur league last night the Commercials trimmed the Y. M. I. for all three games, and thereby took the lead in the championship race. Manager John Voskamp tried his hand at knocking the pins over and started off with a good score, but in the next two games must have been thinking of past elections and fell by the wayside. Shanner had high score and W. Bert best average. Egley put up a good score for a duckpin game. Scores:

The biggest crowd ever assembled on the Club alleys was there last night to see the different teams of the Central league play some interesting contests. The strong Costas won two out of three games from the Field club, and the Pirates trimmed the American Bridge Co. for all three games. The surprise of the night was when Dimling's Favorites ran up the high score of the evening, 896. Hairless Bossler helped the good work along with a score of 215. Jack had high score, 216, and Fosnight put up two 200 scores and the best average for the evening. The games and scores are as follows:

MERCERSBURG WANTS TO PLAY PICKED TEAM

The Mercersburg Academy football team, which is the undisputed school champions of Central Pennsylvania, is desirous of playing in Pittsburgh this season, preferably with the All-School team which was picked by The Gazette Monday morning. Mercersburg has closed its season, but would come here Thanksgiving. It is possible the game will be arranged.

ABE ATTELL NOT SO GOOD AGAINST KID SULLIVAN

BALTIMORE, Nov. 23.—Kid Sullivan of Washington and Abe Attell of San Francisco met in a 15-round match before the Eureka Athletic club tonight. It was whispered at the ringside that immediately before the meeting Attell had insisted upon it being called a draw if both men were on their feet at the close of the fifteenth round, and his one object seemed to be to prolong the fight to that point. He succeeded, and Referee O'Hara held up the hands of both men. Throughout the match Attell used practically only one blow, a left jab that never landed hard enough to make Sullivan angry.

The only other features of the Attell campaign were his fondness for clinching to avoid punishment and footwork that his admirers called magnificent, while those of Sullivan dubbed it a sprinting match. Sullivan did about all the fighting and inflicted a good deal of punishment, but was unable to land a knockout blow on his agile opponent.

Young Americans Shy One Point.

The Young Americans of Homestead were beaten last night at McKeesport, 31 to 30. The McKeesport team made a neat appearance in its new uniform. The score:

LOOKS BRIGHT FOR RATE LAW

Democratic Senators Will Support the Roosevelt Measure.

A CHANGE OF MIND

RAILROADS ON THE DEFENSIVE

THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE BUREAU,
Room 10, Postal Building.
WASHINGTON, Nov. 23.

Rate regulation legislation of a moderately effective sort no longer seems impossible of passage by the senate. It did last spring. A growing disposition of Republican and Democratic senators favoring the proposition to act together is the most hopeful sign. Such a combination would result in a favorable report for such a measure as President Roosevelt will advocate from the senate committee on interstate commerce itself. This would be almost a miracle, indeed, for the function delegated to this committee by the senate ruling powers was the chloroforming of the Roosevelt plan to give the interstate commerce commission rate-fixing power. That was the program of opposition when congress adjourned last spring. Legislation abolishing private car lines, which the railroads themselves want to get rid of, and improving terminal charges, was to be the sop to the Cerberus of rate regulation sentiment.

It is significant that this opposition has now reached a state of mind which admits legislation, giving the interstate commerce commission the rate-fixing power, to be possible of enactment. But with such legislation, which they still bitterly decry, while they admit it may have to be accepted, the opposition to President Roosevelt's policy would couple the provision that no rate fixed by the commission go into effect until reviewed by the courts.

The Advantage Has Shifted.

This would be filching with the left hand a gift given by the right. However, this brings the ball into railroad territory where the play will now be. Last spring the railroads had it on the administration 40-yard line, with Senator Foraker trying for a drop kick. It is persistently reported, and some of the authority seems pretty good, that President Roosevelt himself has taken a more moderate position than the extreme of demanding that a rate fixed by the commission go into immediate effect. How much time he may be willing to give the railroads for court appeals or other adjustment remains to be seen. When that point comes under consideration every one will be found ready to support provisions facilitating a legal appeal against the decision of the commission in order that a final determination be secured as speedily as may be.

But it is enough now to note that the real issue is when the rate fixed by the commission shall go into effect. Now between President Roosevelt and the railroads the latter interests have the best of it in the senate, if the Republicans act together. For a majority of Republican senators are undoubtedly against the President. But if Democratic and Republican advocates of the Roosevelt plan work together, the President will have the best of it.

Majority in Committee.

The report of the senate committee on interstate commerce will be a good indication of the line-up. This committee was supposed to be "safe." An informal caucus of Republican members the other day found the advocates of rate regulation in the minority, with Elkins, Aldrich, Foraker and Kean frankly against the President, Millard of Nebraska silently aligned with them, in spite of tremendous pressure from his state, and Culom, Dolliver and Clapp with the Roosevelt plan. Today's developments show four Democrats, Tillman, Newlands, Carmack and Foster, with the Roosevelt plan, and McLaurin of Mississippi non-committal. It is insistently reported today that these seven senators who favor regulation after the more radical plan, out of the whole committee of 13, are prepared to vote together to report out a bill along the Roosevelt lines. If three Republicans on this committee are not prepared to submit to the Aldrich program of opposition as a party measure, in spite of the votes of their four colleagues to the contrary, it is probable that the same will be true of the senate as a whole. Which would mean a majority for the Roosevelt rate bill.

The opposition leaders tonight emphatically deny that an agreement has been reached among the advocates of regulation on the committee to report a bill. Technically this is probably true. But it does look as if something like a tacit understanding had come.

The "Original Rate Man."

Senator Aldrich has dashed hurriedly to New York for a conference with the powers, supposedly on this new situation that has arisen.

There is an element of humor in the indignant attitude of Democratic senators when they are spoken of as supporting the "Roosevelt" rate position. Senator Culberson of Texas, for instance, has published at least three statements showing him to have advocated legislation of this kind when President Roosevelt was still a civil service commissioner, and Senator Tillman contends with Senator Cullom for the honor of being the original advocate of rate regulation, and that before President Roosevelt was on earth, from a political standpoint. After hammering the President as they have, the southern senators object to being classified as his followers, on any proposition. But it all amounts to the same thing in the long run.

To Close Town "Tighter Than a Drum."

COSHOCTON, O., Nov. 23.—(Special.)—Because local newspapers have censured him for permitting slot machines to be operated in saloons, Mayor Rinner threatens to close Coshocton up "tighter than a drum" from now till the end of his term, January 1.

MOTHER AND CHILD.

Let the mother take Scott's Emulsion for the two; it never fails to benefit them both. One can eat for two, but nourishing two is a different thing. It calls for a degree of internal strength that the average woman lacks. People of luxury are not very strong by habit; overworked people are weak in some functions from exhaustion or their surroundings. Scott's Emulsion can be depended upon to overcome such conditions. It is a wonderful food for a mother and child.

WURZELL IN SECOND FLIGHT

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

LAKEWOOD, N. J., Nov. 23.—W. C. Fownes, Jr., Western Pennsylvania golf champion, led a big field today in the qualifying round of the annual fall golf tournament at Lakewood. Mr. Fownes went around with a fine card of 78, within three strokes of the record, and finished a stroke ahead of Merrill K. Waters, the young home player, and W. J. Evans, whose chief stamping ground is the Ekwanok links.

The leader was out in 36, including "threes" at the second, third and fifth holes, and came home in 42, finishing up with six at the home hole, thanks to three puts.

The round was an all-day affair, and 88 all told faced Mr. Miley, who, as usual, held the post of starter. Of these 65 handed in cards, more than sufficient for four divisions of 16 each to continue at match play tomorrow morning.

George T. Brokaw made his first appearance since his trip abroad, and with a card of 81 finished fourth. Five tied at 88 for the last four places in the first set and eight tied at 94 for 16th place for the second cup. Four tied at 99 for the last two places in the third cup, while E. D. Morgan of Dyker Meadow, with 115, was last man in the fourth set. E. G. Stanton of Toronto, with 135, was the only other competitor to hand in his card.

Besides Pittsburgh, there were represented Milwaukee, Oil City, Boston, Washington, St. Paul and Toronto.

TO FACE COURT-MARTIAL.

Second Lieut. Kent Browning, of U. S. Infantry, to Be Tried on Serious Charges Today.

Second Lieutenant Kent Browning of Company I, First United States infantry, will face a court-martial in the Allegheny arsenal this morning, on charges of being intoxicated while on duty, conduct unbecoming an officer and soldier, neglect of duty and coonduct prejudicial to the good of the service.

Lieut. Browning's company left the arsenal about 10 days ago, but he has remained to answer the charges brought against him. It is not believed that more than one day will be required in taking testimony. Lieut. Browning has an excellent record as a soldier and officer, and these charges are the first that have ever been brought against him.

The court to hear the charges consists of Lieut.-Col. Charles L. Hodges, Twenty-third infantry; Maj. Colville P. Terrett, Eighth infantry; Maj. George Bell, Jr., First infantry; Capt. Andrew W. Brewster, Ninth infantry; Capt. Samuel Seay, Jr., Twenty-third infantry; Capt. John K. Miller, Eighth infantry; Capt. Howard L. Laubach, Twenty-third infantry; Capt. Houston V. Evans, Eighth infantry; Capt. Lambert W. Jordon, Jr., First infantry; Capt. Frank Halstead, Twenty-third infantry. Capt. Miller will be judge advocate and Lieut.-Col. Hodges will be president of the court.

FAREWELL TO OFFICERS.

Cambrian Society Presents Them With Costly Tokens of Its Regard.

The farewell reception planned for former Corresponding Secretary Joseph Calvin Francis by the Cambrian society of Pittsburgh, was turned into a double farewell last night, when S. A. George, financial secretary of the organization, was unexpectedly included in the leave-taking. Mr. Francis resigned at the last regular meeting and leaves on Monday next with his wife for Pueblo, Col., where they will reside. Mr. George goes to New York to accept a position.

The double reception was held in the Sunday school rooms of the New Congregational church, Dithridge street, and was largely attended. A gold watch fob, with a diamond setting, and bearing the insignia of the Cambrian society, was presented to each of the men who are to leave, the presentation being made by the Rev. B. G. Newton, pastor of the church. Resolutions of good will were also adopted. An informal program, consisting of solos by David L. Morgan, W. E. Morgan, Thomas Lewis, David L. George, John D. Morgan, D. J. Evans and the Rev. Miss Eleanor Williams, was rendered and J. McNally Jones gave a recitation.

D. J. Rees has been selected to succeed Mr. Francis as corresponding secretary, but no one has been chosen to take Mr. George's place.

EXPLOSION IN A TUNNEL INJURES SEVENTEEN MEN

NEW YORK, Nov. 24.—Seventeen men at work in the tunnel which the Long Island railroad is excavating from Long Island City to the foot of Forty-second street and thence to the Grand Central station were injured early this morning by the explosion of a stick of dynamite at the bottom of a 70-foot shaft near Third avenue.

Plans for St. David's Day.

A movement is on foot among the members of the Cambrian societies of the Pittsburgh district to join together in celebrating St. David's day on March 1 next. Heretofore each of the branches has held its own banquet and celebration on the anniversary of the patron saint of Wales, but if the present plans materialize the thousand or more members in this district will next March unite and hold one large affair, possibly at the Schenley hotel.

CHIN YEN'S SAD DEATH MAKES CHINAMEN LAMENT

He Came for Medical Treatment, but Was Too Late and Curled Up on a Mat and Died.

Up in the Allegheny county morgue is the first identification proof that ever bore Chinese writing, and for the first time the local coroner's reports chronicle the death of a Mongolian. These innovations resulted from the pathetic death of Chin Yen, a lonely Chinaman from Columbus, O., who lay down on a mat in the rear of a Chinese store at 310 Grant street yesterday and coughed his life away. Tomorrow afternoon he will be buried in the Chinese plot in the Homewood cemetery with all the quaint rites of his native land.

Chin Yen was 34 years old and leaves a wife and some babies in a comfortable little bungalow among the rice fields on the outskirts of the city of Canton, China.

For several years, in partnership with Chin Won Gong, he conducted a flourishing laundry in Columbus. He was a sufferer from consumpton and was brought here yesterday morning for treatment, being accompanied on the journey by Chin Jung, another member of the numerous Chin family in America.

Chin Yen seemed to suffer a relapse as a result of his long ride on the train. He was the guest of Chin Mon Tong, proprietor of the Oriental in Grant street, and expected to reside there while visiting his physician.

At 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon Chin Mon Tong advised the patient to retire, and he sought a secluded room in the rear of the store and curled up on a mat on the floor. Three hours later another Chinaman found him dead. H. Samson's undertaking establishment was called upon to take charge of the arrangements for the funeral, but first reported the case to the authorities. Deputy Coroner George A. Mercer investigated the case, and following the customary routine in securing the proof of identification, caused Chin Mon Tong to sign the paper. Chin knows no English, but picked up a fountain pen and quickly scribbled two elaborate sets of hieroglyphics on the dotted lines. Over this the deputy wrote Chin's name.

The Grant street Chinaman who belong to the Chin family will provide an elaborate funeral. Last night the body was taken to Samson's, but the atmosphere of Grant street was sweet with the perfume of smoldering joss sticks. When the funeral is held there will be a dozen carriages to convey the Celestials in their best raiment. On the seat with the driver of the hearse will be a prominent member of the family who will scatter curiously printed paper checks in the path of the funeral party. This is supposed to represent money and the object of it is to cause the devils to tarry in their greedy scrambles for the money and thus allow the dead to escape.

At the foot of the grave will be placed a bottle of rice wine, a broiled chicken and, perhaps, some other edibles. The coffin will be lined with Oriental coin. The body will repose here on the bleak hillside until ordered for removal home, to be entombed forever with the bones of his ancestors.

In the meantime a cable message ticks away across the continent and under the seas to carry the news to Chin's wife and babies that he is no more.

NO CONSOLIDATION OF THE LEAGUES

BAD FEELING IS ELIMINATED

CHICAGO, Nov. 23.—President Ban Johnson came out of the annual meeting of the American Baseball league today, vindicated of the charges made against him of trying to wreck the organization by bringing about an amalgamation with the National league. In a resolution offered by Secretary Benjamin Minor of the Washington club, and voted for by every club in the league, President Johnson's management of the affairs of the league was indorsed. The resolution follows:

"Whereas, Reports have recently been published alleging a plan to combine the National and the American leagues, and connecting with this plan the name of the president of the American league; therefore, be it

"Resolved, First, that a vital principle underlying the organization of the American league having been to protect against arbitrary monopoly in baseball, the American league states emphatically that it has not receded one inch from that principle, and is now, as it has always been, in hearty and earnest accord with the policy of the president of this league, Mr. B. B. Johnson, who has consistently worked and fought for the maintenance of two independent but friendly major league organizations.

"Second, that in view of the unexampled success of the American league during the season just closed, the league hereby tenders to its president, Mr. Johnson, its sincere congratulations and offers to him its earnest thanks for the able, conservative and businesslike manner with which he has conducted its affairs. With absolute confidence in his loyalty and judgment, it has no doubt of the future and looks forward to many prosperous seasons under his guidance and in friendly competition with the National league."

President Comiskey of the Chicago American league club addressed the meeting on the resolution, saying that he had the utmost confidence in President Johnson and that his statement in regard to the proposed amalgamation of the two major leagues had been misunderstood.

There was considerable talk about the trading of players, but the only deal that is said to have gone through was the disposal of Charles Carr, formerly first baseman of the Cleveland team, to the National league club of Cincinnati.

The meeting adjourned, subject to the call of President Johnson.

During the entire session Charles Comiskey and Ban Johnson did not speak to each other. They kept as far away from each other as the limits of the rooms would permit. There was no open conflict, personal or verbal, each absolutely ignoring the presence of the other. They carefully avoided any sign of being aware of each other's presence while they were greeting the other magnates about the lobby. During the meeting neither man spoke nor looked at the other, at least not while the other was looking. The most bitter feeling prevails between Johnson and Comiskey. Each is disposed to let it go at that and keep still for the good of the league in which both are interested. Comiskey has been distrustful of the head of the American league for some time, and such remarks as gained publicity the other day have been common from all this season. He has repeatedly referred to Johnson as "fat head" and in other uncomplimentary terms. When he perceived that there was a movement on foot toward the consolidation of the two leagues, and that if it went through Johnson would undoubtedly be elected president of the amalgamated league, the veteran's wrath knew no bounds.

QUINTET OF DEATHS.

Three Accident Cases Reported to Allegheny County Coroner.

John Kleiber, aged 17, a craneman employed by the Carbon Steel Company, died at St. Francis hospital last night from a fractured skull caused while at work yesterday morning. He lived at 3804 Bank street.

Mrs. Fannie Colker, aged 55, of 26 Roberts street, died suddenly yesterday of heart disease.

Peter Scerber, a Slav, aged 22, employed in the Demmler tin plate mill at McKeesport, was caught in a belt yesterday and so badly injured that he died a few hours later in the McKeesport hospital.

Miss Roosevelt Not Seriously Ill.

HARTFORD, CONN., Nov. 23.—(Special.)—Miss Alice Roosevelt, who is at the home of her aunt, Mrs. W. S. Cowles, in Farmington, is still confined to the house, although her condition is, as previously reported, not considered serious. She will completely recover, it is said, after a needed rest.

PAUR CAPTURES HEARTS OF CLEVELAND AUDIENCE

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

CLEVELAND, Nov. 23.—The fifth annual series of subscription symphony concerts under the auspices of the Fortnightly Musical club of Cleveland, supported by eighty guarantors, was begun tonight by a concert in the Cleveland Grays' armory by the Pittsburgh orchestra. This series will consist of seven concerts, of which the Pittsburgh orchestra will give six and the Cincinnati orchestra one.

Tonight's concert was heard by nearly 3,000 people. Last season Mr. Paur won first place in the minds and hearts of Clevelanders and the enthusiasm of the audience tonight shows how easily and surely he will hold his own.

The orchestral numbers were chosen from the works recently played in Pittsburgh. The great surprise of the evening was Mr. Paur's piano playing. In the Liszt Spanish Rhapsody, at the close of the number, the enthusiasm was so great Mr. Paur gave an encore. Mr. Kunits conducted the orchestra in the Ligst number very successfully. Tomorrow night the orchestra will play at Ann Arbor.

RECEPTION FOR JUDGE EVANS.

Former Jurists and Active Statesmen Assist the Members of the Lotus Club.

A number of members and friends of the Lotus club tendered a reception last night to Judge J. A. After the reception an excellent dinner of six courses was served in the large assembly room on the third floor, at which a number of the guests made brief addresses.

WILL AID SUFFERERS.

Vice President George H. Anderson and Secretary Logan McKee of the chamber of commerce, are arranging for a wide distribution of printed copies of the resolution adopted by the organization Monday afternoon, urging public support for the relief of the sufferers of the Jewish massacres in Russia.

The Pittsburgh Chronicle Telegraph, which has announced that it will devote the full proceeds of the classified advertisement department on Saturday to the relief of the Russian sufferers, reports that the merchants of the city are responding freely to the opportunity of securing excellent advertising with the knowledge that the money so applied will be donated to such a needy cause.

MARSHALL FIELD MAY LIVE.

CHICAGO, Nov. 23.—(Special.)—Marshall Field, Jr., who shot himself in his home last evening, has an even chance for recovery, according to his physicians.

The special Lake Shore train bringing Marshall Field to this city from New York, reached Chicago at 5:30 o'clock this afternoon. The running time of the train for the trip was 40 minutes faster than that of the Twentieth Century limited.

Montana Gets a Shaking.

HELENA, MONT., Nov. 23.—A slight earthquake shock was felt about 4:30 o'clock this afternoon. No damage was done, but windows in all the larger buildings were rattled.

BLOWS ON HEAD CAUSE OF DEATH

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

ANNAPOLIS, Nov. 23.—Medical testimony today at the court-martial of Midshipman Meriwether practically reversed the opinion held yesterday morning that the manslaughter charge against the accused would fall of its own weight and the severest punishment in case of conviction could only be dismissal from the academy. Four surgeons, one of them Dr. Finley, with a world reputation as a surgical operator; Dr. Thomas the brain expert of the Johns Hopkins university, and the others, the surgeons of the academy, testified without conflict, save in minor details, that Midshipman James R. Branch, Jr., came to his death through blows inflicted in the first fight on November 5, by the accused. No cross-examination sufficed to shake this concensus of opinion, and at the close of today's session the opinion was expressed that if Meriweither was found guilty every member of the academy concerned in the fight would be dragged into criminal procedings in the Federal courts.

A notable feature of the day's work was that for the first time Attorney Rose, who represents on the prosecution the civil interests in the case, today played a prominent part, eliciting from the witnesses statements that the blows of Meriwether constituted the primary cause of Branch's death, and that the hot shower bath and the application of hot cloths to Branch's head, between the fight and hospital treatment, had nothing to do with the result.

The operation upon Midshipman Branch, consisting of lifting and folding over a portion of the skull in order to remove such blood clots as might be formed, was performed by Dr. Finney, and Dr. Thomas, the specialist in that line, came to Annapolis at Dr. Finney's request, in order to locate from the symptoms the proper place for the operation. Dr. Byrnes was called in consultation with Dr. Stone shortly after Branch had been brought to the hospital.

It was brought out that the injury, though on the right side, was occasioned by the successive fist blows on the left side of the head, the blows to the skull on one side of the head having the effect of forcing the brain against the walls of the skull on the other side, causing the compression in that way.

All the medical officers gave it as their very positive conviction that Branch died from the effect of the blows he had received in his fight with Meriwether. The cross-examination was for the purpose of proving that the death might have been due to organic weakness in Branch, or to the unskilled treatment he received from his friends after the fight and the delay in giving him in to the care of the physician. Stress was laid on the fact that no autopsy was held, and the admission was elicited that a more certain opinion as to the immediate cause of the death could be given if the autopsy had been held. Branch's family refused to permit an autopsy.

MURRAY IS CONVICTED OF FIRST DEGREE MURDER

GREENSBURG, PA., Nov. 23.—(Special.)—After almost 20 hours' deliberation and after a request to be discharged had been refused, the jury in the case of Mark Murray, charged with the murder of Mrs. Mary Orris at New Kensington, September 5, returned a verdict of guilty in the first degree. At the opening of court this morning the jury sent word to Judge Doty that it was hopelessly divided. The jury was further instructed and 15 minutes later returned a verdict.

LET YOUR STOMACH HAVE ITS OWN WAY

Do Not Try to Drive and Force It to Work When It Is Not Able or You Will Suffer All the More.

You cannot treat your stomach as some men treat a balky horse; force, drive or even starve it into doing work at which it rebels. The stomach is a patient and faithful servant and will stand much abuse and ill treatment before it "balks," but when it does you had better go slow with it and not attempt to make it work. Some people have the mistaken idea that they can make their stomachs work by starving themselves. They might cure the stomach that way, but it would take so long that they would have no use for a stomach when they got through. The sensible way out of the difficulty is to let the stomach rest if it wants to and employ a substitute to do its work.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets will do the work of your stomach for you and digest your food just as your stomach used to when it was well. You can prove this by putting your food in a glass jar with one of the tablets and sufficient water and you will see the food digested in just the same time as the digestive fluids of the stomach would do it. That will satisfy your mind. Now, to satisfy both your mind and body take one of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets after eating—eat all and what you want—and you will feel in your mind that your food is being digested because you will feel no disturbance or weight in your stomach, in fact, you will forget all about having a stomach just as you did when you were a healthy boy or girl.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets act in a natural way because they contain only the natural elements of the gastric juices and other digestive fluids of the stomach. It makes no difference what condition the stomach is in, they go right ahead of their own accord and do their work. They know their business and surrounding conditions do not influence them in the least. They thus relieve the weak stomach of all its burdens and give it its much needed rest and permit it to become strong and healthy.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are for sale by all druggists at 50 cents a box. They are so well known and their popularity is so great that a druggist would as soon think of being out of alcohol or quinine. In fact, physicians are prescribing them all over the land and if your own doctor is real honest with you, he will tell you frankly that there is nothing on earth so good for dyspepsia as Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets.

SOLDIERS NEED MORE ARMORIES

Maj.-Gen. Miller Says Proper Housing Is What Makes for Perfect Guardsmen.

HERE FOR GUARD CONVENTION

The National Guard Association of Pennsylvania will open its annual convention this morning in the Hotel Schenley. There will be the largest delegation in attendance in the history of the association. A great many delegates arrived last night, and the remainder will arrive this morning. Col. A. J. Logan, president of the association, has everything in readiness for the convention.

A business session will be held in the morning. At noon Major General Charles Miller will give a luncheon to the delegates in the hotel, and in the afternoon another session will be held, while in the evening the delegates will have a banquet. Major General Miller arrived in this city last night, and was particularly enthusiastic in speaking of the conditions of the national guard.

"We need more armories," he said. "The quarters of the soldier has much to do with perfecting a regiment. A good armory induces better men to enlist. The armory association, I understand, has had two meetings regarding the question of establishing quarters for the soldiers throughout the state. There has been $250,000 appropriated for the erection of soldiers' quarters, but that is not one-fifth required to fit out the national guard on a practical basis.

"I have been observing the armies of England, France, Germany, Belgium and Italy for the last two years, and I believe the National Guard of Pennsylvania could put the soldiers of Germany to flight at any time. The national guard is not equipped like the German soldiers, but in comparing the character of the men, the National Guard of Pennsylvania is much superior. The same comparison holds good with the other representative armies of Europe. I believe the national guard today is in a better state of perfection than ever."

Adjutant General Thomas J. Stewart is also interested in the question of armories. He believes the future of the national guard depends on the establishment of armories. He believes quarters should be provided for the companies scattered throughout the state.

The meeting of the armory association in Harrisburg two weeks ago, was for the purpose of organization. Adjutant General Stewart said a number of applications were received from companies throughout the state. The towns where these companies are located offered to give sites if armories are built. No action was taken on these applications. Adjutant General Stewart refused to reveal the companies and regiments which made applications.

Brigadier General John A. Wiley arrived last night. He is making his headquarters at the Seventh Avenue hotel. Col. John P. Penny and Col. A. J. Logan have invited the members of the court-martial now in session at the Butler street arsenal to attend the banquet this evening. Capt. A. W. Brewster of Company B, Ninth United States infantry, is to be a guest at the convention.

PARTIAL PARALYSIS

SEVERE CASE YIELDS TO DR. WILLIAMS' PINK PILLS.

Patient's Face Was So Drawn He Could Hardly Eat Or See.

Nervous people should keep a careful watch upon themselves for the symptom generally described as nervousness is often the first sign of serious illness. The person who gives Dr. Williams' Pink Pills a trial for nervousness is not only taking the best possible treatment, but is also insuring against severe nervous disorders, such as partial paralysis and locomotor ataxia, which these pills have cured when ordinary treatment failed.

"I had been feeling badly for a long time," said Mr. Harry Bemis of Truthville, Washington Co., N. Y., "and in the early part of September, 1902, I was compelled to quit work on account of my ill health. My trouble was at first extreme nervousness, then my sight became affected and I consulted an oculist, who said I was suffering from paralysis. He treated me for some time, but I got no benefit. I tried another doctor and again failed to obtain any relief. My nervousness increased. Slight noises would almost make me wild. My mouth was drawn so I could scarcely eat and one eye was affected so I could hardly see. I had very little use of my limbs, in fact I was almost a complete wreck.

"I am all right now and am at work again. That is because I followed my wife's advice and took Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. She had used the remedy herself with the most gratifying results and she persuaded me to try them when it appeared that the doctors were unable to help me.

"They acted very surely in my case, for my face came back into shape and much sooner than I expected I was entirely well. They simply worked wonders for me, as every one in this place knows, and I am glad to help others by telling the story."

The reason why Dr. Williams' Pink Pills effect such remarkable cures is because they purify and enrich the blood, which nourishes the nerves and gives strength to every organ of the body. They have cured obstinate cases of neuralgia, nervous prostration, sciatica, insomnia, as well as of partial paralysis. They are also the best tonic in all cases of weakness, as the energy required for the daily work of life all comes from the blood. All druggists sell them. Write the Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Schenectady, N. Y., for further information.

COMPOSER PLAYS HIS INDIAN OPERA

THE LIBRETTO IS ALSO READ

A piano illustration of the Indian opera, "Poia," now being completed by Arthur Nevin, was given in the home of Mr. and Mrs. John C. Slack in Shields, last night as the second of a series of subscription concerts.

Mr. Nevin played selections from the opera, while the libretto was read by Walter McClintock of Shadyside, who accompanied Mr. Nevin through the far west when the latter obtained the material for the production from the Indians themselves. There were 200 guests to hear the recital.

The libretto, which is by Randolph Hartley, carries through it the thread of a beautifully woven Indian legend, with a story of love and romance that lends further fascination. A fair synopsis is as follows:

Act 1—The scene is the tribal camp of the Blackfeet on the prairies, with the snow peaks of the Rocky mountains in the distance. Poia, a young man of humble origin, is scorned by the tribe on account of the mystery surrounding his birth, and is ridiculed because of the strange scar which disfigures his face. He has a deep and apparently hopeless love for Natoya, the daughter of a prominent chief, and the most beautiful woman of the tribe. Natoya loves Sumatsi, a noted warrior and hunter, but a man of evil heart.

Journey to Home of the Sun.

In order to be rid of Poia, she tells him she will not accept him as her lover unless he removes the scar from his face. In despair, Poia seeks the advice of Nenahu, a kind and wise medicine woman. She reveals to him that the Sun God placed the scar upon his face and that only the Sun God can remove it. Poia starts on a journey to seek the home of the sun.

Act 2—Poia is seen at daybreak in a deep forest among the mountains. He has endured many hardships and passed through great dangers. He is disheartened and almost exhausted, when he sees the sun rising. Falling on his knees, he suddenly beholds the Sun God seated in his court, surrounded by his followers, chanting together in worship. Poia remains in the court and wins favor with the Sun and the Moon, his wife, by saving the life of Morning Star, their only son. The Sun God removes the scar from Poia's face and bids him return to the earth, bearing to his people pardon for their sins, and to instruct them in the worship of the Sun, Moon and Morning Star. When Poia leaves the sky, Morning Star shows him the Wolf Trail (Milky Way), the short path to the earth, and gives him a magic flute and a wonderful song that will enable him to win the heart of the maiden he loves.

Act III.—After Poia's departure, misfortune continually follows the Blackfeet. The curse he bore alone fell upon the tribe. They are seen camped on the prairies close to the mountains in the "Moon of Flowers" (late spring). The people blame Natoya for the troubles that have come upon them, but, in her complete infatuation for Sumatsi, she does not heed their taunts.

Poia's Magic Song.

During a love scene between Natoya and Sumatsi the magic song of Poia is heard in the distance. Natoya is entranced. A new, pure love for Poia enters her heart and with it comes a sudden feeling of revulsion towards Sumatsi. Poia returns to the Blackfeet bearing the Sun God's message and is welcomed by the tribe as a great prophet. Natoya, now realizing her own unworthiness, seeks Poia's blessing. Sumatsi comes upon them together and in a jealous rage strives to kill Poia. But Natoya shields his body and herself receives the death wound. Sumatsi again attempts to kill Poia, but the heavens open and the Sun God appears. He strikes down Sumatsi with a bright shaft of light and calls Poia and Natoya to the sky. Bearing the dying Natoya in his arms, Poia mounts upwards towards the Sun and disappears from sight, all the people kneeling in awe and reverence.

The music to which the opera has been set by Mr. Nevin is strikingly novel and fascinating, he having studied the melodies of the original music in the country. The characters as supplied by the libretto are as follows:

Indian.	English.	Character.
Poia	Star Face	Prophet
Sumatsi	Evildoer	A Warrior
Natosi	The Sun	Sun God
Episua	Morning Star	Son of Natosi
Natoya	Blessed One, Daughter of a chief
Nenahu	Medicine Woman	Magician
Kokum	The Moon, Mother of Morning Star

Maidens of the Four Seasons.

ICE SKATING BEGINS.

Season of 1905-06 Will Open This Evening at Duquesne Garden.

Popular Night Feature.

Duquesne garden will be opened at 7:30 this evening for ice skating, and at 8 o'clock Nirelle's Fourteenth Regiment band will start the skating season of 1905-06 to the strains of a new waltz, "The Duquesne Garden Girl."

A feature for this season will be "popular nights." Every Monday eveing has been selected, when only the latest popular music and request pieces will be played. A souvenir program will be presented each lady on popular nights. A souvenir program will also be presented every lady this evening.

Hockey, the popular winter sport, is another feature on the garden repertoire. Pittsburgh is to have an all-star seven this winter, and those who should know predict the championship of the International league for this city. The first big league games will be played at the garden December 12, 14 and 16 with the American 500 as the attraction. The Intercollegiate hockey series between Yale and Princeton or Toronto universities, as well as the fancy dress carnivals and the championship speed skating races, will take place as usual. This will be the ninth season of the garden.

Discuss Future Policy.

The first meeting of the Professional Women's club this season was held last evening in the Allada school, Fifth avenue, Bellefield. Although it had been suggested that the club take up some definite form of work during the coming year the decision of the members last evening was for the continuance of the present policy of the club, which has more of a social character than otherwise, and promote a degree of helpfulness, an interchange of thought between the women of the different professions in Pittsburgh and Allegheny. Membership in the club is limited to professional women and specialists in their respective arts or sciences. The annual meeting of the club will be held in December.

SOCIETY

ONE of the most brilliant of the season's debutante affairs was the reception and ball given last evening by Mr. and Mrs. William Holdship Rea to introduce to their friends their daughter, Miss Marjorie Rea. Miss Stanton of Brooklyn, N. Y., Miss Rea's visiting friend, received with the young debutante and her mother, both of whom were in white, as was also Miss Stanton. Until 12 o'clock there was no dancing, only the reception being in progress, but after that hour two cotillion figures were danced, Clinton L. Childs and Miss Rea leading the first, with James C. Rea and Miss Stanton leading in the second. The favors were great sunflowers of pink crepe paper and smaller flowers, which were fastened to the men's coats by means of small green burs. Handsome beaded purses were distributed in one figure and there were also tiny plaid golf hats and wipers of green, surmounted by red-coated golfers. The ball room and supper rooms of the Pittsburgh Golf club, where the entertainment was conducted, were handsomely decorated for the occasion. The great fireplaces in the ball room and its alcoves, which serve at times for reception and dining rooms, were banked thickly with palms and maidenhair ferns, the fireplace and hearth in the ball room being massed with Boston ferns and tropical plants. Branches of smilax were fastened to all the side lights by means of two yellow roses, and around the entire length of the balcony railing and up the banisters the vine was trailed in profusion. The debutante bouquets, of which there was a great variety, were placed about on the mantel and on the gallery railing. Baskets of small flowers formed the centerpieces on the supper tables.

Mrs. McKelvy's Second Reception.

It was a charming affair at which Mrs. William M. McKelvy of Fifth and College avenues was hostess yesterday afternoon. As on the day previous the guests had been asked to meet Mrs. J. P. E. Kumler of Washington, D. C., mother and house guest of the hostess. The hours were from 3 until 6 o'clock and during that time a delightful musical program was given by Miss Ellis and Miss McDuffin, accompanied by Miss McNally. Mrs. Kumler, wearing a modish toilette of gray crepe, received with her daughter, who was gowned in an exquisite creation of white chiffon with trimmings of Irish lace and lavender velvet. The decorations for the reception were simple but tasteful. Oncidium and lavender orchids were on the table in the dining-room, where the mantel was effectively banked with fern-leaf ferns and other greenery. A vase of American Beautty roses was the only adornment in the library, while yellow chrysanthemums were used in the hall. The same flowers, in white, made a pleasant contrast to the rose tones of the drawing-room, the lights in which apartment were shaded in pink. Mrs. McKelvy was assisted by Mrs. James Dickson, Mrs. James L. Buchanan, Mrs. T. D. Davis, Mrs. Samuel E. Gill, Mrs. Edward H. Bigelow, Mrs. John M. Patterson and her daughter, Mrs. L. C. Fuller of Chicago; Mrs. William E. McKelvy, Miss Florence Aldrich, Miss Sara Shaw and Miss Jane Rea.

McKennan-Rankin.

The wedding of Miss Rebecca Stockton McKennan, daughter of Mrs. Margaret S. McKennan of East Malden street, to Prof. Wilbert Homer Rankin, principal of the Knoxville schools, was solemnized at the home of the bride last evening, the Rev. W. E. Siemmons of the First Presbyterian church officiating. Max Moorehead of Kittanning was best man, and Miss Henrietta McKennan, sister of the bride, maid of honor. Mary, Margaret and Annie Oliphant, nieces of the bride, and Thomas McKennan, a nephew, were the ribbon bearers. The bride was given away by her brother, Dr. T. M. T. McKennan of Pittsburgh. A wedding supper and reception folowed the ceremony, after which the couple left for an eastern wedding trip. The bride is a graduate of the Washington seminary. Mr. Rankin is a graduate of Washington and Jefferson college and a member of the Kappa Sigma fraternity. Dr. Thos. Reed, G. W. Reed, Miss Eleanor Reed, Miss Mathilda Reed, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph H. Moore, Miss May Marquis, Dr. and Mrs. Moore S. McKennan, W. W. McAdams, W. W. Murray and Miss Beth Buchanan, all of Pittsburgh, attended the wedding.

Use Grapes as Decorations.

Bunches of grapes were used as a most effective chandelier decoration above the tea table at Mrs. Charles Parkin's reception yesterday afternoon. The affair was given from 4 until 6 o'clock at the North Negley avenue home of the hostess and her daughter, Miss Alice Parkin, who also received. Their guests of honor were Mrs. William Metcalf Parkin and Mrs. Benjamin Dangerfield, Jr., both of whom are recent brides. On the table below the chandelier, the globes on which were shaded with autumn leaves, was a centerpiece of white chrysanthemums. Yellow chrysanthemums stood in great clusters about the library and drawing room, and the hall was wholly in green. The assistants for the afternoon included Miss Hazel Chapman, Miss Alice Dangerfield, Miss Florence Dangerfield, Miss Estelle Brown, Miss Alice Torrance, Miss Elsie McCutcheon, Miss Marguerite Scott and Miss Helen Wood.

Tea in Shadyside.

There was no special guest of honor at the tea given yesterday afternoon by Mrs. George Lyman Peck of Amberson avenue, Shadyside. Mrs. Peck received her friends from 4 until 6 o'clock, being assisted by Mrs. James Turner, Mrs. Walter Woodford, Mrs. William MacClay Hall, Jr., Mrs. William C. Cushing and Mrs. William A. Zahn. The hostess was gowned in lavender flowered with satin with panels of white hand embroidery in the bodice and skirt. The decorations were a little out of the ordinary, the centerpiece on the table being an artistic combination of white Roman hyacinths and green grapes arranged in a dainty basket, the handle of which was tied with a delicate shade of green ribbon. An immense cluster of vari-colored chrysanthemums was the sole adornment of the back parlor, the front one having simple clusters of pink roses.

Entertains for Sisters-in-Law.

In honor of her brother's wife, Mrs. S. B. Hartwell and Mrs. Charles Munroe, another sister-in-law, Mrs. Robert Munroe, Jr., of North St. Clair street, gave a reception yesterday afternoon from 2 until 5 o'clock. Her assistants were Mrs. S. L. Boggs of Salt Lake City; Mrs. John DeV. Singley, Mrs. Frederick Davidson, Mrs. E. M. West, Mrs. E. R. Munroe, Mrs. W. J. Carlin, Mrs. C. Parry Kiefer, Mrs. James Munroe, Mrs. J. J. M. Wilson, Miss Olive Munroe, Miss Emma Gilchrist, Mrs. Joseph Boggs and Miss Nellie Fleming. Clusters of golden corn on the cob were tied about the dining-room, where the table had a centerpiece of yellow chrysanthemums and the lights were capped with shades in the prevailing color. Pink was the color carried out in the drawing-room where roses were used and in the library yellow primroses predominated.

Mrs. Balken's Luncheon.

Mrs. Henry Balken's beautifully appointed luncheon yesterday was in honor of Mrs. William B. Boggess, a bride of the summer, who was Miss Helen Macbeth. In addition to the honor guests, covers were laid for Mrs. W. Edgar Reed, Miss Katherine Reed, Mrs. James Henry Lockhart, Mrs. Edward Duff Balken, Miss Harriet W. Balken, Miss Martha Heron, Miss Emily C. Lyon, Miss Anica Humbird, Miss Georgia Neals Heard, Miss Trump of New York, Miss Brundeo of Oil City and Miss Narcisse Kennedy. The decorations were in yellow chrysanthemums, corsage bouquets of the same forming the favors. The place cards, which were retained by the guests as souvenirs, were dainty miniature affairs.

Has Out-of-Town Guests.

Miss Ellen Rue Trump of Philadelphia, Miss Helen Smith of Wheeling, W. Va., Miss Eleanor Watt of Overbrook and Miss Elizabeth Butler of Sandusky, O., were the out-of-town guests at Mrs. J. Goodrich Ruple's bridge party yesterday afternoon. The affair was given at the home of the hostess in Maryland avenue in honor of Miss Ethel Marie Griffin and her visiting friend, Miss Dorothea Guthrie of Zanesville. Eight tables were called into play and pink and white chrysanthemums formed the decorations. The prizes were taken by Miss Irene Slocop, Miss Bessie Garrison, Miss Florence Brace and Mrs. Bernard W. Lewis.

Bride-Elect Is Honor Guest.

Miss Laura Schwerd, whose marriage to Dr. Charles C. Stanton of Sharpsburg will be an event of the early winter, was honor guest yesterday at an afternoon tea which her sister, Mrs. J. Howard Myers, gave from 2 until 5 o'clock. Mrs. Harry B. Fisher, a recent bride, received with the hostess and the bride-elect, while assisting them were Miss Lillie Fisher, Miss Edna Geyer, Miss Norma Pritchard, Miss Gertrude Langenheim, Miss Lenora Schwerd, Miss Flora Langenheim, Miss Dietrich, Mrs. Charles Burgoyne and Mrs. Charles Lindsay.

Two Guests Share Honors.

Mrs. Oscar Tyron of Auburn, N. Y., and Miss Jessie Graves of Columbus, O., shared honors at the reception given yesterday afternoon by Mrs. John E. Potter of Elgin avenue, East End. Pink roses in the drawing room, yellow chrysanthemums in the dining-room and white chrysanthemums in the library carried out effective decorations. The hostess was assisted informally by Mrs. H. T. Patterson, Mrs. William T. Potter and Mrs. M. G. Potter. The afternoon's entertainment was followed in the evening by a second similar affair, at which Mr. Potter received with his wife.

Dance Celebrates Anniversary.

In celebration of their 15th wedding anniversary Mr. and Mrs. Edward Pitcairn of Craig street gave an enjoyable little dance in the Conservatory of Music, Dithridge street, last evening. Miss Mason of Mercer and Miss Hamilton of New Castle, house guests of the hostess, received with her and her husband, Mrs. Pitcairn wearing a dainty toilette of pink crepe de chine, while Miss Mason and Miss Hamilton each appeared in white. Pink chrysanthemums and greens were used to decorate both the dancing hall and the supper rooms.

Mrs. Dinkey's Reception.

Three hundred guests were received yesterday afternoon from 2 till 5 o'clock by Mrs. Charles E. Dinkey at her home in Braddock. Mrs. Dinkey was assisted in receiving by Mrs. C. M. Schwab, Mrs. A. C. Dinkey, Mrs. Benjamin A. Maggini, Mrs. John F. Mock, Mrs. Edward A. Hamilton, Mrs. Joseph E. Schwab, Mrs. Harry Sheldon, Mrs. John F. Lewis, Mrs. Webster R. Balsinger, Miss Dinkey and Miss Louise Seidle. The aids and their husbands were entertained at dinner in the evening, after which a dinner dance was held.

Recital at Carnegie Hall.

The annual recital of the vocal pupils of William M. Stevenson attracted a large and fashionable audience to the Carnegie Music hall last night. Those who participated were Miss Rosalie Huston, Miss Clara Merz, Miss Elizabeth McKelvey, Miss Winifred Gross, Miss Odessa Sweitzer, Miss Callie O'Neil, Miss Elma Barker, Miss Roberta Elliott, Miss Mabel Mahaffey, Harry Yahres, George Theodore Sulzner, S. Grafman, Edward Sweeney and Master Harry Sakolsky. Harry G. Edmunds was accompanist.

Gives Small Bridge Party.

Miss Elizabeth Hudson of Walnut street was hostess at a very small and informal bridge party yesterday afternoon in honor of Miss Marie Aikins of Edgewood, one of the season's debutantes. Miss Aikins' visiting girl friends also shared the honors, and the prizes were awarded to Miss Alice Denniston and Miss May Thomas. Miss Hudson will entertain Miss Helen Falls of New Castle over the dance which is to be given by Mr. and Mrs. J. K. Aikins in the Edgewood club on Monday evening.

Home from Friendship Hill.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Albert Painter of Western avenue, Allegheny, and their family have just returned from their summer home in Friendship Hill. They made the journey home on Mr. Painter's steam launch. Mrs. Painter's mother, Mrs. Charles E. Speer, and her other daughters, Miss Mary Speer and Miss Louise Speer, are also home from Friendship Hill, having come down last week. As the Speer connection is still in mourning, Miss Mary Painter will not come out this year.

Mrs. Guthrie to Be Hostess.

Mrs. Robert Walker Guthrie of Howe street, East End, will be hostess at a reception this afternoon to meet her daughter-in-law, Mrs. John Brandon Guthrie, who was formerly Miss Agnes Denniston Crookston, a bride of October. The hours are from 3 o'clock until 6, and Mrs. Guthrie's assistants will include Mrs. John Woodwell, the Misses Sellers, Mrs. Francis Sellers Guthrie, Mrs. Francis J. Lemoyne and the Misses Guthrie.

One in a Series of Dinners.

Mr. and Mrs. Augustus P. Burgwin entertained last evening at their residence in Craft avenue, Oakland. The entertainment was a dinner, one in a series of similar affairs which Mr. and Mrs. Burgwin have been giving on Thursday evenings through the fall. Covers were laid for 10 guests, who later attended Mr. and Mrs. William Holdship Rea's reception and ball in the Pittsburgh Golf club.

Mrs. Beggs Will Entertain.

One of the delightfully informal affairs of the week will be the luncheon which will have for its hostess Mrs. Harry Clyde Beggs. The affair will be given on Saturday at the home of the hostess in Bidwell street, without any special guest of honor. Covers will be laid for a dozen guests.

Engagement Is Announced.

Announcement is made of the engagement of Miss Edna Gertrude Dickson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David Dickson of Center avenue, East End, and David Lee Warden of the Washington National bank of this city.

Notes of Society.

A masquerade party will be given at the home of A. S. Warner in Oakmont this evening in honor of Miss Julia Warner.

Mrs. L. Halsey Williams gave a luncheon of eight covers yesterday at her home in Shields. It was the first of a series which she is to give. Bridge was played during the afternoon.

The Bellevue Outing club, composed of the young men of the borough, held the first of a series of winter receptions in Masonic Hall, Bellevue, last night. Dances will be held at regular intervals throughout the winter.

Mrs. George A. Gormley of "The Barracks" entertained yesterday afternoon with a bridge whist party in honor of Miss Margaret Hale of Keene, N. H. The latter is the house guest of Miss Fredericka Hays, a niece of the hostess.

A handsome luncheon was given yesterday by Mrs. W. C. O'Reily at her home in Crafton. The guests were members of the various clubs to which Mrs. O'Reilly belongs. After the luncheon 500 was played at 18 tables. White chrysanthemums and American beauty roses were used in the decorations.

Word has been received of the marriage of Miss Cora D. Crooks, daughter of Mrs. Sadie M. Crooks of Oakdale, to Norman B. Hoffman of Norristown. The wedding took place at Harrisburg. Mr. and Mrs. Hoffman will live in Norristown. The bride is a graduate of Washington seminary, and well known socially.

THE CLUBS

Contributions to this department must bear the name and address of the writer to insure attention.

Roll-Call of Short Story Writers.

The roll-call of "American Writers of Short Stories," given yesterday by Mrs. Charles Keller before the Thursday Afternoon club of Wilkinsburg was a long one, the names of a large number of contributors to recent literature being called. Mrs. Keller's paper was a particularly interesting one with bright sketches of the life of each writer, showing their distinctive traits of character. Her list included the names of W. D. Howell, Conan Doyle, Mark Twain, Frank R. Stockton, Ernest Thompson-Seton, Richard Harding Davis, Sarah Orne Jewett, Elizabeth Stuart Phelps Ward, Louise M. Alcott, Kate Douglass Wiggin, Edward Everett Hale, George W. Cable, Thomas Nelson Page and Joel Chandler Harris. Every section of the country has been covered by these writers, who have treated of almost every phase of life and temperament. "The government and Religion of Canada" was discussed by Mrs. R. W. Allison and Miss Jean Hunter, who brought out the fact that the Catholic religion is most prevalent, though the Protestants have the most wealth. Miss Bess Goldie was the leader yesterday. The meeting was held in the home of Mrs. W. M. Binckley in Kelly street, Mrs. George Denholm being joint hostess with Mrs. Binckley. Several new members were received into the club. The next meeting will be on Thursday, December 14, when Miss Genevieve Hasson will be hostess at her home in Mifflin avenue, Wilkinsburg.

Will Elect Supervisor.

At the annual meeting of the Pittsburgh and Allegheny Free Kindergarten association tomorrow morning, in the Kindergarten college, Fifth avenue, Oakland, a supervisor of the schools will be elected to fill the vacancy caused a few weeks ago by the death of Miss Georgia Allison. One of the officers last evening said that if Miss Mary Bakewell, the secretary of the association, would accept the position she would be the first choice of the association. But Miss Bakewell has already asked for a leave of absence on account of her health, and would have left before this but for the annual meeting and the extra duties which have fallen upon the members of the faculty since Miss Allison's death. Her work has been shared during the last few weeks by Miss Elizabeth Culp, the principal of the college, and Miss Alice Snyder of the faculty, and they will continue the extra work until January. Several out-of-town candidates are under consideration. The work of the supervisor covers the 65 schools now under the general direction of the association. The annual meeting will be held tomorrow morning at 10:30 o'clock. An address will be delivered by the Rev. Dr. J. Kinsey Smith of the Shadyside Presbyterian church. There will be the annual election of officers and reports covering very phase of the work of the association.

Expect to Clear $1,000.

The annual charity euchre for the benefit of the East End hospital blanket fund was unusually successful yesterday, and the women in charge anticipate realizing $1,000 from the entertainment. The euchre was given in the ballroom of Mrs. John C. Ober's residence in Beacon street, overlooking Schenley park, and 60 tables were surrounded by the guests. The ballroom was simply decorated with chrysanthemums. The 60 prizes were arranged at one end of the ballroom. They were in silver, cut glass and bric-a-brac, and were awarded at the close of the game, which was six-hand euchre. Mrs. Ober's assistants during the afternoon were Mrs. E. H. Straub, Mrs. A. A. Frauenheim, Miss Lucy Ober, Miss Emma Ober, Miss Katherine Vilsack, Miss Marie Moorhead, Miss Matilda Ober, Miss Elizabeth Ober, Miss Bessie Heyl, Miss Josephine Heyl, Miss Josephine South, Miss Marie Friday, Miss Harriet Carver, Mrs. Charles Gerwig, Mrs. Charles Dixon and two house guests, Miss Anna Brill of Philadelphia and Mrs. Horace Luckenbach of Allentown. For the accommodation of the guests carriages were in waiting at the Wightman and Forbes street entrance to carry them to the house.

Discuss New England Writers.

The Women's club of Braddock held its regular bi-weekly meeting yesterday afternoon in the Carnegie library. Mrs. W. B. Decker was the leader and an interesting program was presented. Miss Gertrude Jones read a paper on "Whittier as a Painter of New England Scenery and Religious Life;" Mrs. A. W. Scholey gave readings from "Snowbound;" Mrs. Frank L. Bridges talked of Emerson and Mrs. V. E. VanKirk discussed "Transcendentalism and the Brook Farm Experiment." Mrs. Robert W. Russel and Mrs. William A. Clementson were elected members.

Lecture on Modern German Poets.

George Seibel spoke last evening before the Germanic society and its guests of the "Lyric Poets of Modern Germany," calling attention to such names as Richard Dehmel, Arno Holz, Dr. von Liliencron, Konrad, Nies and Ricardo Fuch. Mr. Seibel was introduced by the secretary, Richard Skalweit, who announced a plan of entertainment in store for the members of the society during the winter, the first of which will be a production of Sudermann's Magda, read by members of the society, in December.

Complete Arrangements on Monday.

At the meeting of the Young Women's Christian association of the East End on Monday afternoon, November 27, arrangements will be completed for the annual dinner and bazar to be held Tuesday, December 5, from 5 o'clock until 9 Braun's auditorium, South Highland avenue, East End. The women will meet at 1 o'clock to sew and to complete the details for heir annual entertainment.

First Entertainment in New Rooms.

The first entertainment of the series to be given by the Edgewood club in its new club rooms will be "Paper Chase," a three-act comedy, December 14. January 30, Alfred Goodby's "My Uncle, the Colonel," will be presented. Mr. Goodby, who will take the leading role, will coach the players.

Kappa Kappa Gamma Luncheon.

The Pittsburgh Alumnae association of Kappa Kappa Gamma will meet in McCreery's dining-room tomorrow afternoon at 1:30 o'clock for lunch and business. All Kappas, whether members of the association or not, are cordially invited to be present.

United Presbyterian Women to Meet.

The regular monthly meeting of the United Presbyterian Women's association will be held this afternoon in the United Presbyterian building, Ninth street.

A. F. of L. Peremptorily Shuts Off Brewery Workers and Settles Long Standing Dispute.

BUILDING CRAFTS AGREE

"Yesterday we sailed the great lakes and ploughed the raging main until we all became seasick; now if we hear much more of the Brewery Workers' troubles I fear that we shall all become intoxicated. Therefore I move the previous question."

Thus W. D. Ryan, secretary-treasurer of the Illinois miners, yesterday afternoon stopped discussion that had gone on in the American Federation of Labor convention for hours, consuming time and money—it takes about $4 per minute to run the convention—over the troubles among the crafts employed in the breweries of the country. The brewery workers claim that they should control the firemen and engineers, the same privilege that is extended to the mine workers, who control all classs of labor about the mines. The convention, however, was against them as they ordered the makers of amber fluid to have all workmen in other crafts join their respective organizations. The vote against the brewery workers was largely in the majority, so great that neither a division nor roll call was asked for.

This fight has been on for several years. There was trouble between the engineers and firemen, and the breweries of St. Louis and Belleville, Ill., and the brewery workers furnished men to run the steam-making and motive end of the breweries, from their union. They were ordered to cease such practice by the convention at San Francisco last year and refused. Now they have been ordered to again abide by the decision of the convention, which laid a resolution for arbitration on the table and adopted the mandatory one.

"On the Bricks" for Months.

The brewery workers are in a vast majority of the craft, and cited instances of how two engineers had tied up a whole brewery by going on strike and how 61 engineers had kept over 1,500 of their men "on the bricks," as it was expressively put, for 15 months, by working while the 1,500 struck.

While it required hours to settle the brewery workers' dispute, the trouble between the carpenters and woodworkrs was disposed of in 19 minutes. Ever since the convention opened the delegates of the two great crafts, which erect the homes of the country and make the furniture for them, have been together with President Gompers, and as outlined in The Gazette several days ago, their troubles have been taken out of the hands of the convention. Last evening President Gompers read an agreement signed by the delegates of the trades for a conference in Indianapolis January 25, 1906, at which time it is expected that the two crafts will arrive at a definite understanding. President Gompers will attend the conference in an advisory capacity. The woodworkers withdrew a resolution asking for the expulsion of the carpenters and now all seems lovely between the great crafts.

This all occurred after the brewery workers had monopolized almost the entire day, except for about half an hour while President Gompers, on behalf of the local committee of arrangements, was being presented with a solid silver tea service and all the members of the executive council with gold emblems of the American Federation of Labor.

Driving Hoops on Barrels.

Every person believed the brewery workers were done with, when Chairman O'Connell, of the grievance committee, started the whole argument anew, by explaining the action of his committee on the dispute regarding the "driving of hoops on beer barrels in cellars and warehouses." The committee decided that in breweries where there was driving enough for one or more men that they should belong to the Coopers' union. The brewery workers objected to the explanation, and only the tact of President Gompers ended a long wrangle. The Louisville convention settled this question in favor of the brewers, and Gompers had it made a minute that this convention would not interfere with the ruling of the previous convention.

The bakers of Newark also got about 10 minutes time in the convention, when a resolution was adopted extending aid to the men on strike there. A delegate of the bakers arraigned the union men for not supporting his organization in buying only union bread, which had caused them to lose thousands of members.

During the discussion of the brewery workers' dispute in the morning socialism was injected into the arguments. Delegates Max Hays, Victor L. Berger and Max Morris got into a wrangle with President Gompers, but it ended by furnishing a little out of the ordinary run for the delegates.

The convention will not likely finish today. The Socialists will claim some attention and there are still more resolutions to act upon. An early adjournment will have to be taken today, in order that the hall can be arranged for the entertainment of the Y. M. C. A. course tonight. Officers are still to be elected, and the selection of the new meeting place made. The name of Denver probably will be submitted to the convention by Delegate Otto Thume of the Denver Trades council, but if it is, President Mitchell of the Mine Workers will oppose its consideration because of the suit against his organization, brought by the mine owners of Colorado.

NEWS OF THE NEARBY TOWNS AND COUNTRY

THREAT CAUSES MANY HEARTS TO FLUTTER

Officers Stir Town By Notifying Residents to Return Goods Taken from Wreck.

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

WILKES BARRE, PA., Nov. 23.—Residents of the little town of Falls, 15 miles north of here, on the Lehigh Valley railroad main line, are in a flutter of fear, owing to the threats of railroad detectives to arrest many of them unless dress goods valued at about $1,000 are returned to the company.

A wreck occurred near the town two nights ago, and among the wrecked freight cars, was one which spilled over the tracks a lot of silks, laces, shawls and fine dress goods. Many of the townspeople flocked to the scene. When the wreck was cleared up it was discovered dress goods to the value of about $1,000 were missing.

Detectives were sent to Falls and suspicion fell upon a number of the residents. Notice was given that unless the missing articles were returned arrest would follow. Up to tonight about $500 worth have been returned.

COKE PRODUCTION AND SHIPMENT SHOW GAINS

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

CONNELLSVILLE, PA., Nov. 23.—There was a gain of nearly 6,000 tons in coke production in the Connellsville region last week, while the shipments increased almost 7,000 tons. The car supply was good. Shipments in the Masontown field made a gain of over 1,000 tons. The list of active ovens has been steadily increasing during the last five weeks. A summary of the Connellsville region for the week ended Saturday, November 18, gives a total of 23,353 ovens, of which 21,721 are in operation, a gain of 120 ovens in the total and 179 ovens in the active list.

The week's production is estimated at 278,618 tons, a total increase of 5,712 tons over the week previous. The shipments aggregated 11,936 cars, distributed as follows: Pittsburgh district, 4 289 cars; west of Pittsburgh, 6,353 cars; east of Everson, 1,503 cars. The shipments amounted to 282,787 tons, an increase of 6,737 tons over the previous week.

The Masontown shipments aggregated 2,479 cars, distributed as follows: Pittsburgh district, 236 cars; west of Pittsburgh, 2,093 cars; east of Everson, 145 cars. These shipments are estimated at 69,412 tons, or 1,344 tons greater than last report.

MISSION OPEN TO ALL.

Carmelite Fathers Will Discuss Questions of Interest to People of All Beliefs.

M'DONALD, PA., Nov. 23.—(Special.)—A one week mission, commencing Sunday morning, November 26 and closing December 3, will be given at St. Alphonsus church, McDonald, by the Carmelite Fathers of Niagara Falls. Father Paul Ryan, the noted pulpit orator, will be in charge. The subjects to be treated will be both dogmatic and moral, embracing matters of faith and morals—subjects that will interest the non-Catholic as well as the Catholic.

The question box will be one of the leading features. The Rev. Joseph A. Burgoon, the pastor, extends a cordial invitation to people of all denominations to attend the sermons.

BOTH ARE SENT TO JAIL.

Justice Croushore and Ex-Chief of Police Cooper Ale Sentenced to Serve Time.

GREENSBURG, PA., Nov. 23.—(Special.)—Justice W. B. Croushore of Monessen, on a plea of nolo contendere to a charge of extortion, was sentenced to pay the costs and go to jail for six months. Croushore was charged by John Dawson of Monessen with collecting $84 from him illegally. In passing sentence Judge Doty stated the extortion was deliberate and premeditated.

Ex-Chief of Police D. W. Cooper of Monessen, charged with having retained $300 bail money from Steve Ferkatich of Monessen, pleaded guilty and was to go free with the payment of the $300 and costs. This he failed to do and was sentenced to imprisonment for 90 days.

DEATHS IN NEARBY TOWNS.

CONNELLSVILLE—Andrew Beatty, aged 65, for 20 years mine foreman at the old Frick coke works at Morrell, died at Logans Crossing, Dunbar township. He was a native of Wales and came to Fayette county 25 years ago.

WASHINGTON—Robert Herron died at the home of his son-in-law, Eli Grable, aged 72. Mr. Herron was a member of Company I, Second West Virginia volunteer infantry, during the civil war.

UNIONTOWN—Thomas Jaquette, aged 77, is dead. He had been in the iron foundry business all his life. He is survived by his third widow and two sons, Nathaniel and Andrew.

SAVE 15 MINERS AT RISK OF THEIR LIVES

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

WILKES-BARRE, PA., Nov. 23.—The lives of 15 mine workers in the Red Ash vein No. 12, Delaware & Hudson Coal Company's colliery at Plymouth, were saved this morning by the bravery of William Evans, a car runner.

Fire broke out in the timbers at a point where there is an intake of air and the smoke was carried down the slope toward the 15 men in great volume. By the time it reached them it was so dense that their escape would have been cut off, unless they had been warned.

Evans knew this and ran down the slope. A miner running out told him his chances were 10 to 1, but he kept on, warned the men, and hurried them out. Engineer Thomas Farrell and Driver Sam Douglass, who had bravely followed him, helped to get all out safely.

BODY TO LIE IN STATE.

Dauphin County Bar and Fraternal Societies Will Attend Funeral of Judge Weiss.

HARRISBURG, Nov. 23.—(Special.)—The body of President Judge John H. Weiss will lie in state at the family residence in North Third street for two hours on Saturday morning, after which funeral services will be conducted by the Rev. Drs. J. Ritchie Smith of Market Square Presbyterian church, and George S. Chambers of Pine Street Presbyterian church. The Dauphin county bar has been invited to attend the services at the house.

Judge Weiss was a member of Robert Burns lodge of Masons and the Harrisburg lodge of Elks, the members of which have also been invited to the house. The interment will be private at the Harrisburg cemetery. According to custom, B. F. Etter, the oldest living member, has called a meeting of the Dauphin county bar for Saturday morning to take action on the death of Judge Weiss.

Halstead's Son to Enter Bank.

CONNELLSVILLE, PA., Nov. 23.—(Special.)—Robert W. Singer, who has been with the Colonial National bank since it began business, has tendered his resignation as assistant cashier and will probably go to Pittsburgh. He will be succeeded here by Willet Halstead of Cincinnati, O., a son of Murat Halstead, the author and journalist.

WEDDINGS IN NEARBY TOWNS.

NEW CASTLE—William L. Fleming, formerly of this city, and Miss Gunhilde Von Phillip of South Bethlehem, Pa., will be married December 31 in that city.

PUNXSUTAWNEY—Miss Bessie Simpson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Irvine Simpson of this place, and J. F. Crosby, were married at the Simpson home in Lindsey. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. W. O. Calhoun of Tionesta.

CUMBERLAND—Mason W. Hutson, son of Judge Henry Hutson of Raylings, this county, and Miss Estella Reynolds of Beverly, W. Va., were married at the home of the bride by the Rev. J. M. Gillum of Baltimore.

PLANNING TO ORGANIZE CONNELLSVILLE REGION

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

CONNELLSVILLE, PA., Nov. 23.—Another effort to effect an organization among the miners and coke workers in the Connellsville and Lower Connellsville regions is being made by representatives of the United Mine Workers of America. A dozen organizers are making Connellsville their base of operations.

The organizers declare the operators have ceased to be so bitter toward the movement and that the miners and coke workers show a strong desire for a union. Nearly every miner has been seen and meetings have been held to discuss the project.

The organizers frankly admit that unionizing the coke region is difficult, memories of the strike of 1903 being still fresh in the minds of many who fought for organization at that time. Just when an attempt to form a permanent organization will be made is kept a secret by the organizers.

CLOSE DEAL FOR ROAD.

Ely Syndicate Is Reported to Have Secured Control of Wheeling Traction Line.

WHEELING, W. VA., Nov. 23.—(Special.)—The sale of the Wheeling Traction Company's road, with its ramifications into Eastern Ohio, is virtually consummated. According to dispatches from New York this evening, the road will pass into the hands of the Ely syndicate whose operations in the Ohio valley have been steadily increasing of late. John J. Holloway, a Wheeling Traction director, is in New York closing the details of the transaction. The price at which the transfer will be made is understood to be about $6,000,000.

The deal will give the Ely people 70 additional miles of track, connecting Wheeling with Benwood, Moundsville Wellsburg on the West Virginia side, and Bridgeport, Bellaire, Martins Ferry and Steubenville on the Ohio side. The plans of the Ely syndicate call for a line between Wheeling and Cleveland by way of Youngstown, and a through line from Wheeling to Pittsburgh.

NOTES FROM NEARBY TOWNS.

NEW CASTLE—Many pay stations of the Bell Telephone Company in this region have been robbed recently. J. M. Boynton, manager ofr the company in this district, is trying to run down the thieves.

CANONSBURG—While John Hinn, a steelworker, was out hunting with Thomas Lewis, Sr., the latter's gun was accidentally discharged, killing Hinn instantly. Hinn was 45 and leaves a widow.

STEUBENVILLE—Thomas Freemore of Connellsville is under arrest charged with embezzling $450 belonging to Lizzie Ashman of that place. It is said he went to Italy and married. A few days ago he returned with his bride.

NEW CASTLE—With her clothing ablaze the 8-year-old daughter of Mrs. Mary Pediar rushed into the house to her mother. While playing about a bonfire her dress ignited. Her sight may be destroyed.

YOUNGSTOWN—The good roads commission for this district is planning for the improvement of 40 miles of public highways. All roads will be macadamized at a probable cost of $240,000.

UNIONTOWN—Henry Williams, colored, is dead at the Uniontown hospital from injuries received in the mine explosion at the plant of the Taylor Coal and Coke Company at Searights November 13.

FINDLAY—Mrs. D. C. Davis entertained relatives at her home today and all the guests were taken violently ill. Several hours elapsed before they were out of danger. The illness was caused by eating oysters.

M'ILVAIN STILL SORE AT MEN WHO REBELLED

Discharges Son of Republican Councilman and Demands Resignation of Market Clerk Staving.

Director E. J. McIlvain of the Allegheny public works department, yesterday discharged H. McHenry, general repairman at the City hall plant. McHenry is a son of Councilman Thomas McHenry of the Fifth ward. The latter is a Republican and worked hard at the past election for the whole Republican ticket, William Kirkpatrick fills the vacancy.

Market Clerk Henry P. Staving has been asked to resign, but has refused. He told an intimate friend yesterday that Mayor Wyman and Director McIlvain had asked him for his resignation, but that he had declared to them if he was to be let go they would have to dismiss him. Staving is on of the best-known men in Allegheny, and his circle of friends is extensive. It is said the administration is hesitating over summarily firing Staving, because of the latter's popularity.

Market Constable Al. Dietrich is in a similar position. He is credited with saying that he expects his notice of dismissal any day. Dietrich worked openly in the last election against the Citizens ticket, and declared in Republican headquarters that he was making no secret of his attitude. It is expected both Staving and Dietrich will be let go before many days.

WOMAN'S FIRST FLYER IN HIGH FINANCE ENDS QUICKLY

Mary Dorkopto's first flyer in high finance ended on the South Side yesterday when she was arrested on a charge of embezzlement, preferred before Alderman Louis Aipern by H. Wiseman, a grocer of the East End. Mrs. Dorkopto agreed to act as agent for Wiseman, at a co-operative boarding house, where the boarders each paid the expenses of the place. The first week's collections amounted to about $40, which sum the woman is said to have embezzled and then disappeared until yesterday, when she was found by a constable.

Club Nominates Officers.

The Cosmopolitan club nominated officers at its meeting, held in the club rooms, 59 and 61 Tunnel street, last night: A. H. Pawles declined renomination for president, and G. Decollier, Charles Winters and P. Malachy were nominated for the place. For vice president, W. D. Wilson, D. Murphy, C. Wilson and J. Garibaldi are the nominees. There were no nominees against F. A. Doyle, financial secretary, H. J. Hayward, treasurer, and James Gibbons, recording secretary, for re-election. The club started last year with a debt of $4,000 which has been wiped out, and a number of improvements are contemplated the coming year.

Henry Miner Returns for Trial.

NEW CASTLE, PA., Nov. 23.—(Special.)—Without requisition papers, Henry Miner consented today to go back to Franklin, to stand trial on a charge of killing Charles Gordon there last Monday evening. He was captured in Youngstown. Deputy Sheriff J. E. Daugherty of Franklin, while here, said Gordon had been shot while wrestling with Miner for the possession of a revolver.

JONAS MAY HAVE FLED TO CLEVELAND FOR SAFETY

Pittsburgh Women Tell Police That Kittanning Man May Be in the Ohio City.

August Jonas, the Kittanning man who is wanted on a charge of embezzlement, is supposed to have fled to Cleveland. Yesterday two Pittsburgh women on their way to California went to the office of Chief of Police Kohler of Cleveland and stated that Jonas had swindled their relatives out of $10,000, and that it was understood he had gone to the Ohio town. The women refused to give their names.

Jonas resided in Kittanning until a few months ago, being engaged in the pottery business. He was sued for alienating the affections of a man's wife and a verdict was awarded against him. Shortly after this he went into bankruptcy. Circulars were sent out all over the country describing the man and repeating the allegation that he had closed his business and absconded with $30,000.

BOY RUNS IN FRONT OF CAR.

Loses Both Legs and Hand and His Recovery Is Impossible.

David Lysles, aged 11, was fatally injured yesterday near his home in Walnut street, McKeesport, by a street car. Lysles is a son of John Lysles. He had been taking a ride on one of R. F. Dulaney's wagons. As the car approached the wagon from the opposite direction the boy jumped to the ground and ran directly in front of the car. He was sent to the McKeesport hospital, where it was found necessary to amputate both legs below the knees and his right hand. Part of his left hand had been ground off. His recovery is said to be impossible.

Motorman Charles Woods was so affected by the accident that he was unable to continue the run.

Does Your Heart Beat

Yes. 100,000 times each day. Does it send out good blood or bad blood? You know, for good blood is good health; bad blood, bad health. Ask your own doctor about taking Ayer's Sarsaparilla for thin, impure blood. He knows all about this medicine.

The children cannot possibly have good health unless the bowels are in proper condition. A sluggish liver gives a coated tongue, bad breath, constipated bowels. Correct all these by giving small laxative doses of Ayer's Pills. All vegetable, sugar-coated.

ASKS $5,000 DAMAGES, ALLEGING FALSE ARREST

H. P. McCarnes Enters Suit Against Alderman Fulkerson and Two Railroad Officers.

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

NEW CASTLE, PA., Nov. 23.—A suit for $5,000 damages for alleged false arrest was filed here today by H. P. McCarnes against Alderman James H. Fulkerson and Detectives W. E. Gastinger and S. R. Powell of the Pennsylvania railroad force. McCarnes alleges that he was arrested July 6 on a charge of larceny and taken before Alderman Fulkerson, where a plea of guilty was placed upon the records in spite of the fact that he was innocent and refused to plead guilty.

McCarnes says he was also denied the right to consult an attorney, was fined and only saved himself from going to jail by securing the money from friends.

McCarnes says he formerly worked in the Pennsylvania shops here, but lost his position because of his arrest and has since been compelled to work as a day laborer.

TEST WRELESS SYSTEM.

WILKES-BARRE, PA., Nov. 23.—A formal test of the wireless telegraph system invented by the Rev. Joseph Murgas of this city, was made today for Lieutenant Commander S. S. Robinson of the bureau of equipment, navy department, a number of experts and capitalists.

The system is in operation between this city and Scranton, the experimental stations having been erected some months ago in order to enable Father Murgas to perfect some of the details of the system. Messages were sent at the rate of 45 words a minute.

Free Catarrh Cure

No More Bad Breath

"My New Discovery Quickly Cures Catarrh."—C. E. Gauss.

Catarrh is not only dangerous in this way, but it causes bad breath, ulcerations, death and decay of bones, loss of thinking and reasoning power, kills ambition and energy, often causes loss of appetite, indigestion, dyspepsia, raw throat and reasons to general debility, idiocy and insanity. It needs attention at once. Cure it with Gauss' Catarrh Cure. It is a quick, radical, permanent cure, because it rids the system of the poison germs that cause catarrh.

In order to prove to all who are suffering from this dangerous and loathsome disease that Gauss' Catarrh Cure will actually cure any case of catarrh quickly, no matter how long standing or how bad, I will send a trial package by mail free of all cost. Jack London's Realistic Story

Another remarkable short story, in a class with Kipling's airship story, is "Love of Life," Jack London's description of a terrible fight against death by starvation, in December McClure's (out tomorrow). Blumenschein has made four full-page pictures, which are reproduced in color. Where do you find such fiction as in McClure's? And this is but part of a magazine which costs only 10 cents a number or $1.00 a year.

Here's Your Chance.
BELLEVUE HEIGHTS PLAN OF LOTS, AND YOU KNOW BELLEVUE.

This plan comprises 6 acres of as pretty property as could be desired. It has been divided into 12 large residence lots, averaging 100x173 feet. Each lot is limited to one house, and there is a building line of 40 feet on Bellevue terrace, all houses to face on this street, which divides the property equally.

SOME FEATURES.

Bellevue water—the clearest and best in Allegheny county.
Bellevue gas—never failing supply.

If you want a large, suburban home-site, this will please you. NOW is the time to buy, as the price is extremely low. You have only to see this property to appreciate its value. And only $25 per foot front.

I can show you some valuable business frontage at a price that will insure a splendid enhancement within the next year or two.

My list of local properties is larger than that of any other broker.

NEW YORK STOCK MARKET ACTIVE AND EXCITED

Prices Very Irregular, Members of the Same Group Showing Losses and Declines—Air Brake Was Strongest in Local Market.

By JOHN O. BAGLIN, Financial Editor.

The New York stock market was active and excited yesterday, the sales footing up 1,655,500 shares. Great irregularity in prices prevailed all day, liquidation occurring in some of the specialties, and new and confident buying appearing in stocks which have been more or less neglected of late. At the close this irregularity was the most prominent feature.

London prices for American securities were slightly lower, and foreign government bonds were all lower. The weakness was ascribed partially to developments in connection with Turkish affairs, the opinion being expressed that Turkey would not put on such a bold front unless backed by a power of the size of Germany. London's operations in the New York market, however, were not important. Initial prices were generally lower, and the real trend of the market could hardly be determined during the first two hours.

An exception to the initial weakness was Metropolitan Street Railway, which advanced on heavy buying to 12¾, and closed ¾ per cent higher than on Wednesday. While this movement was in progress Brooklyn Rapid Transit declined from 70⅝ to 70⅜, and closed at a net loss of 2⅛ per cent. The explanation for the movement in Metropolitan was the covering of an extensive short interest, while the decline in Brooklyn was probably accelerated by a flat-footed denial from President Cassatt that the Pennsylvania was buying or intended to buy Brooklyn Rapid Transit.

The irregularity noted in members of the traction group extended to other stocks more or less closely affiliated. Tennessee Coal and Iron, which had declined to 105¾ in the morning, rallied to 106⅝ in the afternoon, and closed at an advance of 1¾. Sloss-Sheffield closed ½ lower, and Locomotive 1¾ lower, while Railway Steel Spring lost 1 per cent on the day's business.

The entire smelting and copper group closed weak and lower, the loss in American Smelting common amounting to ⅝ per cent. Anaconda Copper closed 2¼ per cent lower and Amalgamated ⅝ lower, although there was another advance in the price of copper which carried the metal to the highest since 1901. Sugar, which had advanced sharply, lost all its gain and closed ⅞ lower for the day. While these industrials were selling off, United States Rubber and both the International Paper issues displayed great strength, closing at advances of 1 to 5 per cent.

The real feature of the market appeared during the afternoon session, when the pool which was so successful in Reading apparently joined forces with the bulls in Union Pacific and rushed that stock up from 133⅝ to 135⅝, which is within less than 1 per cent of the record price established last August. The gossip was that the annual report of the company would be made public soon and would be extremely favorable, particularly in the income other than that derived from operating the system. Estimates as to the earnings of the road for the fiscal year ranged all the way from 11 to 17 per cent on the common stock, and one estimate placed the profits of the company from its sales of Northern Securities stock as high as $60,000,000. Southern Pacific, however, failed to fully sympathize with the rise in Union, and closed only ⅝ higher, as compared with the net gain of 2¾ per cent for Union Pacific. St. Paul closed only ⅞ higher, while Northwest closed 1 per cent lower, and Atchison and Northern Pacific closed unchanged. There was another display of weakness in Rock Island issues, and the common closed ⅝ and the preferred 2 per cent lower. Frisco second preferred was also weak and sold off from 61½ to 57¾, closing with a loss of 4 per cent. Missouri Pacific closed unchanged for the day.

Reading was a weak feature of its group and closed at a loss of 2⅞ per cent. Baltimore & Ohio closed ½ higher, Pennsylvania ⅝ higher and Erie ⅝ lower.

Call loans were steady and unchanged at 5 to 6 per cent. The weekly report of the Bank of France did not present any important changes. The Bank of England expanded loans to the extent of $6,530,000, and lost slightly in the percentage of reserve to liability.

Westinghouse Air Brake was the strongest stock in the local market, advancing $2 a share to 155, and closing at 154½ bid. There were no transactions in Electric or Switch and Signal. Crucible Steel was firm, the common selling at 13⅝@13¾, and the preferred advancing to 67¾. Lustre Mining was also strong, at one time selling up to 35½, but reacting to 34½ at the close. The natural gas stocks were steady and unchanged. Consolidated Gas preferred, an underlying property of the Philadelphia Company system, was weak, being offered down to 28, the lowest of the year, and closing without bid. Pittsburgh Coal preferred was firm, selling at 55⅝, and closing at 56. Independent Brewing common sold down to 14, and the preferred to 39½. Pittsburgh Brewing common was firmer at 26½. The rest of the industrial list was quiet and unchanged. A small lot of Colonial Trust sold at 340, a decline of 5 points. Pittsburgh & Allegheny Telephone 5s were ¼ higher at 85.

New York Sells Bonds.

NEW YORK, Nov. 23.—(Special.)—The sale of $12,500,000 worth of 3½ per cent city bonds took place today. Some 20 bids were received but the greater part of the issue went to Harvey Fisk & Co. and Farson, Leach & Co. on a combination bid at par, with accrued interest. The issue is dated today. These two firms obtained all except about $600,000, which went in small sums to firms bidding around 101. Controller Grout seemed well satisfied with the sale.

NOTES AND COMMENT.

While the sales in New York yesterday were the largest recorded on the present movement, almost exactly one-fifth of the total consisted of Union Pacific common, and one-half of the total was contributed by five stocks. The dealings in Union Pacific revealed concerted action on the bull side, and the most expert manipulators in the street were interested in the movement. After the rise was well under way, one prominent trader who often acts for the big pools took all the offerings at the market, and another bid 137 for any part or all of 48,000 shares. A score of times this year Union Pacific has been the rallying point of the bulls, and it has never failed in effective leadership. However, it would be difficult to convince the disinterested observer that a legitimate demand for $40,000,000 worth of Union Pacific at practically the highest price ever quoted, could spring up and insist upon satisfaction all within a space of three hours. The market value of the Union Pacific which changed hands yesterday exceeded $40,000,000.

Following is a statement of the earnings of the properties of the West Penn Railways Company, embracing the Pittsburgh, McKeesport & Connellsville Railway, the Greensburg & Southern Electric Street Railway, the West Penn Interurban Railways, the West Penn Electric Company and the Westmoreland Light, Heat and Power Company—for the year ending October 31, 1905: Receipts from lighting and power, $271,552 47; from railways, $752,283 42; total receipts, $1,023,835 89; operating expenses, $349,214 29; or 53.6 per cent of gross receipts; taxes, $10,475 87; net earnings, $464,142 66. The fixed charges included $175,575 Interest on Pittsburgh, McKeesport & Connellsville Railway bonds and other properties acquired, and $151,260 interest on $3,026,000 5 per cent West Penn Railway bonds. The net income after the payment of all interest, fixed charges, taxes, etc., was $137,474 02. This sum is only $26 short of 5 per cent on the $2,750,000 West Penn Railways preferred stock. The earnings of the railways in the system were equivalent to a little more than $8,000 per mile, which is unusually high for an interurban traction system. Following is a comparative statement of the gross and net earnings of the entire system:

	Gross.	Net.

Consolidated Gas preferred was yesterday offered down to 28 on the Pittsburgh exchange without finding a buyer. This is the lowest price ever quoted, and compares with the last sale at 31. The semi-annual dividend was reduced from 3 to 2½ per cent last August. At one time the stock sold as high as 62 on the impression that the 6 per cent dividend was guaranteed by the Philadelphia Company, which operates the plants. When it became known that the Philadelphia Company did not guarantee the dividend, but merely turned over any earnings remaining after operating expenses had been met, the stock gradually declined until it reached the present level. Consolidated Gas common stock was converted into Philadelphia Company preferred stock, which latter is quoted about 44 per cent higher than Consolidated Gas preferred.

Edward Wasserman, the New York broker who months ago made some wagers that Reading common stock would cross par, and later that it would cross 125, naturally enjoys prestige as a good prophet. Yesterday he recorded bets aggregating $5,000 that Union Pacific common would sell at 175 within a year from this date.

Speculative profit-taking was especially conspicuous in Reading, Smelting, Brooklyn Transit, Anaconda and the southern group of iron and steel stocks. Some of the late rumors which have circulated in connection with the operations in all of these stocks have been so little credible that those who had bought on the strength of them were easily thrown into apprehension upon their denial. A bad effect upon sentiment was produced also by the evidence of a lack of support in the Rock Island group and the rapid decline in prices there under light liquidation. Rumors circulated that there was to be no dividend paid on the second preferred stock of the St. Louis & San Francisco Railroad Company, which was the weakest stock in the group. The denial of this rumor had little immediate effect in rallying the stock.

There is some talk that a dividend on Southern Pacific common will be declared next month and made payable in January.

The Electric Company of America announces an allotment of 10 per cent new stock at par to stock of record December 12.

For the year ended September 30 last the United States Fruit Company reports total net income $1,632,896, a decrease of $307,544; surplus after depreciation and dividends, $315,014, a decrease of $132,661.

The city of Baltimore has awarded the $2,000,000 3½ per cent semi-annual 48½-year dock and wharf improvement bonds to the Mercantile Trust and Deposit Company of that city at 104.85. W. A. Read & Co. of New York bid 102.096. The bids were disappointing.

While the majority of issues on the New York stock exchange show a large advance since January of this year it is notable that the Gould securities show an average decline of 2.81 per cent.

The Ohio Tonopah Mining Company has notified the Pittsburgh stock exchange of the private sale of 50,000 shares of stock, thus leaving 100,000 shares in the treasury.

"Even in the history of the bull markets it would be hard to find a longer succession of 'tips' made good than in the past two weeks. The number of stocks which have responded accurately to these advance announcements since the late money squeeze runs up to nearly a score and leaves little room for doubt that Wall street bankers of high standing are employing this means of exciting a wider interest in the market. It has had little apparent effect upon the business of wire houses, but the semi-professional people who spend most of their time in local commission offices have finally been drawn into the way of 'playing' tips even against their calmer judgment. The size of their winnings has surprised them no less than the brokers through whom they trade."—New York Commercial.

A Boston stock exchange house, which recently issued a very bullish circular on North Butte yesterday notified its Pittsburgh correspondents that it would require 30 per cent margin on additional purchases of the stock, because the heavy overspeculation had placed it in such position as to be subject to wide fluctuations.

The official price of copper yesterday rose to the highest figures reached since 1901. There were advances in Lake of ⅛c in the bid and ⅜c in the asked price to 17@17⅝c. Advances of ¼c in the bid and ½c in the asked in electrolytic to 17@17⅜c, and of ¼c in the bid and asked prices of castings to 16¾@17c.

President Cassatt of the Pennsylvania Railroad Company authorized a denial of the reports which are constantly circulated to the effect that the Pennsylvania Railroad Company proposes to acquire the Brooklyn Rapid Transit Company. Mr. Cassatt says: "There has never been any intention on the part of the Pennsylvania Railroad Company to acquire this property or take any pecuniary interest in it whatever, and it is not possible that any occasion will arise which will modify or change this position."

"GAZABO" MARKET MAKES BUSY DAY IN NEW YORK

Wise Ones Were in the Crazy Speculation in Plenty and Business Is Good.

[By Private Wire to The Gazette.]

NEW YORK, Nov. 24.—The Herald this (Friday) morning says:

Stocks were highly irregular in a riotous session on the exchange. Under enormous trading Union Pacific and a few specialties of the list of dubious character went skyrocketing higher, while many stocks of standard character defied all efforts of the bull clique to sustain them and sold off rapidly. So great was the irregularity that the market at no time could be said to show any definite tendency, but if there was one, as judged from the market at the close it was toward a lower level of prices. Speculative sentiment was mixed and naturally so in view of the day's exhibition of utterly reckless gambling in certain sections of the market, coincident with cautionary signals raised in the foreign markets, which turned heavy on bad news. This was not wholly ignored, however, as was indicated by the heavy profit-taking and distributive selling which influenced declines.

Such a market as that of yesterday cannot be judged by ordinary standards, nor can it be commented upon justly, except by getting down to the level of the recent speculation. It may be said, therefore, to adopt for a characterization the name of the high priest of the movement that it was a "gazabo" market. Precisely what this gibberish means no one knows, but on the dialectic utterances of some clown who has assumed the title of "a wise gazabo," the community has been urged to pawn their various winter garments to purchase, at reduction prices, certain stocks, which the advertiser has doubtless been selling out to them. Of course, no other purpose than to ennesh inexpert persons underlie such announcement. The strange part of the matter is that these announcements for a time seemed true, which shows that all fools are not dead yet. The entire "gazabo" element, wise and foolish, were hard at work, some buying and some trying to get out of the game without loss yesterday.

BIG ALLEGHENY SITE IS BOUGHT

BUY BACK OLD HOMESTEAD

The property formerly occupied by the Liggett Spring and Axle Company in the Fifth ward of Allegheny is understood to be under agreement of sale for a price approximating $140,000. The deal is credited to the Gordon Smith Company, but no mention of the buyer was made last night further than that the plot is being acquired as the site for a big manufacturing plant. This is one of the large sites in lower Allegheny, having a frontage of over 600 feet on the south side of Spruce street at the foot of Fayette street and 169 feet in Beaver avenue, from which it extends westward to the Pittsburgh & Western railroad. The railroad frontage is about 200 feet and there is a switch at one corner of the property. A number of old frame buildings occupy practically the entire lot. The Liggett company has not occupied the buildings for several years, and of late they have been vacant. At the price reported the lot figures at $1.33 a square foot. This week two other deals have been reported as pending for large manufacturing sites in lower Allegheny, and it is believed that at least one of them will go through.

Frick's Reputed Purchase Not Confirmed.

The fact that the Frick building, the Carnegie building and the Frick building annex are to be connected for the mutual convenience of the tenants gave rise to a rumor yesterday that H. C. Frick had bought the Carnegie building. The story, which appears very feasible on its face, received no confirmation from Mr. Frick's representative in this city. William A. Carr, financial representative of Mr. Frick here, said:

"The story has no foundation other than the connection of the three buildings that is to be made."

John E. Shaw, renting agent of the Frick building, said the connection was to be made for the convenience of the constituent companies of the United Steel Corporation, four of which are now quartered in the Frick and Carnegie buildings.

"There is a great amount of running back and forth between these offices," he said, "and the passage way to be provided will be a great saver mentally. This does not mean at all that Mr. Frick would have to buy the Carnegie building, and so far as I know no deal of this kind is pending."

The connection referred to will be a covered corridor leading from the 11th floor of the Frick building to the 14th floor of the annex and another to the 11th floor of the Carnegie building. The building has over 600 office rooms, the annex will have 400 and the Carnegie building has probably 400 offices. The Carnegie building is owned by Mrs. Lucy Carnegie, who leases it to the Carnegie Steel Company, which now occupies the entire structure. This corporation pays her a fixed income on the property and assumes the taxes, repairs and cost of running the building. The Carnegie building was erected in the hard times of 1892 and 1893 at a cost of about $900,000, which is probably a little over half what it would cost today. The lot is 100x110 feet, while the Frick building covers 150x220 feet and the annex 120x85 feet.

Old Ties Were Too Strong.

Sentiment predominated in a real estate deal of $25,000 which was made public yesterday. A few weeks ago the Brighton Heights Company bought the old S. P. Harbison property, 15 acres, in the Eleventh ward of Allegheny for $150,000. After they had parted with the property Mrs. Harbison, the widow of H. P. Harbison, and her son, W. A. Harbison, who now occupy the old homestead, decided to buy it back if possible. Accordingly they have again secured title through the office of George T. McDonald to the old Harbison mansion, a 16-room brick house and a plot 265x240 feet surrounding it and running down to Davis avenue and Brighton road. The plot extends back to Stanford road, a new street which the Brighton Heights Company will open through the property. The residence was built 21 years ago, when it was among the finest houses in Allegheny.

The Brighton Heights Company has also sold for $4,500 to James Hoag a six-room cottage on 50x120 feet which stands at the lower end of the Harbison grounds, facing in Davis avenue, near the Brighton road entrance.

Through the office of H. C. Mendel & Co., Thomas J. Janda, an Allegheny druggist, has bought from the Adam Emich estate 1017-1019 East Ohio street, Allegheny, for $16,000. The lot measures 40x120 feet and is improved with two three-story brick store buildings and two frame houses in the rear in Church avenue. The total rental is $180 a month.

The Real Estate Savings and Trust Company has disposed of a fine residence in the Perrysville district for $10,500, the buyer being Edward A. Young. The property belonged to R. D. Hunter and consists of a new center hall brick house of 11 rooms on Ivy 100 feet at the southeast corner of Perrysville and Dunlop avenues, Fifteenth ward. The buyer will occupy the place as a home.

Lively Buying in East End Wards.

East End deals are bobbing up with a frequency that is most encouraging to the brokers, who have been apparently struggling against the tide in that district for months. Yesterday Architect W. A. Thomas sold to a local business man 90x150 feet on the south side of Penn avenue, near Shady avenue, Twenty-second ward, for $15,000. The purchaser will have plans drawn at once for a residence to cost about $50,000. This will be the first residence in this square of Beacon street.

Through the office of Woods & Coleman, H. D. Kuhn has bought from Mrs. Sarah E. Leland of Los Angeles, Cal., a three-story brick house on 50x120 feet in South Highland avenue, between Alder street and the Pennsylvania railroad, for $10,000. The house rents for $60 a month and was bought for an investment.

Attorney R. G. Woodside has sold through the agency of C. G. Mitchell a three-story

SPECIAL NOT TO STOP AT ALTOONA

Gives More Time for Run of the Pennsylvania's Flyer—Heavy Movement East.

CONDUCTORS ARE PROMOTED

The Pennsylvania's 18-hour train is to cut Altoona from its stops between New York and Chicago. There are said to be two reasons for this, the main one being that more time will be given for the run. Another reason is that Altoona has not furnished a passenger for the Pennsylvania special since the train was installed last June. That may seem a hardship on the train, and also a slight one on Altoona, but it is to be remembered that the train was designed principally for the through traffic between New York, Pittsburgh and Chicago. The train will stop at the East Altoona yards for a change of engines and crews. The change will become effective with the new time card next Sunday.

Excepting the selection of a few baggagemasters and brakemen for the new Cleveland-Pittsburgh trains of the lines west, and the rearrangement necessitated by promotions to those runs, arrangements have been pretty well completed for the installation of the new service next Sunday. Three more new standard vestibule and electric-lighted coaches were received yesterday by the Pennsylvania lines west, and these will be utilized in the new Cleveland-Pittsburgh service. Arrangements have also been made by the Pullman company's district superintendent, G. H. Edwards, for the inauguration of the additional sleeping and parlor car service, including the broiler-buffet cars that will operate between Pittsburgh, Akron and Barberton. The Pennsylvania lines have already received 19 of the new coaches, and 27 more are to be delivered soon.

The two new Pittsburgh-Cleveland trains via the new Youngstown-Ravenna route will be in charge of Conductors J. C. Frederick and Daniel McClain, who have been selected out of the regular through service in their seniority and preference for the runs. Two suburban baggagemasters will be selected in the next couple of days. Increase in the regular passenger service has also necessitated the promotion of three men to passenger conductorships on the eastern division. Thomas F. Maloney and G. C. Peck, who are experienced freight conductors, and Charles W. Louthan, passenger flagman, have been advanced to passenger conductors. Two suburban passenger conductors, W. H. Anderson and C. H. Mell, have been promoted to the through service from Pittsburgh to Crestline. There will be a number of promotions in the suburban conductor list because of these changes.

Biggest Movement in P. R. R. History.

The heaviest eastbound movement on the Pittsburgh division in the history of the Pennsylvania Railroad company was that of Wednesday. There were 3,349 cars delivered from the west at Altoona in 104 trains, or more than four trains an hour for the entire day. The best record prior to Wednesday was 3,294 cars. That the enormous traffic is continuing is shown by these record-breaking figures for a single day's operations. On last Saturday the eastbound and westbound movement passing Gallitzin totalled more than 6,200 cars, which figure all but broke the high record for movement in both directions.

The coal and coke shipments have been above the million mark in tonnage for the past three weeks. Last week the total movement of coal and coke for the lines east of Pittsburgh and Erie was 1,028,647 tons. This included 682,425 tons of bituminous coal, 240,417 tons of coke and 104,805 tons of anthracite coal. The bituminous tonnage was slightly smaller than the few previous weeks, while the anthracite tonnage was larger. The coke movement has been pretty regular for several weeks.

New Pullman Commissary is Named.

Charles L. Jaycock has been appointed district commissary of the Pullman company in Pittsburgh to succeed the late E. S. Goodspeed. Mr. Jaycock has been assistant district commissary for the past 18 months, having come here from Boston, and since the death of Mr. Goodspeed he has been acting district commissary. The appointment was announced yesterday by District Superintendent G. H. Edwards. G. H. Baird, head of the commissary department of the Pullman company, spent yesterday looking into Pittsburgh conditions and conferring with Messrs. Edwards and Jaycock. The appointment of an assistant district commissary here will probably be announced in a few days.

Wabash to Build North to Pittsburgh.

It is said that all of the plans for the proposed connection between Pittsburgh and the Western Maryland system at Bellington, W. Va., have been taken from Pittsburgh to New York and that the eastern officers will handle the construction of the line from the southerly end to Pittsburgh. This will relieve the Pittsburgh officers of the responsibility of constructing the line and will thus permit their undivided attention to the improvements of the lines from Pittsburgh to Toledo and the other lake ports. It is not likely that publicity will be given any plans for the tidewater connection before next year.

Wabash to Cut Fast Freight Lines?

The report comes from Cleveland that the Wabash system is to cut out all of the fast freight lines now operating because the Wabash needs the money and can thus at one sweep cut off $300,000 from the expenses. Such a stand would be a surprise to traffic men, for it is almost as largely interested in fast freight and dispatch lines as any other road in the country. Its main line, of course, is the Gould interests' American Refrigerator Transit Company. But the following lines also operate on thhe Wabash: Canada Southern, Canadian Pacific Dispatch, Empire, Hoosac Tunnel, Lehigh & Wabash Dispatch, Ontario Dispatch, Red Line Transit Company, R., W. & O. line and Wabash & Lackawanna Dispatch. And on the Wheeling & Lake Erie are the Interstate Dispatch, Lackawanna and Nickel Plate. Should the Wabash abolish these lines it would take a stand in opposition to railroad custom.

Will Extend Low Grade Trains.

On the new schedule of the Buffalo & Allegheny Valley division of the Pennsylvania four trains in either direction on the Low grade division will be extended from Red Bank to Phillipston. This change is made because of the roundhouses and shops being located at Phillipston, where the trains had to be taken anyway. Interchange with the River division will be made as usual at Red Bank.

Case is Discontinued.

The suit of the Wabash-Pittsburgh Terminal Railway Company against the Pennsylvania company and others, an equity suit over the tearing out of a connecting switch between the plaintiff and Panhandle roads at Bridgeville, has been discontinued and the preliminary injunction dissolved on motion of the plaintiff.

Railroad Notes.

Contrary to custom the Pittsburgh & Lake Erie will give a day off on Thanksgiving for its maintenance forces.

J. S. Hartsell has been transferred from Tampa, Fla., to Philadelphia as district passenger agent of the Atlantic Coast line.

C. C. Landers, assistant general freight agent of the Wabash at St. Louis, was a visitor at the Pittsburgh offices of the company yesterday.

R. M. Patterson, superintendent of freight transportation of the Pennsylvania, has gone to London to bring home his son, Otey, who was detained there because of an attack of appendicitis.

It is said that the Chicago & Alton and some other western roads have found swindlers at work imitating baggage checks and securing baggage by presenting what are supposed to be the owner's portions of the checks.

J. B. Dickson, chief engineer maintenance of way of the Baltimore & Ohio, returned to Baltimore last night after spending the day here in conference with General Superintendent Finney and Engineer Maintenance of Way Temple.

The telegraphic announcement of the promotion of P. F. Gaines from assistant general freight agent of the Pere Marquette to general freight agent had the name incorrectly noted as P. F. Dean. Mr. Gaines' headquarters are at Detroit.

The Pennsylvania railroad yesterday awarded to F. J. Erbeck & Co. the contract for grading and paving Elder alley, in Homestead, which will be made into a 40-foot street, and paving of the new freight yards at Homestead. The contract is worth $14,000.

Space has been reserved by the Lake Shore for 318 locomotives to be built at the plants of the American Locomotive Company. Orders have been entered by the company for 50 engines for the Burlington, 30 for the Louisville & Nashville, 38 for the Boston & Maine, 15 for the Lehigh Valley and three for the Queen & Crescent.

The Pennsylvania directors at Wednesday's meeting authorized a slight change in the low grade plans for the line into Philadelphia, but took no action toward work on the Pittsburgh division. The latter probably will be taken up next year. The double-tracking of the Princeton branch will be completed in time for use of trains on Thanksgiving.

"His Last Dollar."

Mr. David Higgins, supported by Miss Eleanor Montell and a strong and capable company, will begin an engagement of one week at the Alvin next Monday evening in the third edition of his comedy-drama entitled "His Last Dollar." The play is an American character comedy written by Mr. Higgins and Dr. Baldwin G. Cooke, and tells the experiences of a rich Kentuckian, who has come east to try his hand at the New York stock exchange.

Where Smoke Troubleth Not.

Many ought to get out of Pittsburgh smoke for their health's sake, but are kept here by their business. A limited number of these can find a smoke-free habitation within 10 minutes of downtown, in "The Grandview," Mt. Washington, above the smoke line. Handsome new building, modern suites. Moderate rent. Reached by tunnel trolley line or incline. Superb view. Pure air. See Real Estate Trust Co., 311 Fourth avenue.

"Whom shall I constitute as my executor or trustee?" A little booklet recently issued by the Safe Deposit and Trust Company of Pittsburgh may help you to a wise and satisfactory solution of this grave problem. It will be mailed free upon request.

DARIEN CANAL SCHEME TO GO BEFORE CONGRESS

Dream of Years to Be Revived This Winter and the Government Asked to Finance a Waterway as a Rival of the Panama Enterprise.

[By Private Wire to The Gazette.]

WASHINGTON, Nov. 23.—That the advocates of the construction of a canal across the isthmus of Darien, which involves the tunnelling of a mountain a quarter of a mile high, will appear before congress in advocacy of that route, is the expectation of Secretary Taft. He recently received a visit from an engineer who has long believed in the Darien route. Congress having authorized the President to build the canal as he sees fit and he having turned to Panama, it would be necessary for congress to enact most sweeping legislation now to make the Darien canal anything more than the dream it has been for years. It is said that the advocates of the Darien route desire the government to lend financial assistance.

Senator Scott was always an advocate of the Darien route. Secretary Taft, in anticipation of the revival of the claims of this route, said in his recent speech at St. Louis:

"The difficulty with this route is that it requires the tunnelling of a mountain 15,000 feet high in such a way as to permit the passage of modern steamships. The length of the tunnel is more than five miles and at least 150 feet in height above the water. Modern engineering has as yet accomplished no feat equal to the arching of such a tunnel and the best evidence seems to show that the interior of the mountain is not granite or some hard rock which would hold itself in place after tunnelling, but is probably a shally or volcanic substance requiring the roof of the tunnel to be supported."

DISTURB THE GRAVE OF AARON BURR'S SWEETHEART

[Special Telegram to The Gazette.]

PRINCETON, Nov. 23.—(Special.)—Great interest has been aroused at Princeton over the disinterment of the body of a woman whose grave has remained untouched on the campus for the last 100 years.

For many years the spot, marked by an old headstone and surrounded by a line of willows, has attracted the curious attention of strangers in the town, and the university authorities have persistently left it untouched. The recent building of the 1879 dormitory near the spot has necessitated a removal of the body.

The headstone bears the date of 1794. The grave is that of Katherine Bullock who was buried in this once isolated corner of the campus at her own request. There is a story to the effect that she was a sweetheart of Aaron Burr, and a tradition of love and romance of the colonial days clinging about the old headstone, has always given the lonely grave an added interest in the eyes of those who have been curious enough to follow out the romantic story.

"Fantana" Next Week.

Thanksgiving week is probably the most popular theatergoing week in the entire year, and the Messrs. Shubert have wisely determined to use the stage of the Belasco theater at that time for the presentation of the greatest musical comedy ever—"Fantana"—in which Jefferson De Angelis is the particular star. There will be a popular Wednesday matinee, a special holiday matinee Thanksgiving day and the regular Saturday matinee, making in all nine performances of "Fantana" in Pittsburgh.

SUBPOENAS ISSUED FOR MILLIONAIRES

[By Associated Press to The Gazette.]

NEW YORK, Nov. 23.—Subpoenas were issued today for John D. Rockefeller, Henry H. Rogers, Henry M. Flagler, and other financiers to appear as witnesses in the two suits pending in Missouri to oust the Standard Oil Company and two other oil companies from doing business in the state. The subpoenas directed the witnesses to appear December 4, before Frederick H. Sanborn of this city, who was appointed by Gov. Folk to act as commissioner for the state of Missouri.

The others summoned to appear are John D. Archbold, Wade Hampton, Walter C. Teagle, James A. Moffett, W. F. Cowan, George B. Wilson, James R. Taylor, Charles L. Nichols, Edward T. Bedford, Walter Jennings, Wesley H. Tilford, Charles M. Pratt, Frank Q. Barstow, H. Clay Pierce, Silas H. Paine, Richard P. Tinsley, Robert H. McNall and Howard Page.

The suits were filed in Missouri March 29, 1905, and include besides the Standard Oil Company, the Republic Oil Company, and the Waters-Pierce Oil Company.

The first suit was brought by Attorney General Hadley of Missouri, to exclude the three defendant corporations from all corporate rights and privileges under the laws of the state of Missouri and that their franchises, rights, authority, license and certificate to do business under the laws of the state of Missouri be declared forfeited. The ground for this action was an alleged pool or trust agreement among the three companies to regulate the price paid by retail oil dealers in Missouri.

MANY ORDERS FOR MANTELS GETS AGENT IN TROUBLE

J. B. Moniger, who was an agent for the Diamond Mirror Company of 2910 Penn avenue, was committed to jail in default of $500 bail, yesterday, by Alderman Groetzinger, for a hearing Tuesday on a charge of fraud. J. A. Heddinik, secretary of the company, alleges Moniger went to persons who were building homes and solicited the contract for mantles, which the Diamond Mirror Company furnish. When he failed, as he frequently did, it is said, he made out a contract, forging the name of the builder to it and collected his commission from his firm.
